Dairy Commission Rejects Production Controls

By Karl Berger
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C.— The National Commission on Dairy Policy today recommended a more market-oriented federal dairy program, suggesting major changes in milk price supports and rejecting broad use of production controls.

In a typed, 158-page report to Congress and the Secretary of Agriculture, the Commission proposed a market-oriented formula to set the government purchase price for surplus dairy products.

Use of the formula, the Commission said, would help keep milk supplies in line with demand and should cut costs through reduced government dairy purchases.

Controls on milk production, the Commission said, are warranted only if price adjustments don't work -- that is, if milk supplies far exceed demand and price changes alone won't balance the market.

Commission Chairman Clyde E. Rutherford of Otego, N.Y., said the report, endorsed by all 18 Commission members, presents a unique opportunity for the dairy industry to unite behind a proposal for changes in federal dairy programs.

"This report is the first unified proposal from the dairy industry in more than a decade," Rutherford said. "It's a far-reaching, long-term program that all milk producers-- large and small-- can embrace."

Rutherford said enactment of the Commission's recommendations would continue the trend toward sharply reduced dairy program costs.

"The taxpayer's bill for the dairy program has been reduced from $2.3 billion four years ago to less than $1 billion this year," Rutherford said. "Recommendations of this Commission would continue that trend."

The Commission-proposed pricing formula would replace 1985 farm bill provisions that tie cuts in the milk support price to the

Dairy Of Distinction Entry Deadline Near

WILLIAMSPORT — You never have a second chance to make a good first impression. And in the case of milk drinkers who drive past your farm, you may never get the chance to make a second impression at all.

That's why for the first time last year the Pennsylvania Dairy of Distinction Program was started by a group of volunteers to provide recognition to dairy farms that were the most beautiful in the state. Thus these farms made the best impression on the public who may equate a good-looking farm with the clean wholesome milk they buy in the dairy section of their local supermarket. In addition the program was meant to provide incentive for farmers to clean up the looks of their farms so that a negative kind of impression was not carried to the store dairy case.

The program was new for Pennsylvania last year, and State President Everett Newswanger said no one knew how dairymen in Pennsylvania would respond. "We knew that the milk promotion idea was strong in Pennsylvania," Newswanger said, "and we knew the dairymen in New York State had embraced the program by using the distinction to attract herdsmen to their farms and describe their farms in other advertisements. But we were still apprehensive until the applications started to roll in."

Nearly 100 Dairy of Distinction winners were named last year. According to program rules, the winners last year are automatically up for re-evaluation again this year, and additional new applications can be received until April 15. Those who applied last year but didn't win may re-apply. In fact, all owners of pretty dairy farms are encouraged to send in an application to their program secretary.

Crop Insurance—A Good Buy?

BY LISA RISSER

HARRISBURG — Most people don't need to think twice about getting insurance for their cars, homes, health, and even themselves. They want to be protected against the unknown mishap or disaster.

It would only be natural then for farmers to insure their crops against diaster, right? Wrong.

According to John Gartside, Northeast regional director for Federal Crop Insurance Corp. (FCIC), only 4 percent of farmers in Pennsylvania had crop insurance. In Maryland the number was the same, while in New Jersey and New York, a limited number of farmers participated in the grain coverage and a more significant number were insured for peaches and apples respectively. In Delaware, 14 to 15 percent of farmers were covered with insurance and most of them grew fruit or vegetables.

Up until last year not having crop insurance wasn't a big liability. While the 1980 Farm Bill changed crop insurance and phased out disaster relief, the Secretary of Agriculture could, and did in 1985 and '86 due to drought, exercise an option to reinstate disaster relief. Many farmers didn't feel crop insurance was necessary. In 1987, however, farmers didn't receive any money for damaged crops unless they carried insurance.

Those Pennsylvania farmers with coverage and having a damaged crop received a $6 return on their $1 investment. That money could mean the difference between farming another year or being forced to sell out.

And this is the thrust of the crop insurance. "We're offering growers protection that would recoup their production expenses," explained Gartside. "There is no profit for us. We're helping the farmer stay in business another year."

Purchasing crop insurance is a management decision. "The farmer should determine what his

NY Veal Dollars To Target Issues

ROME, NY — The New York Beef Industry Council has committed $50,000 from the Beef Checkoff to a national issues management plan developed by The Veal Committee of The Beef Industry Council in Chicago.

"I believe this is the best way we can spend veal dollars here in New York," says Floyd Many, Veal Representative on the eleven member state council. "Controversial issues, such as animal welfare and food safety are difficult for producers to face all alone. We now have a Veal Issues Management Action Plan to help the veal industry effectively respond to these issues."

The plan involves a veal issues management team, information resource materials, media-trained

Lancaster Holstein Breeders Visit Friends In Maryland

BY EVERETT NEWSWANGER

LANCASTER — Even though it was still March (the last day of), many farmers were home hauling manure and plowing in the warm spring weather. And some of the farmers along on the Lancaster County Holstein Tour to Maryland were saying they should have been home working too. But this busload of local Holstein breeders will likely soon forget the lost day of labor but not their visit to four successful dairy operations.

My Lady's Manor Farm, Monkton, featured a DHIA average of 21,500 lbs. of milk and 832 lbs. of Acres Corn Update: Corn futures settled mixed again today with strength in the new crop months attributed to continued carryover buying from the bullish planting report. Increases in cash movement pressured the nearbys along with lighter than expected weekly export inspections May suffered from technical weakness as it failed to move above the $2 10 resistance figure and settle at $2 08-1/2 December closed 1-1/2 higher and settled at $2 25

Acres Soybean Update: Soybeans closed higher and at session highs on heavy professional fund buying Further support came from spillover strength as wheat rallied on export bonus news Today's late rally served to highlight underlying bullishness in the new crop with talk that acreage increases may be minimal Resistance in November is at $6 95 - $7 00 with today's high at $6 95 The July/November spread closed wider today as a result of heavy commercial selling in the old crop

Acres Wheat Update: Wheat futures closed from 6-1/4 to 8-3/4 cents higher today on heavy professional buying linked to possible export bonus News that the USSR had been targeted for an additional 1 0 million tonnes along with this week's higher than expected export inspections provided enough buying incentive to boost prices Further support came from decreases in the CCC auctions' sales results

Acres Cattle Update: Feeder cattle and live cattle closed mixed today with April live cattle settling 28 higher on its proximity to cash in front of its 4/20 expiration Commercial selling and ideas the market had topped pressured June along with follow through from yesterday's sharply lower prices Heavy selling on the opening was offset by ideas that yesterday's losses were overdone Active April/May spreading in the feeders along with lower trending cash prices closed the May board 35 lower at $76 52

ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK cash -steady to lower futures-steady-mixed

Acres Hog Update: Live hog futures closed from 5 to 25 higher while bellies closed mixed Buying in the hogs was attributed to Thursday's bullishly construed hogs and pigs report and active spreading of the June/July Selling in the bellies was thought to be long liquidation amid concerns of expanding frozen stocks and lower fresh belly prices Many have anticipated that the latest weekly storage report will show a large movement of fresh bellies into warehouses ACRES NEXT DAY OUTLOOK cash - steady higher futures - steady

Northeast Chicken Parts

Tues., April 5, 1988

The buying interest for cutlets was irregular; supplies generally cleared well at current levels. Line run breasts had tightened overall but were still adequate at 85 cents. Rib breasts were in good balance for a light to fair call. Legs were in closer balance mainly due to an active call for well cleared supplies of leg quarters. Wings were irregular with most sellers holding additional product with some confidence.

Ask the Old Farmer: We have two soapstones about 6 inches across with ½ inch grooves in each side Do you know what they were used for? H R M New Ipswich N H

Folks used to heat up soapstones and take them to bed or wrap them up to warm their feet Most of them had a handle or something attached to hold them with the grooves probably fit something on a stove or fireplace or tongs

OPINION

Go To An Auction

The call of the auctioneer at a farm or house sale creates a special kind of excitement that has caused this method of marketing to endure for centuries. Records show that auctions have been used as early as 500 B.C. In more recent times--1949 to be exact-- the National Auctioneers Association was formed in this country to insure continued advancement of this selling business. At the time, only a small number of auctioneers were involved in the association. But today, NAA has 6,000 members and has developed and sponsored many educational programs to insure the professionalism of its members. The Certified Auctioneers Institute is an advanced auction management educational program that helps fulfill the association's purpose. In addition, members have access to current materials about their industry to help them serve their clients better. To encourage members to maintain their high standard of integrity, the NAA member auctioneers abide by a published code of ethics.

In all marketing situations you need to get the buyer and the seller together under the most favorable conditions for negotiations to be conducted. In the rapid fire selling of an auction, an ongoing negotiation process takes place. There the bidders get a chance to say yes or no by the nod of the head, a wink of the eye, or wave of the hand.

This week, April 4-10, has been designated as National Auctioneers Week. At an auction, you can find almost anything to buy-- farm supplies, equipment, household goods, antiques, automobiles, even art or real estate. We think it's a good time to go to an auction, pick out something you like, and make your bid known when the item is up for sale. You will likely get a good buy and have a lot of fun at the same time.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Incorporate Manure

Many barns, poultry houses and feed lots will be cleaned out in the next few weeks. We repeat the suggestion that this material be either injected into the soil or worked into the topsoil within a few days after application. This will not only preserve more nutrients but will reduce odors and preserve good public relations with your neighbors. Discing, chiseling or plowing after the waste application is strongly recommended. Livestock and poultry manure have considerable fertilizer value when applied into the soil before exposed to weathering. We urge our farmers to recognize this organic fertilizer and utilize it fully.

We hope our non-farm people understand that applying manure to our fields is part of farming and part of rural living. It may be unpleasant for a short time, but as far as I know, rural odors have never been proven to be a health hazard. We hope everyone tries to understand the needs and cares of others.

To Start Grazing Gradually

With the amount of warm weather and good growing conditions, we're seeing pastures growing very rapidly. This is also true with producers that are planning to graze winter grains such as rye or barley. The herd or flock should be controlled at first and not allowed on the area for more than a half hour; bloating and scouring may result if they consume too much of the lush forage the first few days. Also, it's best to feed the animals some dry matter such as silage, hay or straw before turning them out to pasture the first few times. Dairy farmers should keep milking cows from the grazing area at least 4 to 5 hours before the milking period.

To Manage Alfalfa Stands

With nearly every species of livestock, the feeding of top quality alfalfa hay or silage is highly recommended.

At dairy meetings we hear how good alfalfa is in the ration, and at sheep meetings we learn that good alfalfa hay is the backbone of the ewe feeding program. Alfalfa meal is often used as a source of protein in other rations. It all adds up to the fact that alfalfa is one of our most important forage crops. Every farmer should make a special effort to produce maximum yield per acre. This takes management along with proper lime, fertilizer, insect and disease control. Since we are now at the beginning of another cropping season, more attention to alfalfa may benefit many farmers. Don't be satisfied with a poor stand. The crop is worthy of our best efforts.

To Treat Farm Pond Weeds Early

Pond owners who experienced weed problems last summer will undoubtedly have similar or worse problems this year. Aquatic vegetation will have a tendency to increase where no control measures were taken the year before. These weed problems unfortunately multiply.

Early in the growing season is the better approach to gaining control of pond weeds. Aquatic plants are most susceptible to control by chemical herbicides when the plants begin to grow rapidly; if mechanical controls are to be used there will be less bulk in plant material to contend with; control of the unwanted plants before flowering and seed setting occurs has benefits. Early treatment means less interference with fishing, boating, swimming or whatever other pond activities are involved.

Always follow label directions carefully where chemical controls are used and be sure you have a permit from the Penna. Fish Commission before applying any chemical to your pond.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

TAKING EASTER "ON THE ROAD"

April 10, 1988

Background Scripture:
Matthew 6: 24-34; 28: 16-20.
Devotional Reading:
Luke 24: 44-49.

As I write this week's column, I am in Europe. All around me I see elaborate preparations for the annual celebration of Carnival or, as many German-speaking people call it, "Fasching." In some communities the pre-lenten celebration lasts for several months and the tradition is several hundred years old. Parades, gay costumes, elaborate balls and parties, fireworks, and non-stop merry-making are all part of the annual observance. In the USA only New Orleans Mardi Gras gives us any insight to the gaiety of this celebration.

THE DAY AFTER

From what I've previously observed of Carnival, it seems to me that, despite the enormity of the celebration, Carnival has little or no lasting effect upon people's lives. The day after it ends — usually Ash Wednesday — apart from fatigue and various hangovers, people go back to work pretty much the way they did before Carnival began. Apparently it is lots of "fun" while it lasts, but it is not really a life-changing experience.

Unfortunately, it would seem that for many people that's all that Easter is — a wonderful celebration, but nothing that lasts much beyond Easter Sunday. The day after Easter sees the world pretty much back at "business as usual." Easter is packed away for another year until the calendar tells us it is upon us.

That may be what happens in many communities, but that is certainly not what is intended. After the first Easter, Jesus made it clear that, rather than being the end of something, Easter was just the beginning: "Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptising them in the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you" (28:19,20). Just as a successful Broadway show is "taken on the road," that's what we are called to do with Easter. Rather than tucking it away until next year again, Easter needs to have an effect upon all the days after the celebration.

A MOVABLE FEAST

Depending upon when this column appears in your newspaper, Easter has already been over for several days. In fact, on Monday after Easter you were probably confronted with all those pressing concerns and responsibilities that are part of your everyday life. Easter didn't make them go away.

But what Easter can do is to put them into a different perspective. Jesus once told his disciples, "Seek first his kingdom and his righteousness, and all these things shall be yours as well" (6:33). We are not freed of the concerns of Easter Monday, but if we look at them in the light of Easter Sunday, life can never be just the same again. Easter is never "over."

What about you? Have you taken Easter "on the road"?

WE ARE GROWING
ALFALFA HYDROSEEDING

Forry's Ag Service Inc. is entering their sixth season of alfalfa hydroseeding. Our goal is to reach the 10,000 acre mark. You can help us reach this goal. Listed below are some of the remarks most commonly made.

1-Hydroseeding is a time saving procedure
2-Forry's method of hydroseeding is far ahead of the field
3-Their 3-10-30 fluid fertilizer gives me my total plant food need for the first year in one trip.
4-I have quicker starts hydroseeding than my old conventional way
5-I like the one-call operation

COMPARING LIMESTONES CAN BE LIKE COMPARING APPLES AND BANANAS.

Both are fruit, but that is all that you can say.

Limestone is a term for a geological deposit containing calcium, magnesium and a varying amount and number of impurities. Based upon its original natural formation, "Mother Nature" determined its purity, hardness, mineral levels and the availability of those minerals. Chemistry has determined if a given "limestone" deposit is used for making concrete, spread on roads, spread on farmers' fields, used in toothpaste, or fed to poultry and livestock. Limestones high in silica are adapted to the Construction industry; dolomitic (high magnesium) and "hard" calcitic (high calcium) limestones are used for soil neutralization and "soft" calcitic limestones are used in toothpastes, poultry and animal feed sources of calcium.

Only soft calcitic limestone is used in the production of YORK CALCIUM CHIPS - 38% Ca - 94+% acid solubility.

More and more egg producers are discovering that YORK CALCIUM CHIPS are their most economical source of large particle size calcium. Good shell quality and improved feed conversions are positive benefits, especially in low priced egg markets.

Ask your feed supplier to add YORK CALCIUM CHIPS to your formulas and be certain that you are using a least cost feed.

Can You Afford to Lose $19,845 This Year?

If you don't join RCMA today you will be working for less.

Since 1981, the blend price in Order II has dropped $1 89 That means that if you milk 70 cows, producing an average of 15,000 pounds of milk each, you'll earn $19,845 less this year than you did at the start of the decade! And that's only the start Dairy industry experts agree, Federal minimum prices are going to be cut even more during the next couple of years

Join your neighbors in the fight for fair farm prices.

More than 22,000 dairy farmers in the Northeast have joined together to gain a say in establishing fair farm prices RCMA's only function is to collect over-order premiums from milk dealers and distribute this money to its members RCMA never handles your milk check How have we done? In just five months, $10 million has been put into the hands of dairy farmers And all of this without initiation fees, dues or assessments RCMA is an organization run by dairy farmers, for dairy farmers Want to get involved?

Control Mastitis To Earn Quality Bonuses

ARLINGTON, VA. — When it comes to testing milk, it is an old question: "Whose results are correct?"

In the good old days, tests were less involved and there were fewer to compare. For example, it used to be that fat test variation between the plant and DHI was the focal point of controversy. Now there are tests for protein and somatic cells, as well as fat. If you're on some type of quality bonus program, results of those tests are important to whether or not you earn extra money.

To check the accuracy of their testing equipment, many laboratories use a set of standardized samples from an outside source for fat, protein and somatic cells. In addition, performance of their equipment is monitored continuously, with microscopic counts performed at the lab on high, low and medium range somatic cell milk.

Obviously, the best way to obtain good testing results is for your milk to be low in somatic cells in the first place. Counts of from 100,000 to 200,000 somatic cells per milliliter are possible, and such counts would earn you a bonus under most programs. However, good milking and cow management are required to achieve desired results.

Milking management includes good cow preparation, milking clean and dry udders, clean environment and good cowside sanitation. Dip teats following milking using a product which has been shown to be effective in preventing new udder infections. Testing by protocols A, B and C are recommended to show effectiveness.

Milking machine management involves maintenance by a professional with the system under load at the time of checking.

Dry cow treatment is recommended for every quarter of every cow at drying off. Use a commercial product designed for dry cow treatment. Obviously, controlling mastitis is one of the first steps in earning quality bonuses. Cull chronic animals that are a reservoir of infection and that are continually raising your bulk tank somatic cell count.

It is rare that high bacteria counts are caused by mastitis. Usually the cause is poorly cleaned and sanitized equipment.

Dairymen sometimes point out that they don't do a particular practice "by the book," but don't have any mastitis problems and make the bonus every time. And it happens. But a general rule of thumb is: The more procedures done correctly, the stronger your program is and the more difficult it is to get into trouble. The reverse is true, also: The fewer things done correctly, the easier it is to experience difficulties. Remember, your system is no stronger than your weakest practice.

Beekeeping Workshop

CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS — The Northwestern Pa Beekeepers Assoc. will host a workshop April 16, at the Northwestern REC building on "Improving Beekeeping Practices." The program will start at 9:30 a.m. and finish around 3:30 p.m. Lunch will be provided. A $5 fee will be collected at registration. The workshop is designed to improve beekeeping skills of hobbiest beekeepers. Dr. Clarence Collison, Penn State University's Bee Specialist will be the featured speaker. He will discuss hive production, bee disease, the Varroa Mite, and Queen rearing techniques. Other concurrent workshops will be held on health benefits of bee products, marketing techniques, swarm collection and wintering tips. Hobbiest beekeepers are encouraged to attend. For more information call Assoc. President Jeff Allio at 814-425-3629.

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

- David Lapp, R1 Bareville, was elected president of the New Holland Community 4-H Club at a meeting held April 7 at the New Holland National Bank.

Other officers elected were vice president, Donna Peters; secretary, Anna Lapp; treasurer, Mary Ann Wolgemuth; game leaders, Alvin McQuate and Marie Horning; song leader, Roy Mentzer and reporter, Judith Ann Buch.

- Headline: Part-Time Farmer Wants to Keep Things the Same..... A poll taken by Emory J. Brown, rural sociologist from Penn State from 370 part-time farmers showed:

Fifty-nine felt that they are as well off as their full-time neighbors and 43 said they were better off.

Fifty said they were better off than full-time hourly workers and 30 said they were as well off.

Eighty-one said that they intend to continue farming only on a part-time basis. Only 18 said they are working toward full-time farming and 17 plan to get out of farming entirely.

Eighty-nine per cent said they make more money per hour at their off-farm job.

And 112 own their own farm eight are part owners and an equa number rent.

"I was determined not to lif another bag of feed," said Henry R Wilson, R2 Nottingham, wher explaining his feed mixing and dis tributing set-up.

The feeding set-up is only one o many features incorporated into a brand new dairy operation tha Wilson has built on his 390 acre farm just south of Little Britain butterfat. The Ross Smith family gave a lot of credit for their high butterfat test to 62% moisture haylage preserved in bags and cottonseed in a total mixed ration. The Smiths have found that the more haylage they feed the more milk and test they produce. And high records on individual cows are made right with the rest of the herd that's milked in a double-6 parlor. The Smiths also show a lot of type since their herd has a BAA of 104.5 with 16 excellent and 50 very good cows.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Hoff, New Windsor, greeted the tour on their Coldsprings Farm where 1800 acres on several farms provide feed for 400 registered Holsteins with an average of 20,000 lbs. of milk and 740 lbs. of butterfat. A feed mill right on the farm produces a total mixed ration of haylage, corn silage, roasted beans, chopped hay and grains for the cows.

Hoff showed many of the cows on two farms to the tour group. He knows each of his 400 cows individually, and doesn't think a farmer should have cows if he doesn't know them.

A new California-style flat barn was of interest to the group. This new system allows closer contact with individual cows as they are milked. At Coldsprings they breed all of their heifers to their young bulls and then keep the bulls around until they are proven. Hoff said he could not tell any difference between the offspring of his own young bulls and those in AI.

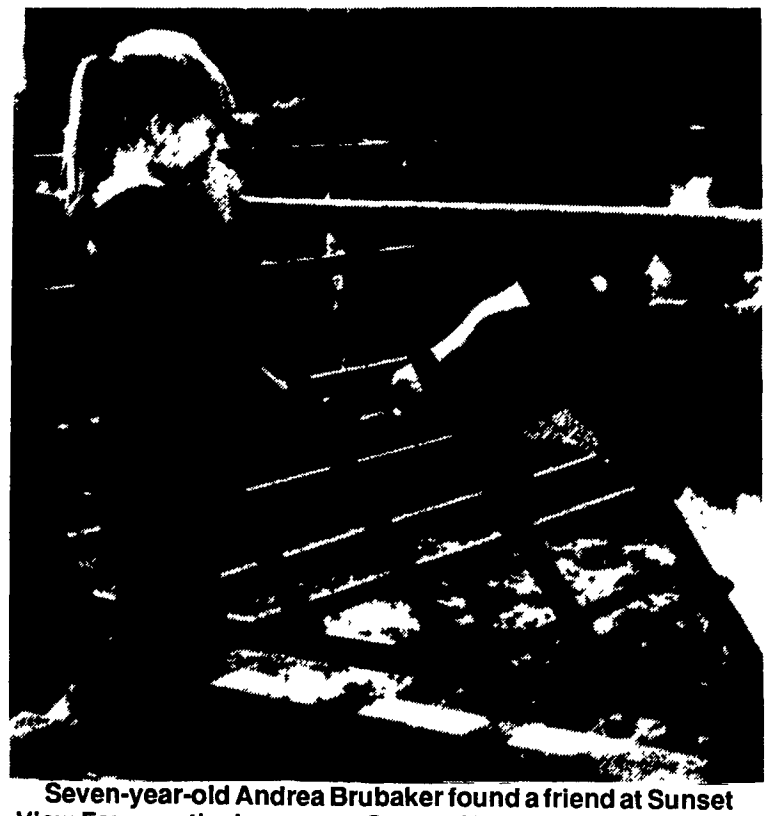
Hoff likes cows that have deep cow families. "Numbers are something, but not enough," Hoff said, "Use what you know is good." Coldspring Farms have deep pedigreed cow families that have numerous offsprings in different AI studs.

After you drive in the winding lane past the farm pond with geese and ducks, you arrive at Peace and Plenty Farm, Union Bridge, owned by Maryland State Holstein President, Joe Swartzbeck and family. The tour group saw a green house attached to the side of the barn and a farm office full of trophies and news clippings about the family's accomplishments with Holsteins. And they saw the cows. The herd has a BAA of 106.5 with 13 excellents and 45 very good cows. Production is over 20,000 lbs. of milk and 730 lbs. of butterfat.

At Jim Stonesifer Family Farm at Ardel the Holstein group saw a farm that has been honored for its conservation practices. A 130,000 gal. concrete storage facility retains all milk house and liquid waste. The meadow stream is piped and covered with stones. Only drinking fountains are left open to allow the cows in the pasture access to drinking water.

A Virginia-style barn houses the heifers and the calf hutches were made in (you guessed it) Lancaster County. In fact Amish carpenters were building an addition to the barn at the time of the tour visit.

The Lancaster Holstein tour group visited My Lady's Manor Farm where silage is a mainstay of the feeding program.



Seven-year-old Andrea Brubaker found a friend at Sunset View Farm on the Lancaster County Holstein Tour to Maryland last week. Andrea went along with her dad John Brubaker because she had the day off from school.

Stonesifer showed several outstanding cows from his Holstein herd. In addition, another herd of a different breed, that should not be named on a Holstein tour, greeted the tour bus at the meadow gate. The pretty Jerseys (oops) caused a lot of good-natured banter including a suggestion that the tour committee of Greg Landis, Dick Mellinger and John Howard be reported to State Holstein Secretary Bill Nichol.

But it was obvious that these dairymen enjoyed all the cows that they saw. Including the cute little three-week-old Jersey calf that was born prematurely. And they enjoyed all the farms and facilities that were open to them by their friends across the Mason-Dixon Line. Within the hour of their arrival back at the Farm and Home Center, any guilt of mind that they should have stayed home and worked like their neighbors was likely gone. The new ideas received and the new friends that were made eliminated any such thoughts.

Production Controls

level of government dairy purchases. The support price provides a floor for prices received by milk producers.

The Commission's formula would take into account such factors as technological advancements, changes in feed prices, and shifts in milk supply and demand.

The Secretary of Agriculture would be able to adjust the formula price up or down by 5 percent, with annual price changes capped at 50 cents.

While noting that permanent use of production controls "is not in the best interest of the industry," the Commission did recommend standby production control authority. That way, the panel said, a program would be available if government dairy purchases are projected to be excessive.

If controls are needed, the Commission proposed giving USDA a choice between a dairy herd "buy-out" similar to the program imposed in 1986-87 and a "two-tier" pricing system that would pay producers substantially less for milk produced above a specified amount.

Other key Commission recommendations:

- Authority for import quotas on dairy products should be protected during current international trade talks.
- Casein, a controversial import made from milk and used increasingly in food products, should be reclassified as a dairy product and be subject to import quotas.
- Functions of the dairy industry's two major promotion organizations-- the National Dairy Promotion and Research Board and the United Dairy Industry Association-- should be consolidated this year.
- Dairy programs should benefit farms regardless of size.
- The price support program should not be "regionalized" to protect milk producers in certain areas.
- California should be prohibited from using a "Manufacturing allowance" for milk greater than the federal allowance used in most other areas of the country.

Rutherford noted that several key members of Congress already have said they will use the Commission's recommendations as the basis for dairy legislation.

"We look forward to our report providing a blueprint for the federal dairy program of the 1990s," he said.

Made up entirely of milk producers, the National Commission on Dairy Policy was created under the 1985 farm bill to study the milk price support program and the future of the dairy industry.

Additional details concerning the group's report can be obtained by contacting the Commission staff at 1401 New York Avenue, NW, Suite 1100, Washington, D.C. 20005. The telephone number is (202) 638-6222.

Dairy Of Distinction

Pennsylvania is divided into ten districts and each district may make awards of up to ten new additional farms each year. The number of new entries and awards will diminish each year as more and more farmers qualify and become part of the program. Yet because of the yearly re-evaluation, the incentive remains for Dairy of Distinction winners to maintain the beauty of their farms.

Winners in each district receive a metal sign to install at the end of their farm lane and a certificate of recognition. In addition, the state committee has plans to present the 11x14 color farm portraits supplied by Lancaster Farming Newspaper to the new winners at Ag Progress Days in August in State College. All winners from both years will be invited to participate in a fraternal-type event that brings together Dairy of Distinction farm friends from all across Pennsylvania.

(AN APPLICATION IS PRINTED ON PAGE D3 OF THIS ISSUE)

There is no cost to the individual winners. The program is supported by various milk promotion funds and agribusinesses across the state.

To enter your farm in this year's program, send an application postmarked no later than April 15 to your area secretary. An application is printed on page D-3 of this issue of Lancaster Farming. The area secretaries are: Pennsylvania area, Paul Nichols, ADADC, 1853 East Third St., Williamsport, PA 17701; New Jersey area, August Knispel, RD#1, Box 325, Pittstown, NY 18867; New York area, Evelyn Lightfoote, 3053 Depew Rd., Stanley, NY 14561.

Franklin Farmers Hear Sallie

BY BONNIE BRECHBILL
Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG — "You people are the ones who make it happen," Lou Sallie of the American Farm Bureau told Franklin County farmers. "Ninety thousand new members joined last year, and it was the county associations who signed them." He praised the involvement at the grass-roots level.

Sallie, of Carlisle, spoke at the Franklin County Farmer's Association Spring Meeting at the Lighthouse Restaurant last month. He is the Farm Bureau's field representative and is responsible for the national organization in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey, Delaware and West Virginia.

"You're here because you believe in the Franklin County Farm Bureau. Our organization runs on people power. Get others as involved as you are," he encouraged the 125 people attending. "Our policy comes right from the counties," he added.

Sallie also explained the structure of the national organization. "The American Farm Bureau is governed by a board of directors," he said. "It's no different than on the county level, it's just on a larger scale. The organization doesn't work national to state to county, but from the county up--county to state to national."

"Our purpose on the national level is to lobby in Washington," he continued. Thirteen lobbyists work daily, talking to policymakers.

William Swailes, Willow Hill, president of the Franklin County Farmer's Association, addressed two areas in his president's Report. He announced that the Board of Directors is in the process of gathering information about the county's Vo-Ag programs. "Would the interests of ag students be better served by consolidating the ag programs into one or two locations in the county and offering elective courses in particular areas of agriculture? Or should we be working to upgrade the programs already in place? Or are there other alternatives?" he said in outlining the questions before the board.

Swailes also clarified information published in the March 5 issue of LANCASTER FARMING concerning the views of the Franklin County Farmer's Association on the proposed construction of Exit 7 on I-81. "At this time I am not convinced that a bypass will solve anything," he said. The association's official policy on Exit 7 is:

"We oppose the establishment of an additional Exit 7 on I-81 unless a Route 30 by-pass is established along with it."

"Our local affairs committee along with the author of this policy interpret its meaning as follows," Swailes continued. "We oppose a haphazard placing of Exit 7 to benefit a few private interests. The present piecemeal plan will not alleviate the traffic problem at Exit 6, which is supposed to be the reason for an additional exit. Furthermore, our policy does not mean that we are promoting a by-pass."

Lou Sallie, Farm Bureau Field Representative, addressed 125 people at the Spring Meeting of the Franklin County Farmer's Association.

Swailes presented several other possible solutions to the traffic problem:

1. Adding more lanes to Route 30.
2. Extending the Lincolnway East and West one-way streets.
3. Placing the new exit nearer to Exit 6.
4. Redesigning traffic patterns on existing streets.

"Our problem is not thru traffic, but local traffic," he added.

Swailes concluded with the statement:

"Our first thought is to preserve our prime farmland for future generations. Once our valuable resource is buried beneath concrete and blacktop it will never produce food again. Last fall the citizens of Pennsylvania voted overwhelmingly in favor of farmland preservation. Why should we relinquish our precious farmland to those with 'political pull' whose chief interest is to promote pet projects that will fill their pockets? In conclusion--we oppose the Exit 7 project as is presently proposed because it makes no sense whatsoever."

Guy Donaldson, vice-president of the state association and Chairman of the Growth Study Committee, reported on the purpose of that committee.

The Growth Study committee, established in 1986, will look at the Pennsylvania Farmer's Association for the next ten years and will project where it is going and what can be done to make it strong.

Six areas will be addressed:

1. The county organizations must be strengthened as they are the backbone of the organization.
2. Changes must be made in the membership growth--no more than ten percent a year.
3. Adopt Farm Bureau name.
4. Bring member-relations staff back up to full capacity.
5. Have people full-time in government relations. "Chemicals are going to become an important issue," he said.
6. Improve public-relations image.

Joel Wenger, Greencastle, was presented with an award for Distinguished Service to the Franklin County Farmer's Association. Wenger joined the organization in 1961 and has served on the Nominating and Hospitality committees, was chairman of the Insurance Committee, served on the Board of Directors, and was elected president in 1973, serving for three terms. He was a voting delegate to the state convention for four years.

William Swailes, President of Franklin County Farmer's Association, presents a gavel to Clifford Hawbaker, outgoing president, in recognition of his three years of service to the organization.

Crop Insurance

cost input per acre is, and evaluate the risk of growing the crop and how it will impact him if he doesn't harvest that crop," remarked Gartside.

In Pennsylvania, 65 percent of the insured crop failures between 1981 and 1986 were due to drought, while frost and freeze damage accounted for another 19 percent.

The main reason crop insurance has been increasing rapidly in Delaware during the past few years is "farmers realize that they're in a drought-prone area due to soil type," Gartside explained. "It's also because farmers there raise an awful lot of vegetables such as sweet corn, green peas, potatoes, tomatoes, and lima beans. People with orchard or vegetable crops tend to insure more because the profit margins are higher, the risks of growing are higher and the cost of producing are higher."

Gartside estimates that the farmer will pay an average of $150 to raise a corn crop, whereas orchard and some vegetable crops will cost $1,000 plus.

How it works

If a farmer decides he needs crop insurance, he should contact either a federal or reinsurance agent. Both have the exact same function with the difference being a federal insurance agent sells under contract with the government and a reinsurance agent working for an independent insurance company that assumes a portion of the risk and has its own claim adjustors.

The agent will set up the average yield for the farm based on its production records. If there should be no records, an average will be assigned to the farm based on the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service (ASCS) established yield for grain crops and the county's average yields for vegetable and orchard crops.

When yield is established, the farmer can choose between three coverages: 50, 65, or 75 percent of the average yield. This amount is the guaranteed production on the farm. Naturally the greater the percent coverage, the higher the premium. Gartside noted that 75 percent coverage in most cases will cover a farmer's initial financial output.

The farmer next must choose between three price elections, or percentages of the market value that he will be paid in the event of a crop failure. The price elections are established yearly by the government. "About 99.9 percent of farmers take the highest price election, which is about 90 percent of market value " Gartside reported.

Some crops, primarily vegetable crops, may have additional coverage. Potatoes for instance have a quality option, which guarantees the grower quality potatoes as well as gross. This quality option is built into grain coverages.

If the farmer calls the agent with a crop problem, an adjustor is sent to the farm to measure acreage production and determine the quality of the product. Next, the adjustor figures out the market price of the grade. From this he comes up with a factor and applies it to the harvested produce.

For example, a farmer with 100 acres that produces an average yield of 100 bushels per acre decides to insure his corn crop. He chooses 75 percent coverage, which means that he is guaranteed 75 bushels per acre or a total of 7,500 bushels. He also chooses the highest price election, which for corn is $2.

At harvest time, the farmer's fields produce 25 bushels per acre or 2,500 bushels total. Because he is guaranteed 7,500 bushels and only harvested 2,500, he has a 5,000 bushel total loss. The total loss, 5,000, is then multiplied by the amount of his price election, which is $2, for a total payment from the FCIC of $10,000.

The deadline for taking out crop insurance is April 15 on most spring-planted crops, November 20 for apples, November 30 for peaches, and September 30 for wheat and barley.

The crop insurance coverage for this year has been expanded somewhat. "The main change is in corn silage," stated Gartside. "In the past, we would insure the dairy farmer's corn two different ways. If he harvested it for silage, we would pay by tonnage. If he harvested for grain, we would pay based on grain content. The change benefits dairy farmers because now we no longer count the salvage value of silage. The guarantees would be in grain only."

For example, if the farmer is hit by a drought, he may have plenty of fodder, but not ear formation. In the past, the fodder would be weighed with very little attention paid to ear formation. Now, the adjustor will determine the bushels of grain that is there and compare it to the guaranteed amount. Silage doesn't enter into the coverage at all, and even better, there is no increase in premium. The farmer can harvest the silage for "free" because its value doesn't count.

Other expansion includes:

•Pennsylvania—sweet corn coverage now includes Blair, Bucks, Columbia, Lancaster, Montour, Northumberland, and Potter counties; tomato coverage now includes Blair, Columbia, Franklin, and Lancaster counties; soybean coverage now includes Butler, Carbon, Franklin, Indiana, Juniata, Lawrence, Luzerne, Monroe, and Snyder counties.

•Maryland, Delaware—lima beans and snap beans have been added. Approximately 90 percent of growers are expected to sign up for insurance.

•New Jersey—cranberries are now covered by crop insurance.

Currently, under the federal program, 30 percent of the farmer's premium is subsidized by the government. The Delaware state assembly passed a bill last week that reduces the premium amount by an additional 30 percent. In other words, the premiums paid by Delaware farmers will be subsidized by 60 percent. The new bill is effective for the 1988 crop year.

The decision to get crop insurance is a personal business decision. "I recommend that farmers should take a look at the crop insurance program because it has changed over the past years" advised Gartside. "It may fit their management style better now than before."

The team, an advisory group to the Veal Committee, is composed of veal industry representatives from different regions of the country and selected Meat Board representatives. Resource materials for use by the team include a brochure, sample questions and answers, sample media materials and "position papers" for use by the media, which outline industry positions on key topics.

Many, a Hobart, New York veal grower says, "I see checkoff dollars being spent in areas that are crucial to the veal industry. We have six independent scientists on the team who have completed rigorous media training, and will be available when we need them to discuss veal issues with the media."

Also on the team are six industry spokespersons, who have completed similar media training. These spokespersons are trained to give consistent and accurate responses to media questions, handle tough situations and deliver positive messages about veal.

Delegates are Charles H. Gable, Elvin L. Kurtz and Titis S. Kurtz, all of Elverson. Alternate delegates are: Fred Mast, Elverson; Herbert Mast; Morgantown; and Ivan S. Stoltzfus, Honey Brook.

Maryland, Virginia Producers Given 13th Milk Check

GINGER SECRIST MYERS
Adams Co. Correspondent

HAGERSTOWN, MD. — The largest gathering in the 68-year history of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative met Wednesday, March 30th, at the Ramada Inn, Hagerstown. Walter A. Martz, President, welcomed the 900-plus capacity crowd stating that the purpose of an Annual Meeting is to hear from members as well as to report to members.

What members heard was that 1987 was a year that started off on a negative note with loss of members to the whole-herd buy out, a support price cut, and a questionable over-supply of milk. However, due to changes in efficiency, changes in marketing strategies, and a milk supply more nearly in line with demands, their cooperative was able to provide them with a 13th milkcheck comprised of an additional 25 cent per hundredweight for all milk shipped in 1987.

Financially, the cooperative's long-term debts are down 18% and no new long-term debt was acquired in 1987. Their return on investments was 10% and their return on sales was 2%. Seventy-eight percent of their current liabilities are in member equity invest-

James Grantham, left, Tudor Hall Farm, Kearneysville, W. VA received special recognition at the 68th Annual Meeting of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative, as a 50 year member- a half century of producing milk for the Metropolitan Washington Market. Making the presentation was Walter Martz, right, President of the cooperative. Other families also inducted into the 50-Year Club were Homestead Farms, Donald Huffer and Sons, Middletown, MD, Shank Farms, Inc., Hagerstown, MD, and Paul C. and Helen Stup, Clearville, PA.

The following individuals were ratified as directors at the 68th Annual Meeting of the Maryland and Virginia Milking Producers Annual Meeting held March 30th at the Ramada Inn, Hagerstown, MD. Seated (l-r): Walter Martz, Frederick, MD, William Allen, Jr., Jefferson, MD, and Melvin Montgomery, Wirtz, VA. ments by Joseph Westwater, the 1st Chief Officer on the National Dairy Promotion Board. Westwater reported that since the first 15 cents was deducted for advertising and promotion, per capita consumption of dairy products has been increased by 30-40 pounds for every person in this country. He noted that while there is still a 6 billion pound surplus of milk in this country, without the additional sales due to increased advertising and promotion, that total would be closer to 20 billion pounds.

Westwater enthusiastically spoke of the research projects now being funded through the National Dairy Promotion Board. The first one is now located in Oregon and is researching cardio-vascular problems. A second research center to study the effects of lipids in the diet is currently looking at proposed sites and proposals. The Board plans to set up six research centers nationwide.

Summarized Westbrook, "It will be the work of the six new product research centers that will contribute the most benefits in the long-run when defining the potential of our marketing efforts."

Nine directors-elect were affirmed to the Board these included: William Allen, Jr., Jefferson, MD, Kenneth Benner, Millerstown PA, Samuel Butler, Midland, VA, Walter Martz, Frederick, MD, Herbert Miller, Woodsbury, PA, Melvin Mont-

Spray weevils early with Furadan® 4F insecticide and save.

When you spray your alfalfa for weevil prior to first cutting you'll save yields and free up your time later, when you're really busy.

Alfalfa weevils begin feeding prior to first cutting. This can hurt tonnage, quality and stands. Spraying early not only prevents all this, but it means that you won't have to worry about it after first cutting—when you may not have time to spray at all.

Frederick-Montgomery DHIA Names Top Herds

BY SUE CROW
Maryland Correspondent

LEWISTOWN, MD — President Mehrle Ramsburg helped present the awards for the top herds and cows in both of the two counties. In Frederick, the top Ayrshire herd for milk went to Dennis and Nancy Hood with 12,674m and 504f. The top herd for fat went to Homestead Farms Inc. producing 12,188m and 506f.

The top herd for both milk and fat in the Brown Swiss breed was Long View Farm with an average on 34 cows 16,129m and 604f. For Guernseys the top herd was O. Clayton Smith averaging 12,293m and 585f. They were also the top herd for fat. Ed and Carol Kahler were the top herd for the Jerseys in both milk and fat with 12,237m 623f on 43 cows.

In the milking Short Horn, Trickle Brook Farm was the top for milk and fat with 8,968m 347f. For the Holsteins the top in the county went to David and Brenda Gaither with 137 cows and an average of 21,463m 801f. They also were the top for fat.

In Montgomery County, the following were the top herds for milk and fat in each breed. For the Ayrshires: Senaca Ayr Farms, 51 cows, 13,973m 529f; Brown Swiss: Rudell Beall and Sons, 17 cows, 16,229m 640f; Guernsey: Bill Slater and Sons, 12,813m 548f; Holstein: Rudell Beall and Sons, 167 cows, 18,543m 670f; Savage-Leigh Farm took the top for fat with 18,181m 672f; Jerseys: Crazy Acres Jerseys, 19 cows, 11,521m 519f.

The two counties averaged on 197 herds 15,921m, 3.26p 3.70%, 519 lbs. protein 589 lbs. of fat.

Maryland, Virginia Producers

gomery, Wirtz, Va., Harry Schader, Chestertown, MD, David Weitzer, Poolesville, MD, and Stanley Burkholder, Chambersburg, who was nominated and elected in September to fill the unexpired term of Paul E. Hornbaker who went out in the whole-herd buy-out program.

Several directors leaving the Board received special recognition for their years of service. These included: D.P. Wilkinson, 20 year; Earl Hawkins, 18 years; Bill Whitlock, 18 years; and Paul Hornbaker, 10 years.

Highlighted during the roast prime rib of beef luncheon was the presentation of special plaques to four farm families who have been shipping milk to the Washington Metropolitan Market for the past 50 years through the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Cooperative.

These included: James and Nellie Grantham, Tudor Hall Farm, Kearnysville, West Virginia; Donald Huffer and Sons, Homestead Farms, Middletown, MD; Nevin Shank, Shank Farms, Inc., Hagerstown, MD; and Paul C. and Helen Stup and Family, Clearville, PA. General Manager Robert E. Vaughn stated, "We can state without reservations that your association had a successful year. The cooperation that we have had in our market has been reflected in returns you have received."

Vaughn stressed that these additional returns are due largely to the successful formation of the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Agency. Referring to MAMMA Vaughn stated, "Through this effort we were able to establish Class I prices, above the federal order price, that would more closely reflect the marketing needs of our producers. This addition to the price cash be accomplished only because of the support of producers and their cooperatives."

Reporting on the various cooperative divisions, the Laurel plant garnered the most attention this past year. Vaughn reported that while the Laurel plant serves as a balancing plant, this year, with the addition of another 50,000 gallon silo, this facility also became a staging point for milk needed in other areas where it would bring a higher return.

The Laurel plant also received the coveted honor of being chosen for the Master Butter Maker Award by the Land-O-Lake Corporation. This is the first time since 1977 that the cooperative has received this award. Vaughn credited the plant's operations personel Jimmy Pierce, Bernie Pierce, David Blake, and Division Manager George Walgrove, for this honor.

Successful Communities Presentation

"A wave of poorly managed growth is transforming America's suburbs and small towns, changing some suburbs into 'accidental cities' and small towns into suburbs. This transformation is bringing to these communities many of the drawbacks of big cities, such as traffic congestion, with few of the positive qualities that can make cities exciting and enjoyable places. While citizens, officials and planners ponder what to do, some of the ingredients critical to making a community more livable--open space, rivers, and other natural features, productive agricultural lands, historic buildings and scenic assets--are deteriorating or disappearing rapidly. How can localities effectively manage growth and protect their special places?"

Douglas P. Wheeler

On the evening of Thursday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. at the Lancaster County Farm and Home Center, a presentation is scheduled entitled WILL WE LIVE IN ACCIDENTAL CITIES OR SUCCESSFUL COMMUNITIES? Douglas P. Wheeler, Vice President of The Conservation Foundation, a private non-profit organization in Washington, D.C., will be the speaker with some answers. Wheeler has held senior management positions with the National Trust for Historic Preservation, Sierra Club, and the American Farmland Trust, among others, and is currently involved with the Successful Communities program at The Conservation Foundation.

Free Milk Distribution To Needy To Resume In June

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced today that it will resume distribution of non-fat dry milk to needy families in June through the Temporary Emergency Food Assistance Program.

According to Assistant Secretary for Food & Consumer Services John W. Bode, supplies of non-fat dry milk were not available for May distributions. However, USDA inventories have increased enough to distribute non-fat dry milk in June. As a result, USDA will be providing another 8 million pounds of non-fat dry milk to states for re-distribution through local food banks.

"At this time, we do not know if distribution of non-fat dry milk can be continued beyond June," Bode said. "We will monitor our inventories and keep states informed of availability. The same is true for cheese. If we get more, we will give it away."

While fluctuations in surplus stocks cause the size of the temporary emergency food program to go up and down, USDA's regular food assistance programs continue to provide more than $20 billion in food help each year to needy Americans.

"Low-income Americans remain eligible for food stamps, free school lunches and breakfasts, elderly food assistance, supplemental food programs for women, infants and children, child care meals and summer child feeding," said Bode.

Since 1981, more than 5 billion pounds of surplus food worth more than $5 billion have been distributed through the USDA's Temporary Emergency Food Assistance Program. Seven types of food have been provided through this program including cheese (35 million pounds monthly), butter (6 million pounds monthly), non-fat dry milk (8 million pounds monthly), honey (8 million pounds monthly), corn meal (4 million pounds monthly), flour (12 million pounds monthly), and rice (15 million pounds monthly). Over the course of a year, nearly one in five Americans receive some form of federal food help at a cost of more than $56 million a day.

Because of reduced inventories, the USDA announced in February that distribution of rice and honey is due to end this month, and that distribution of surplus cheese and non-fat dry milk would be suspended in May.

Computerized Mating Program Available To Jersey Breeders

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Since January, 1986, Jersey breeders across the country have had access to a unique computerized mating program developed and provided by The American Jersey Cattle Club (AJCC).

Jersey breeders now have a program available to help them make maximum genetic progress, while conserving much of their own time. The Jersey Mating Program (JMP) is a breakthrough in the science of selective dairy cattle breeding, with several unique features.

Selected matings are made with a goal of maximizing net income per day of production life for the entire Jersey herd. Exhaustive scientific research has been used to establish values for the various traits considered in the matings.

The program makes use of each sire's Predicted Difference for all production and type traits, as well as each cow's Cow Index for these same traits. Extensive scientific research has shown that by using these genetic evaluations, the average performance of groups of offspring will be most accurately predicted.

JMP also takes into account the reduction of milk, fat and protein yield due to the effects of inbreeding. The program considers the 30 nearest ancestors to determine the level of inbreeding.

In helping Jersey breeders to select which bulls may be used in their herds, JMP considers all active AI bulls or any non-AI bulls the breeder may want to use. Selection is not limited to any one specific bull stud.

For use in determining which active AI sires to select, the MAX-BULL program, developed by Virginia Cooperative Extension, has been made available through a cooperative agreement. Proven sires are selected based on criteria established by each breeder, including the milk market, semen price and specific type traits.

Herds enrolled on the AJCC's Total Performance Evaluation (TPE) program can have their cows mated with JMP for just $1.00 per cow. Herds enrolled on the Special Type Evaluation Program (STEP) and herds on DHIR test can mate their cows with JMP for just $1.25 per cow. All other herds must pay $2.00 per cow. All herds must pay a $15.00 herd fee.

For applications or further information about this exciting new program, write or call: The American Jersey Cattle Club, P.O. Box 27310, Columbus, OH 43227-0310, (614) 861-3636.

KAUFFMAN STATION — Three former Dairy Club leaders with a combined total of 76 years of service among them spoke at the Franklin County 4-H Dairy Awards Banquet and Reorganization meeting. They shared reminiscences of the early years of the Dairy Club. Speaking to club members and their families, last month at Kauffman Community Center were Richard Harshman, with 22 years of service to the Dairy Club; Kenneth Mummert, 30 years of service; and John Stoner, 24 years. Carl Hartman, 1987 club president, presented certificates of appreciation to the men on behalf of the 4-H Dairy Council.

Robert Eckstine, Mercersburg, announced that the annual 4-H calf sale will be held April 15 at Ralph Horst's auction barn. Twenty-one head have been consigned so far. The sale will be open to all bidders.

Phil Wagner, Extension Dairy Agent, presented the project book awards.

Eric Horsh, 12, son of Linda Horsh, St. Thomas, was named Outstanding First Year Dairy Club member for 1987. He was presented with a certificate by Raymond Shoemaker of the Letterkenny Federal Credit Union, which sponsors the club. He will also receive a trophy for his achievement.

Club member Dale Mummert, Chambersburg, was recently named Outstanding Guernsey Boy in Pennsylvania by the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeder's Association.

Winning Dairy Bowl Team members were also recognized. First place teams were Western A Team in the Junior Division and Western B Team in the Senior Division. Western B Team (juniors) and Hamilton-St. Thomas B Team (seniors) took second place ribbons.

Newly elected officers are: Mike Flannery, vice-president; Eleanor Stoner, secretary, Elam Meyers, treasurer; and Nina Burdette, public relations director.

Beekeeping Workshop Held For Novices In May

DOVER, DE — The Norman G. Wilder Wildlife Center near Viola will be buzzin' Saturday, May 21, when novice beekeepers from around the state gather to learn more about raising honeybees.

The program will run from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and is being sponsored by the Delaware Beekeepers Association in cooperation with the University of Delaware Cooperative Extension Service and the Delaware Department of Agriculture.

"The idea of the course is to give beginner and novice beekeepers information on the biology of bees and management techniques necessary to insure healthy honeybee colonies," said Robert Mitchell, state apiarist for the Department of Agriculture.

The course will be taught by Dr. Dewey Caron, an apicultural specialist from the University of Delaware's Entomology Department. He will stress basic colony manipulations — everything from starting up or increasing a colony to management through spring, summer and fall.

The session will include lecture and discussion as well as hands-on practice opportunities.

Mitchell said there are about 350 registered beekeepers in the state who tend nearly 3,200 colonies.

"Most of the beekeepers in Delaware are hobbyists," Mitchell pointed out. "They raise bees primarily for pollination, not honey production, but pollination services are extremely important to farmers who grow crops like melons, cucumbers or lima beans. Whether you get into beekeeping as a hobby or as a full-time occupation, it's one of the most interesting aspects of agriculture," said Mitchell.

"Beekeeping For Beginners" costs $10 per individual, $15 per family. The fee includes course materials and a one year membership in the Delaware Beekeepers Association. Participants are asked to bring a picnic lunch. Drinks will be provided. Anyone attending should also bring a bee hat and veil, though a limited supply will be available for those who do not have the equipment.

Pre-registration is advised, but not necessary. Walk-ins will be welcome. For more information or to register for short course, contact Robert Mitchell, 736-4811 or 1-800-282-8685.

U.S. Corn Export Potential Grows: Stolte

ST. LOUIS — Prospects for increasing U.S. corn exports look very positive, said Darwin Stolte, president of the U.S. Feed Grains Council at the February 26 general session of the National Corn Growers Association's (NCGA) Corn Classic.

Corn exports are making a strong recovery from a 1.2-billion bushel drop after record-high exports of 2.4-billion bushels of corn and corn products in 1980, said Stolte. Last year, U.S. corn rebounded 27 percent. Stolte predicted an 11 to 14 percent increase for this year.

U.S. corn may hit 75 percent of the global market share, said Stolte. This indicates that the farm program is working.

He cautioned farmers not to underestimate the importance of the Pacific market for their products. He said that of the 1.75-billion bushels in exports, 900 million went to Japan, Korea, Taiwan and China.

"That's 54 percent of the corn market overseas," said Stolte. "A lot of people say U.S. corn has lost the Asian market, but 86 percent of our recovery has been in those four countries."

Japan will continue to increase its demand for corn by 1 million tons, and Korea should double its demand from 4 to 8 million tons by 1992, reported Stolte.

Stolte sees China and the Soviet Union as significant new markets for U.S. corn. China has set a high priority to increase its livestock and feed milling industries; and it has announced a new policy to increase exports and gain hard currency to buy products such as U.S. corn.

With this new policy, China could be a 10-million-ton market by 1955 — "a very positive potential," said Stolte.

The Soviet Union plans to increase its per capita consumption of meat by 10 pounds by 1995, he reported. This could lead to a 6 million ton increase in demand for corn. Maintaining good rapport with the Soviets and a long term trade agreement will be key factors in cultivating this market.

"We need to take a more aggressive posture to give the Soviets more market access to the U.S." he added. "It is time to start finding ways to address this."

Stolte also saw a number of new markets developing such as Egypt, Turkey and the countries lining Africa's northern rim. Projects under the Targeted Export Assistance Program are reaching this market.

For example, Stolte reported that Algeria could increase its demand for corn from 700,000 tons to 2 million tons as model systems for dairy, beef and poultry are completed.

Developing markets takes time and investment, but it is encouraging to already see results, he said.

"We have a very positive situation regarding exports," said Stolte. Future success depends on keeping current agricultural policies in place, maintaining a competitive edge, and fostering an aggressive initiative in trade policy.

Casey Supports RCMA In Open Letter To Wolff

HARRISBURG, PA. — In an open letter to Boyd E. Wolff Secretary of Agriculture, Governor Robert P. Casey said: "The Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency (RCMA) represents 22,000 dairy farmers in 11 northeastern states, giving them a voice in realizing a fair price for their milk.

"RCMA has legal authority to bargain for better milk prices on behalf of all milk producers in Federal Orders 1, 2 and 4. The struggle to sign up producers and secure fair prices took more than 14 years and ended in victory in September 1987, with the first premium payments for milk produced. As a result, during the first three months of premium payouts, RCMA paid participating farmers $7 million.

"Through RCMA, producers work together to promote economic well-being in the dairy industry. This effort is important to the economy of Pennsylvania, since agriculture is Pennsylvania's leading industry and more than one-third of the state's agricultural income is from milk production.

"I support RCMA and efforts by milk producers to secure fair prices which will protect the long-term supply of milk."

Dairy Of Distinction Also Century Farm

BY BARBARA MILLER
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

DUSHORE: Few farms claim the honor of being a Dairy of Distinction and a century farm, but Ray and Shirley Norconk's Norval Farm, Dushore, has earned both designations.

It surprised very few when the Norconk's attractive, well-kept, farm edged with a white fence earned one of the five Dairy of Distinction plaques awarded in Bradford county last year. Sixty-five-year old Ray Norconk, a progressive farmer long active in farming circles, is the fourth generation to farm the homestead.

"Farming is in his blood," says Shirley Norconk of her husband, Ray.

And so it is.

In 1840 William Norconk, Ray's great grandfather, moved his family from the Danville area to the present homestead in Bradford county. At that time, according to Ray, the farm comprised of 100 acres. In 1947 the size of the farm was still 100 acres when Ray returned from the service and began farming in partnership with his father, Charles. At that time they had 15 cows.

Nine years later in 1956 Ray's father retired and Ray and Shirley took over the farm. "Dad retired and started working for me," Ray recalls with an amused look on his face. He said his father just couldn't quit farming and that he continued to help with the farm until he was in his eighties.

Shortly after Ray and Shirley purchased the place they renovated the barn to accomodate 30 cows.

"We raised a family on 30 cows," Ray noted. The Norconks children, Gary and Linda, are married and have presented them with four grandchildren. According to Shirley, the children and their parents still return to the farm to help with the work during the busy season.

In 1985 the Norconks purchased an adjoining farm which added 90 acres to the original 100 acre homestead. On this acreage with the help of one hired man they raise corn, oats, and hay for their animals.

They are currently milking 40 registered Holsteins and keep 48 replacements. Their present rolling herd average is 21,024 pounds of milk with a 3.5 test and 725 pounds of fat.

Ray winced as he related their current BAA score. It stands at 102.8, down from 104.1 a year ago.

"We lost two excellent cows this winter," he explained.

During the year, Ray has received various awards and has been involved in many farming organizations and activities. The Norconks' annual DHIA average has been the highest in Sullivan county on several occasions and this year their cow, Mercy, was the top producing cow in the county.

Although they live in the corner of Bradford county they are on Sullivan County DHIA. In 305 days Penn Col Marvex Mercy, an excellent cow, produced 31,495 pounds of milk and 1145 pounds of fat.

All but a few of the Norconks' cows are homebred. They sell their cattle as breeding stock on consignment at various sales such as the Sire Power sale and the annual Bradford county Sulbra Sale. Some Norval animals have been sold overseas.

One of Ray's favorite cows is Norval Elevation Princess (Ex) who at seven years, three months produced 29,076 pounds of milk and 841 pounds of fat. A ten-year-old now, Ray noted, she was milking 141 pounds of milk, at the time of the record.

Ray uses Sire Power and Select bulls as well as a few others and uses the AAA system and the Holstein Red Book as breeding tools.

Commenting on what it takes to be a successful dairyman today, Ray stated.

"About 101 things--- You got to be a good manager today. You have to have good cows and good feed and know how to manage things if you want to keep your head above water. I always said with a small herd like mine you got to make each and every cow do her part."

According to Ray, on a daily basis the Norconk's cattle are fed corn silage twice, haylage once, and hay and high moisture corn three times a day plus a supplement.

"The more you can get in the cow the more milk you make," Roy says. "Its got to be good feed, too." He feels that is where management comes in. To do a good job a farmer must be around his cows observing them as much as he can.

One morning in 1977 when the men were in the fields and Shirley was cleaning house she glanced at the barn and noticed a strange phenomenon. "The barn roof looked wavy, and it was just 10:30 in the morning."

Investigating, she discovered the barn was on fire. With the help of a young hired hand she managed to rescue all the cows but not the calves. The fire was too intense. "It just killed me when I went by the calves because I knew I couldn't stay any longer," she recalled.

Ray was 55 at the time of the blaze and Shirley said they debated what they should do. Since they had all their cows, they decided to rebuild. They erected their present barn with stanchions for 40 cows and a free stall arrangement for heifers in the rear. The new barn is complete with a spacious office and bathroom.

"After you've had an old barn, you never want a new one," Shirley observes, bemoaning yet the loss of a nearly 100-year-old barn with its large hand hewn beams and irreplaceable sense of the past.

Ray is a conscientious steward of the land, also. In 1962 he was chosen the Outstanding Cooperator in Bradford county for making soil conserving improvements on his land by strip cropping, tilling fields, making water ways, and building a pond. In the early seventies his farm was used as demonstration farm for five years by the extension office and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

For 12 years Ray served as a director of the PFA at the county level and is currently a director of the Bradford County Holstein Association. The congenial couple are Grange members and Shirley chaired the Women's Committee of the PFA for three years at the county level and two years at the state level.

For a young dairyman, Ray advises, "Don't get too deep in debt. Start gradually. The interest is what kills a young farmer today."

The Norconks occasionally take time from their busy routine to travel. Ray has enjoyed hunting trips to Montana and they have visited such places as Mexico and the Netherlands. They hosted an exchange student from the Netherlands in 1963 and, Shirley says, she became almost one of their family. They visited her on their trip to the Netherlands in 1972.

Shirley also enjoys music, having played the piano for years in their church and sung in the choir. She also collects family antiques such as the 150 year old family clock that was brought to the homestead by Ray's family when they moved to the farm. She reports she literally took the clock piece by piece to a local clockmaker a few years ago to have it repaired.

Although the Norconks thoroughly enjoy their way of life, it is with a feeling of concern that they note changes in the farming scene.

Ray observed at one time there were 20 farmers on his road that sold milk. "And now," he said, "there are two."

"I feel bad about so many family farms going but," Shirley added. "Nobody is as interested in your farm as you. I think it's sad."

But for now, the Norconks with their beautiful old farm provide a shining example of what is best in farming and may, perhaps, inspire others to take a second look at farming as a way of life.

Quilt Show Celebrates Diversity

In keeping with the tradition of recognizing the skill of quilters with fairs and blue ribbons, the York Quilters Guild is sponsoring a "Celebration of Quilts '88", a juried quilt show. It will be held April 23 and 24, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. at the Yorktowne Hotel, 48 E. Market St., downtown York. Admission is $2.50.

200 quilted items will be on display -- 84 full size quilts, 60 wallhangings, 13 crib quilts, 12 miniatures, and 8 pieces of clothing. 16 professional quilt artists are sending 18 works of art for display only (not to compete). Quilts are being sent from as far away as Maine and Nevada. The show will feature hourly demonstrations of quilting techniques, plus a slide show. The guest speaker will be Carol Welch, curator of the Erie Historical Museum.

Some quilts will be for sale. Lorraine Hovis, York County Commissioner will select the winner of the raffle quilt.

A Merchants Mall of vendors from communities around Pennsylvania and New Jersey will provide the quilter with a vast selection of quilting materials, some of which may have been available only through the mail. Amy Chamberlin will be demonstrating machine embroidery and machine quilting in the vending area as well.

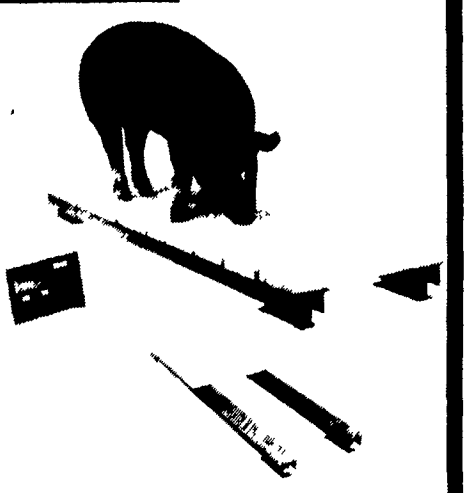
7 ft by 10 ft. weighing platform easily handles tandem axles

Rugged Butler Scale Systems are constructed of heavy gauge structural steel for years of reliable weighing.

J-STAR Universal/ Animal Scale



Economy, Precision & Versatility To Meet Your Management Needs

Features Include:
- 7' long weighing surface, variable width to fit your alleyway or application Suggested decking 2"x8" lumber or other suitable material (supplied locally)
- 4,000 lb capacity by 2-pound increments (other counting increments available)
- ½ % accuracy electronic scale system
- 12 volt DC electronics
- 200 pounds of structural steel assure rugged performance
- Reliable, shock-resistant strain gauge load cells for trouble-free, long lasting performance
- Low profile

Measures up to your needs

The Weighmaster platform scale from Butler offers precision for a variety of management needs Whether it's for permanent or portable applications, you can count on field-proven reliability and accuracy at a fraction of the cost of a conventional scale.
- Weighs up to 40,000 lbs on a 7-ft by 10-ft surface
- 12 volt DC electronics allows portable operation
- ½ % accuracy electronic system
- Optional 3-point hitch attachment and detachable ramps

Dairy Cooperative Supports Beef Referendum

Arlington, VA — National Milk Producers Federation, the trade association that represents dairy farmer-owned milk marketing cooperatives, is urging its members to participate in a campaign to inform the country's beef producers about the May 10 beef referendum.

NMPF's Executive Committee endorsed the beef checkoff by passing a resolution at the committee's March meeting.

The resolution states:

National Milk Producers Federation supports efforts to increase demand for beef through advertising, promotion and research. Dairy beef comprises more than twenty percent of the total beef supply and it is in the dairy farmers' best interest to participate in this effort by making financial contributions.

National Milk Producers Federation will support this effort by assisting the National Beef Promotion Board in communicating with the dairy farmer segment of the beef producing industry.

Because dairy beef is a substantial portion of the total beef supply, dairy farmers should be adequately represented on the National Beef Promotion Board and its committees.

The dairy industry's successful advertising and promotion program helped pave the way for beef producers to initiate a beef program aimed at increasing demand. While NMPF does no product advertising or promotion, NMPF spearheaded the drive to get Congressional approval for the dairy industry's self-funded program.

"Farmers now recognize that their interest doesn't end with food production," states NMPF President Tom Camerlo, a Colorado dairyman and long-time advertising advocate. "In this extremely competitive environment, there are thousands of new products on the grocery shelf every year. If dairy products or beef are going to compete, we have to be aggressive. That takes funding. A national, full participation program is the only way to assure that funding," Camerlo stresses.

Beef producers will vote on May 10 at the county extension office in the county where they live. Absentee ballots are available. Absentee ballots must be requested from the state extension office between April 1-29. Absentee ballots must be received in the county extension office by May 3.

The referendum will determine whether a majority of those beef producers who vote want to continue a mandatory $1 per head of cattle checkoff. The program was authorized under the 1985 Food Security Act, known as the 1985 farm bill.

Atlantic District 15

SOUTHAMPTON, Pa. — Atlantic Dairy Cooperative District 15 will hold its annual dinner meeting April 14 at 7 p.m. at the West Fallowfield Christian Day School, Cochranville.

James S. Fraher, Atlantic's economist, will be the guest speaker. Fraher will report on cooperative business and dairy issues.

During the meeting, election of officers will be held.

No spreader on the market can match the versatility of Scavenger.™

A new look in spreader design.

More than 7 years ago, Hedlund/Martin introduced the Scavenger—a manure spreader based on an entirely new technology.

Gone were unreliable apron chains and "rooster comb" beaters. Gone were leaky endgates. Gone were the old-fashioned boxy shape. In their place—a unique patented square auger and side-discharge expeller reel. And with its welded Unibody construction, Scavenger looked like nothing before.

But even though it looked unusual, Scavenger worked. Scavenger proved itself where it counts—in the fields of farmers all across America.

And like all successful advances in technology, Scavenger invited a slew of competitors. Today, a wide variety of farm equipment manufacturers sell a Scavenger-like machine.

Unmatched performance.

While some of these look-alike units are perfectly adequate for certain manure-spreading application, none can match Scavenger's overall versatility. Scavenger spreads all kinds of manure—liquid, semi-solid, pen pack (even frozen)—all year 'round. In even spread patterns up to 50 feet. All in one machine.

So when you find it's time to purchase a new spreader, take a hard look at your choices. Don't be misled by spreaders that claim to do it all. Compare actual capabilities. We think you'll find your choice obvious. You'll choose the spreader with unmatched performance—Scavenger.

See for yourself.

For a firsthand look at Scavenger, see your local Hedlund/Martin dealer. Or write: Hedlund/Martin, Inc., A Gehl Company, 741 Kutztown Road, Myerstown, PA 17067. Telephone: 717-933-4151.

Better Beans. Better yields. Better get some.

We're convinced that these beans are the best we've ever developed. Plant some and see for yourself. We think they'll convince you, too.

3981 Versatility has made this late Group III variety one of the top performers in the Pioneer lineup. It can be planted on a variety of soil types, and generally maintains good yields on the soils. 3981 has a 2.5 bushel per acre yield advantage over Williams. Additional traits include: bushy plants that work well in wide rows, high podding characteristics, very good shattering resistance and very good field tolerance to most races of Phytophthora Root Rot.

NEW 9361 You'll be looking at an impressive new soybean variety with this excellent mid-Group III variety. 9361 also offers high yield potential, strong emergence and early vigor. Good tolerance to Phytophthora Root Rot is another desirable feature of 9361. Because of its smaller seed size each unit goes a little farther at planting.

9391 As a new late Group III variety, 9391 is the yield leader. It has a wide area of adaptation and performs well under many growing conditions. 9391 gets out of the ground quickly, has good standability, and is resistant to Races 1-3 and 6-11 of Phytophthora Root Rot. It also has good field tolerance to other prevalent races. Smaller seed size and better seed quality gives 9391 additional advantage over the popular 3981 variety.

FARM FORUM OUR READERS WRITE

Editor:

As a vegetable grower I'd like to add a few comments to Benuel Stoltzfus' letter of last week in regards to the proposed vegetable referendum.

This money that will be taken from us will be spent on research and advertising, and overseen by the State Secretary of Agriculture. As I see it, plenty of our tax money is already being spent for just that! The Secretary of Ag is paid by our taxes, Penn State conducts research with it and the State also has an ad campaign ("We're Growing Better") funded by taxes. I'm not against taxes, or even paying them, but why rob the small growers to do what our tax money should be doing anyway?

As for the cost, one only has to look as far as the State operated C.A.T. insurance fund to realize once they are taking your money, there is no recourse but to give more when they demand it year after year. Or look at the Federal deficit for that matter.

I urge all growers to take a hard look at the referendum, and vote against it. Your advertising money is better spent on a sign or a newspaper ad or whatever you prefer than in the hands of politicians. Remember, once the vote is over, you won't get another chance.

Timber-High Value Crop

By Bob Merrill, State Forester

CLARION — Many farmers and other landowners of Pennsylvania are being given offers for their timber. Others probably will be asked to sell their timber, if they haven't yet.

As with any valuable agriculture crop, proper management of timber can result in substantial returns. One major difference with timber is that the crop may be thinned or harvested only once or twice every 70 to 100 years. Any practice performed to a woodland has long lasting affects. With today's increased timber values, proper management has become an even more important consideration if you are going to cut your trees.

One very popular timber cutting practice in western Pennsylvania is called diameter limit cutting. There are a few variations, but basically it is cutting all trees over a certain diameter in inches measured at stump height. An example would be a landowner who sells all of his trees over 15 inches diameter measured at stump height.

From the logging stand poiint, this is a very simple method of indicating which trees should be cut. The landowner can easily see what size trees the timber buyer is going to purchase. And, when the job is done, it is easy to see that those trees were, in fact, cut.

From a timber management standpoint, however; this cutting practice is a complete disaster. Cutting trees that have achieved a certain diameter means cutting the fastest growing trees. Most of our forests originated from entirely cut stands of mature old growth forests between the late 1800's and the 1930's. Since red oak is one of the faster growing trees in our forests, these trees reach a larger size in a shorter time. Cutting by a diameter limit tends to remove the red oak and faster growing white oaks leaving the slower growing red maple, hickory, ash, birch, beech, hemlock and wild cherry..

Cooperatives Association Supports PSU Research For Farmer Profitability

SHAMOKIN DAM — The Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives (PAFC) has endorsed a $9.5 million request for additional research monies for the Pennsylvania State University's College of Agriculture.

PAFC Executive Director Kathy Gill, testifying before the Pennsylvania Republican Agricultural Policy Committee, endorsed additional agricultural budget items outlined by the Pennsylvania State Council of Farm Organizations. Included in that package are monies for Penn State, the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board, the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources and the Pennsylvania Department of Education and allied groups.

Specifically, PAFC is interested in a Penn State strategic research area called "improving farmer profitability." Included in this category is a $268,000 item to expand Pennsylvania's market research on cooperatives in agriculture.

"Currently, Penn State does not have a research program specifically focused on cooperatives," Gill said, "even though cooperatives have been one traditional route by which farmers can improve profits by enhancing market prices or reducing input costs."

Noting that production agriculture and its related agribusinesses are undergoing major structural changes, Gill said "economic issues remain paramount. That's why we support this request for an additional $1.6 million for research on improving farm profitability."

She cited the Pennsylvania Cooperative Agricultural Association Act of 1968 as amended as another factor. That Act specifies that Penn State and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture conduct educational programs for cooperative directors. "This educational effort must be based upon sound research," she said.

In addition, traditional farm management has emphasized maximizing yields, which Gill contends runs counter to maximizing profits. "We need research on the optimum mix of inputs for maximum profits," she said, "rather than research on how to get maximum yields with little regard for costs."

PAFC also went on the record endorsing additional funds for Vocational Student Organizations, adult vocational education programs and Ag in the Classroom.

PAFC is a 55-year-old trade association representing agricultural and rural cooperatives operating in the Commonwealth. Economic activity by these firms exceeds $2.5 billion annually.

Often in diameter limit cuts the better trees are selected for cutting, leaving poor quality trees. These remaining trees then provide the seed for the next generations of forests. Also, the remaining trees tend to shade out the oak seedlings which need full sunlight to grow, and favor trees that grow in the shade such as hemlock, white pine, beech, birch and red maple. Thus diameter limit cutting tends to develop stands that have very little oak. What oak is developed is generally of poorer quality. Consider what this does to our forest resource over the next 25 to 50 years. Genetic deprivation is going to have extremely important ramifications determining not only which species is going to be allowed to regenerate, but also the quality of that species.

Proper forest management using a variety of cutting practices can improve our forests and retain the valuable oaks now in much demand by world markets. This is accomplished by thinning our forests to improve the rate of growth of the best trees. Poor quality trees, are first cut to give more growing space for better trees. This is like thinning a garden to get the crops growing bigger and better. When the crops are mature, meaning the good trees have reached a point where they start to slow their growth rate, they are harvested. Proper management requires the forests to be monitored to make certain there is good quality and quantity of seed and young trees ready to start a new forest before the crop is harvested.

Timber values for oak and cherry and many other species are higher today than ever. Many landowners are surprised at the values of timber. Historically, timber prices have continued to rise. As trees grow they not only increase in volume, but improve in grade as knots and blemishes heal over. If a tree 16 inches diameter chest high grows three inches, it gains about half again as much volume. Those landowners that properly manage their woodlands now will gain substantial returns in the future.

For most people timber sales are a once in a lifetime experience. When you consider one bid for timber may be twice what another bid is for the same trees, a timber sale is something you need to do with as much care as possible.

If you are going to sell some timber, state foresters and consultant foresters can give you information on how to get the most for it and how to do it the best way. For information on timber sales and consultalnt foresters you can contact your county forester listed under the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Rersources, Bureau of Forestry, County Conservation District, or County Extension Service.

Remember, proper forest management insures many benefits from our present and future forests, whereas, diameter limit cutting can eliminate our valuable forest resource. Also remember that sales conducted under the supervision of a consultant assures that the landowner is receiving the highest possible price for the volume of timber being sold.

NIBEX 500 UNIQUE PRECISION SEEDER

CUP DISC

For thin-line group or band planting of natural and pellcted seed. Even for hard-to-handle seed such as dill, cucumber and parsnip.

A wide selection of cup sizes and shapes in combination with a variety of coulters make NIBEX 500 an ideal all-round precision seeder.

The cups gently pick up the seeds and place them directly in the furrow — without the slightest damage!

With the precision-feed system, you avoid heavy costs — especially by using natural seed.

Difficult, costly thinning is eliminated entirely for some crops and reduced considerably for others.

ORGANIC UNPOLLUTED FOOD WANTED BY LARGE COMPANIES PEOPLE ARE WISING UP

We Now Have 2 Great Announcements.

No. 1. Four different companies want to buy organic produce in quantity. One is a Jewish company that is putting up a huge building with warehouse in Phila.

No. 2. We now have a new cheap product that farmers say changes their soil very fast, releasing the collodiel minerals, producing crops so healthy and sweet that bugs don't touch them — just like the good all-wise Creator designed it in the first place. He sends bugs to devour the unhealthy crops so you and I don't eat them. Good plan! It is not a joke even though it may sound like a joke like Noah's ark seemed like a joke. It takes some farmers a long time to learn this. Our customers have been smart for years because they believe that disobeying natural law carries a penalty, which people can see very plentifully today unless they have eyes to see that do not see, and ears to hear that do not hear. People are rising up by the swarms, demanding better food, that is fit to eat. Meet the above mentioned buyers at the meeting. "Where there is no vision the people perish." Pro. 29:18.

LIVESTOCK FARMERS NOTICE

Chances are feed will get higher priced, and milk is coming down, making your squeeze worse. And how can you sell your milk or cows when the mark of the beast comes (another squeeze) which is extremely close. We can know, if we have a love for the truth. 2 Thess. 2:1-13. The groundwork is laid in Washington. It is said there are much less vegetables being grown in some areas like Mexico by American companies, which should raise the price, leaving a good opportunity for you.

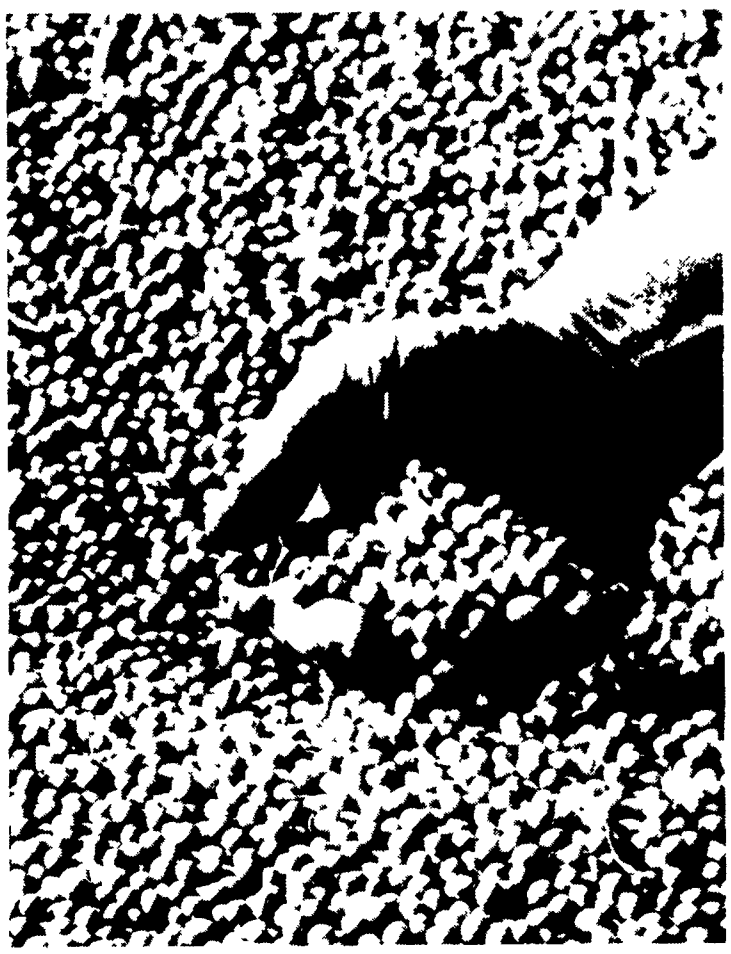
Need excellent quality protein for your dairy cows?



BUY IT OR GROW IT

Consider a Harvestore® haylage system from Penn Jersey!

* Substantially reduce protein supplement purchases in most cases.
* Beat rising soybean prices.
* Economical pre-owned Harvestore haylage systems available for first cutting.

CALL FOR COMPLETE LISTING OF PRE-OWNED EQUIPMENT AVAILABLE

The results you may achieve with your Harvestore® System depend primarily upon your management skills and may vary from successful results achieved by others. Any application to a particular farming operation requires the advice of qualified experts and is subject to limitations of good management, weather and other conditions present at the individual location.

Farm Wife Gets Paid For Poking Fun At Life

BY SALLY BAIR
Lancaster Co. Correspondent

LANCASTER — Pat Leimbach may be the most well-known farm woman in the United States. Not only can she drive a tractor, go for parts and sell vegetables from a roadside stand, she has also written three books, 23 years' worth of weekly columns and speaks throughout the country.

Indeed, on her stationary she calls herself "farm wife, columnist, free lance writer, public speaker."

"Farm wife" is listed first, and it is from her experiences as a farm wife that most of her material for speaking and writing comes. As she works on her weekly column, she says, "It is mostly the fruit of the week." Her columns are believable because her talent is putting into words those everyday experiences that everyone goes through. She not only puts them into words, but she puts them into humorous words, and when she describes them in a speech, most farm women know they have been there.

She is the first to admit that her writing opened up a "whole new dimension for a middle-aged woman who had oriented her life to home and family." She went public 23 years ago, and life has not been the same since.

Pat recalls that her entry into the writing field came when she was editing a church newsletter in the state of Ohio. "To persuade people to read it rather than throw it in the wastebasket, I wrote personal essays which drew a moral. I got a lot of good feedback on my little essays." This feedback encouraged her to "bundle up my church essays" and submit them to the

Pat Leimbach

Elyria, Ohio, Chronicle-Telegram to see if they were interested in having a farm wife column. She adds, "They were kind of corny, but there is a market for corn."

In the 23 years of weekly columns, Pat says she never missed a column because she completely "bombed out of ideas." Instead she missed once when she was in the hospital delirious, once when she was in Europe and the mail didn't get the column there on time, and once when she was skiing with friends and the planes were delayed.

In preparing the column she says, "I don't know why I am such a procrastinator. I think it has something to do with a compulsion for perfection, and I keep thinking that surely something better will come along." However, by 9 p.m. on Friday night she must put pencil to paper and produce the column, which is then called in to a woman who goes home at 2 a.m. That is the deadline, and the clock ticks away while she writes. She adds that no matter where she is, she makes that Friday night phone call.

Sometimes she says she thinks it might be easier to write more columns each week, because, "Once the column is finished the brain is teeming. If I weren't so tired I could write another column." She is always thinking of the next column. "It hangs over you like a wake," Pat says. "It is still an agony."

Her inspiration comes from everything around her. She freely admits that she is "high on farm women. I am always awed by dairymen's wives. Being a farm wife is a life long struggle of on the job training." Being married to a farmer for 37 years has certainly given her an unending supply of material.

The farm she shares with her husband is a potato, vegetable and grain operation. She grew up on a fruit farm, so she knows a lot about rural living, and she knows what most farm families learn quickly - that a sense of humor is absolutely essential to survival.

Pat says, "The raising of food and fiber is a high and holy calling - but you get dirty doing it." She remembers when a "hired girl" was a standard fixture on the farm, lightening the load for farm women. Now she says, "Seventy-five percent of farm wives are keeping the books, and most do field work. It's hard to know if we've been burdened or blessed. We've had a lot of baggage passed down to us over generations. Farm wives must garden, bake, mend, tailor, carry casseroles, crochet potholders and go to 4-H clubs. Farm women are the most over-employed people on the face of the globe."

Her philosophy of support for farm women comes clearly through in her columns which appear in a suburban area, and educate many people to the true life on a farm. Pat says, "We live in a very populous area. It is not rural and that is an advantage to me. Our friends don't farm, and my audience is basically urban and surburban." Her column appears on the farm page.

In her gentle way she pokes fun at her way of life and her neighbors, but says, "I don't very often insult anybody. The difference between me and Garrison is that I still live in Lake Woebegone." She refers, of course, to Garrison Keillor, the former host of a Prairie Home Companion, a public radio program who had a weekly monologue on the fictional Lake Woebegone.

It was in 1975 that "Farm Journal", for whom she also wrote columns, convinced her to edit her columns for a book which became "A Thread of Blue Denim." Since then she has had two more collections of her columns published, one as "All My Meadows," and another as "Harvest of Bittersweet."

Because of her newspaper exposure, she was asked to speak to the Farm Bureau Women in Ohio in 1973. "It was the first check I got for speaking," she recalls. In her self-deprecating way, she recalls that the meal itself had been a comedy of errors, with a waitress dropping a tray and a woman falling backward off the stage. By the time Pat was introduced as speaker, she says, "It wouldn't have mattered who spoke. I had so much fun. It gave me all kinds of confidence that I could be a public speaker."

Actually, her public speaking skills had been honed by speaking to church women's groups for years prior to that first paid speech. It was the church speaking that "put me at ease on my feet."

Her career was launched, however, and Pat recalled, "I had a career the like of which no farm woman has ever heard. I have been very lucky." She averages about 100 speeches a year, although they are not all paying speeches. "I love speaking," she says, something that comes as no surprise to anyone who has heard her and knows the spirit with which she makes her presentations. She adds, "I love meeting people and staying with farm families. I have an incomparable network of farm families."

Pat has also had a story about her appear in the Wall Street Journal, appeared on the Today Show (she notes that Jane Pauley is nicer and prettier in person than on TV), spoke on the Larry King show and had a host of other lofty experiences. Calling 1988 "quite a year," she noted that she did a book tour, and arrangements have been made for all three books to be published in paperback.

Nevertheless, she says, "I have no illusion about who I am." She quickly gets back to being a farm wife as soon as she drives in her farm lane, and the potatoes beckon.

She is quite candid in saying she enjoys the traveling involved with her speaking. She says, "After 15 years I still like to travel, and I enjoy being alone and indulging in pleasures that I can't otherwise, like reading. I also like to prowl around shops. Sometimes I work on correspondence. Nevertheless, Pat admits, "I have the awful lingering frustration about not giving time to my family and home. I have the frustration of neglecting things at home." As an aside she says quietly, "My bedroom ceiling needs to be painted."

Her youngest son was in seventh grade when her traveling started, and she says, "I worked real hard to

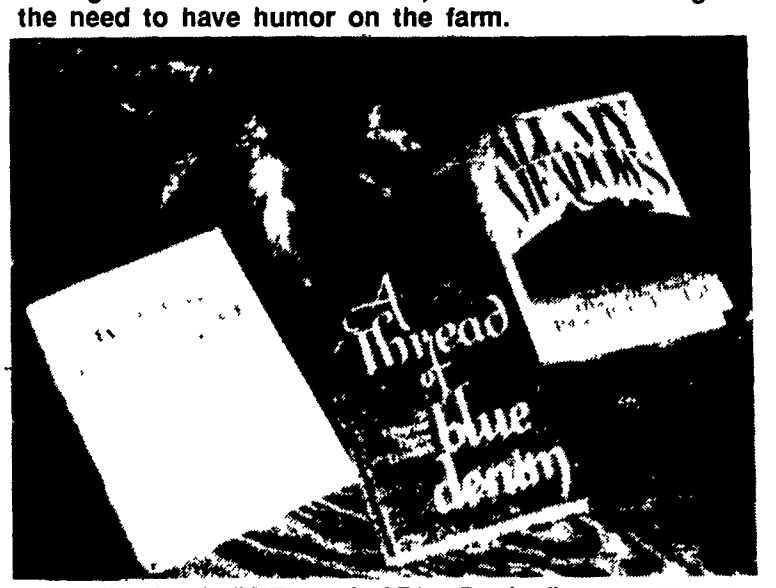
Pat Leimbach entertains her audience with humorous experiences from life on a potato and vegetable farm in Ohio. The author of a weekly column and three books, Pat's writing reflects a love of the land, and an understanding of the need to have humor on the farm.



The first book, "A Thread of Blue Denim," was written at the "goading" of Farm Journal. The next two reflect different times in the author's life. All three will be available in paperback in the future.

Autographing one of her books, Pat takes time to speak to each of the buyers, and personalizes her comments. The books are a compilation of her weekly columns, and provide insight into rural living. She makes it clear in her speeches and in her writing that she thoroughly admires today's farm wife, the most "overemployed people on the face of the globe."

Fast Food: Changes On The Horizon

PITTSBURG — Taking a trip on the "fast food" train is becoming a whole new experience these days according to Judy Dodd, Registered Dietitian with the Dairy & Nutrition Council. Judging by the new menu items, consumer interest in nutrition is influencing the variety being offered.

We are now seeing broiled or baked fish (guess what, it tastes great without the frying and the breading) have joined salad bars! It's easier in some chains to avoid the high sodium extras... the catsup, mustard and dill pickles.. and high calories "special sauces". There was a day when asking for a burger without these extras brought terror into the strongest heart. The stares of the counter clerk, grill person and other customers immediately labelled you as somehow interferring with the "fast" part of the chain's promise. Stares have been reduced to brief acknowledgement of the interruption in the assembly line thanks to the trend to meeting special needs.

On another front, we are beginning to see some quality statements such as "Real Cheese", 100% juice and whole grain buns. Milk is a menu item that often is available in low fat choices. It is possible to have milk for your coffee and milk in your milkshakes in place of the coffee lighteners and non-dairy products that don't provide the mineral calcium.

The questions to be considered are:

Is this a trend which will continue? or Are we doomed to return to a fast food selection that is geared to those without fat and sodium concerns? Will real and fresh overpower imitation and not-so-fresh?

The answers depend on you and on me! We determine the selections available in our favorite eateries, be they fast food or elegant dining. If we don't select an item it is removed from the menu. The we has to be a significant group. That means we have to build support for this trend by enlisting our friends and family members.

Considering that the average family eats out at least once per week and that most working people eat out at least once each day... we can build some consumer power. Take the time to thank your favorite chain for their menu improvements... comment on portion sizes... suggest other ideas. Many restaurants provide cards for this purpose.

And for those of you planning meals for the public, there are consumers who prefer fresh, crisp vegetables and fruits, real dairy products, lower fat and sodium choices and "naked meats" — without the breading, sauce or gravies. Smaller or half portion sizes are also appreciated.

The fast food train is... true to its name, speeding into a changing land where people do have some concerns for quality and nurtition. Take a ride and enjoy the new scenery!

Farm Wife Gets Paid

keep things normal at home." She worked so hard doing everything, however, that she became seriously ill. She now says, "I am not fastidious. I finally recognize that I cannot keep up with my friends and the way they keep their houses and the way they entertain."

With three sons and a husband left behind, Pat also says, "It was difficult for my husband for a long time. He married one person and ended up with another. We finally worked that through, and the financial help has been more than welcome. Now we are building some security for the future." A side benefit has been that her husband Paul has been able to travel with her and through the travels has met a lot of other farmers. He, of course, has had his own full life, active in farm organizations, and currently president of the Ohio Potato and Vegetable Growers.

Through the years Pat has shared much of her life with her readers. They shared in the joys of watching her three sons grow up, and in the sorrow of losing one in an accident. Currently one son farms with them and lives at home, and the second son lives nearby with three grandchildren for Pat to enjoy.

Day-by-day, Pat is fully involved in the operation of the family farm, "End O' Way," near Vermilion, Ohio. She will continue to take joy and inspiration from life on those 240-acres, and from the broader life she has made for herself traveling throughout the country as a popular public speaker.

Her articulation of daily living provides insight into farming, and into the life of a farm family. Her weekly readers will continue to share that life, as will the readers of her books. Not every farm wife can write and speak of their experiences, but every farm wife can relate to Pat's enthusiasm, her faith, her love of the land and her belief that a farm wife is "the heart and soul of any successful farm."

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Chocked full and topped off, our diesel fuel supply tanks are readied for the spring field work push by men and machines.

That the tanks were topped off just ahead of the "diesel tax" which went into effect last week - April Fool's Day appropriately enough - is a credit to our dependable local fuel service firm.

"Gotcha' again!" comes a cry from somewhere deep in the layers of federal bureauracy.

In legislation to "fix" the method in which the 15-cent on-road-use diesel tax is collected, the tax must now be paid at the wholesale level. Someone apparently decided it would be easier to collect from wholesalers than from retail distributors farther along the chain, some of whom are apparently not rendering unto Uncle Sam that which is to be rendered.

Fair enough? Except that overlooked in this budget correction legislation was the minor fact that off-road users of diesel, like farmers, fishermen, barge operators, etc., are not subject to paying the tax to begin with. Swiped with the same wide brush, we off-farm users of diesel now pay an extra 15-cents - which we don't by law even owe - on every gallon delivered. (We use several thousand gallons of diesel here annually; many farms use several more times the volume we use.)

Supposedly, by October 1, this "accident" of charging an unlevied tax is to be repealed, and we can file for a tax credit next year. It can't be done sooner because that tax income is already figured into this year's budget spending. In other words, this unfairly-charged diesel tax becomes Uncle's Sam's cash flow. And interest free.

What about the farmer's, or the fisherman's, or barge operator's cash flow? Who's he going to tax in turn to make it up?

Gee, we're supposed to be a lender of sorts for the federal government. Interest free? How many lending institutions have you ever heard of that operate like that? (One name; one name is all I need.)

Right on the heels of this up-front payment of unlevied tax came a certified, return-receipt-request, plain-brown-wrapper envelope- also from our friends in Washington. This good news emanated from a Board of Hearings and Appeals within the Department of Energy and cost us taxpayers over two dollars just to be delivered to our front door.

After wading through a stack of official looking papers, I finally deduced that a claim our accountant had filed for a gas-overcharge was being accepted.

The claim was allowed under a decision made some time ago that petroleum companies had overcharged on crude products way back some years ago. As users of refined product, we have been deemed eligible for a refund.

Our refund claim was lumped in with those of 50 other random applicants from as close as neighbor counties and as far away as Mississippi, Kansas and Idaho. On a complicated formula, figuring petroleum consumption during that period times based on 23.8 gallons used per acre farmed, with allowance to multiply by up to 7.44 years, some busy little computers somewhere came up with a total petroleum use for us random 51 claimants lumped together for efficiency sake of 6,077,402 gallons.

Now, multiply that times the amount per gallon we are to get as a refund: $0.0002 per gallon. Is that two ten-thousands of a cent?

Whatever. We have been awarded a grand total of $18. Which is more than a fellow Pennsylvanian who got $3. And less than the largest claim award - in our group - of $141 to a Georgia producer. The 51 of us together will get back the sum total of $1,212.

One wonders: how much did - and will - the federal government spend in legal fees, clerical help, administrative staff, offices, computers, overtime, holiday pay, fringe benefits, pension - and postal charges - to get our $18 refund to us eventually? Remember, postage alone was over two bucks.

And is that cost of refunding an overcharge being financed by the 15-cents per gallon we must pay - unfairly - for the next at least five months in an unlevied diesel tax?

D'ya suppose I can deduct the cost of the dentist's bill I'm going to have from the effects of gritting my teeth?

CHELATION THERAPY

THIS MAY BE YOUR ANSWER TO: Heart Problems, High Blood Pressure, Poor Circulation, Arthritis, Diabetes, Leg Cramps, Numbness, Tingling, Cold Hands And Feet & Atherosclerosis.

All of these conditions may be helped by Golden Pride Formula #1. This aids in removing approximately 50 detrimental factors including lead, mercury and calcium deposits from the arteries. It also lowers triglycerides and cholesterol.

This chelated formula called Golden Pride Formula #1 is available in a pleasant-tasting form containing honey, royal jelly, bee pollen and the chelating agent EDTA. Start to erase years of damage to your system. Good nutrition can elevate many health problems. The following are just a few testimonies of some of the many persons using Golden Pride Products.

Dear Golden Pride
My sinus problems have plagued me for about 15 years and was progressively getting to the point of infections, watering eyes, pressure pain, drainage and throbbing headaches. My sinuses would really get congested in spring and fall. My head and eyes hurt so bad that many times I could not manage to do simple tasks. I needed to lie down. I would take over-the counter sinus medication but it would upset my stomach, so I resigned myself to accept this problem and live with it before Golden Pride's Bee Pollen came into my life. My husband introduced me to bee pollen and encouraged me to try it even though I was skeptical. I started to use it and have taken it faithfully every day for over one year. It was a gradual process of improvement but now I rarely experience a headache or congestion. My head feels clear. Golden Pride's Bee Pollen has achieved these results for me. Truly a miracle food. (P.S. I also was experiencing heart palpitations and hot flashes due to my change of life. These problems seem to be controlled since I added the other Golden Pride Formulas for Health.)
Alice Abrahamsen

Dear Golden Pride:
I have Parkinson Disease that causes me to have tremors and have been unable to hold anything in my hand or use it much. After my first jar of Formula I, my tremors are 90 percent gone and I now have use of my hand. I am so thankful for Golden Pride products because Bee Pollen gives me energy and Propolis keeps me from suffering from a continuous kidney problem I have had for years.
Mazie Lawson

Dear Golden Pride
I have a Mitor Valve Prolapse and when I was on Formula #1 for nearly 2 weeks I saw a remarkable improvement. No heartflutters in palpitation for this time. I am convinced that no other product can help this situation.

Sweeten Your Tastes With Honey

Since honey needs no refining or processing before using, it is considered the most natural of all sugars and is easily digested. Honey is delicious in hot tea or drizzled on pancakes, french toast, toast, hot and cold cereal, fresh fruit or ice cream.

The Pennsylvania Beekeepers offer the following hints in using honey:

•To reliquify crystallized honey, place jar in warm water and let stand for 5 minutes. In the microwave, cook on high for 1½ minutes.

•To replace sugar with honey, use ¾ cup honey to every 1 cup dry sweetner, reduce other liquids by ¼ cup and reduce baking temperature by 25 degrees.

•Honey has marvelous "keeping" qualities due to its ability to absorb and retain moisture, which retards drying out and staling baked goods. Cakes and cookies in which honey is an ingredient stay fresh and moist much longer.

•Honey produces instant energy, without putting a strain on the digestive system.

•Honey contains minute quantities of nearly every nutrient the body requires.

•The flavor and color of honey largely depends upon the plants from which the nectar to make it is gathered. It varies in color from the water white of clover, alfalfa, and some fall flowers to the dark rich colors of tulip poplar and buckwheat. The flavors are almost as extreme; from the very mild locust, clovers and alfalfa through to the more flavorful honeys, such as tulip poplar, wild flower, and buckwheat. Individuals who think honey is too sweet, should try one of the fuller-flavored honeys.

From the many recipes our readers submitted, you're sure to find several you'll use again and again.

APPLE CRISP

8 cups apples, sliced
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup honey
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1½ to 2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon lemon juice
Pinch of salt
¾ cup flour
⅓ cup brown sugar
⅓ cup butter

Combine first seven ingredients and put in greased 9-inch square pan. Crumb next three ingredients and put on top of apples. Bake at 350 degrees for 55 to 60 minutes.

WHOLE WHEAT HONEY BREAD

2 packages yeast
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons oil
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons sesame seed
½ cup warm water
2½ cups scalded milk, cooled to lukewarm
1½ cups water
⅓ cup honey
½ cup wheat germ
7 cups white flour
3½ cup whole wheat flour

Dissolve yeast in the warm water. Sprinkle with sugar. Pour milk in large bowl, adding salt, oil, butter, 1½ cup water, and honey. Add yeast mixture. Slowly mix in 4½ cups white flour and beat hard until elastic-like. Cover and let rise about 30 minutes. Stir in wheat germ and sesame seed, and 3½ cups whole wheat flour. Slowly mix in white flour until too thick to mix. Turn out on floured surface and knead in remaining flour. Knead well. Cover and let rise about 1½ hours or until double. Punch down and divide into 4 parts. Shape into loaves. Place in greased loaf pans. Let rise in warm place until double. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes then 325 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes.

HONEYED GINGERBREAD

2¼ cups sifted flour
⅓ cups sugar
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup light molasses
½ f cup honey
¾ cup hot water
½ cup butter
1 egg
1 pint whipping cream (whipped and lightly sweetened to taste)

Sift together flour, sugar, baking soda, ginger, cinnamon and salt into large mixer bowl. Add molasses, honey, hot water, butter and egg. Beat at low speed 30 seconds, scraping bowl constantly. Beat at medium speed 3 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Turn into greased 9-inch square pan.

Bake in 325 degree oven for 50 to 55 minutes or until cake tests done. Serve warm topped with whipped cream. Makes 9 servings.

HONEY ICE CREAM

5 eggs
2 cups whipping cream
1 cup light cream
2 tablespoons vanilla
2¼ cup honey
1 quart milk
Dash of salt

Separate eggs, and beat whites until soft peaks form and egg yolks until thick. Add cream, egg yolks and honey to egg whites, then the milk, salt and vanilla. Put into a freezer and freeze until stiff.

Honey is a delicately flavored, golden syrup—unique because it is the only natural unmanufactured sweet available in large quantities. It takes approximately 556 worker bees flying 1⅓ times the distance around the world to produce a pound of honey.

BEST HONEY BAKED BEANS

1 gallon white navy beans, ready-to-eat
1 32-ounce bottle catsup
¼ to ½ pound bacon &
1 medium onion fried together
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
2 cups brown sugar
2 cups honey

Mix all ingredients together and bake for one hour at 350 degrees. Serves 50 people. Makes one gallon.

HONEY HOT CAKES

3 tablespoons honey
1 cup milk
2 eggs
¼ cup cooking oil
2 cups pancake mix
½ cup chopped pecans

Combine honey, egg, milk and cooking oil. Add to pancake mix and chopped pecans. Stir until large lumps disappear. Do not over mix. Bake on hot griddle and serve while hot with butter and desired topping.

For 20 years, Lee and Carolyn Schleicher have had a honey of a hobby. They raise bees for honey. The Schleichers have hives in Lehigh and Northampton Counties. Each of their 36 colonies house sixty to eighty thousand bees during the summer months. The Schleichers process the honey and wax at their Catasauqua home and then sell it.

Lee is so comfortable with the bees that he has allowed 2500 bees to form a bee beard on his chin. To begin a beard, a queen bee is encased in a plastic box and taped to his chin. Twenty-one pounds of bees attach themselves to the queen bee.

Enjoy some of the Schleicher's favorite recipes using honey.

Honey-Oatmeal Chews

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup honey
½ cup granular sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
¾ cup flour

ANSWER - Brenda Sauder, New Holland, requested a recipe that her family refers to as Egg Cakes. Thanks to a steady reader who sent this recipe.

Egg Cakes

1 cup milk
1 egg
1 tablespoon flour
Dash of salt

Mix ingredients together. Pour into a hot greased skillet. Cover with a lid and bake it until lightly browned. Can be eaten with catsup, mustard, gravy, syrup or molasses. Serves one.

ANSWER - Linda Christman, Greencastle, requested the size of the pan used for making Unbaked Bar Cookies. Thanks to a reader who suggested she use a 9x12-inch pan. If it is not the desired thickness, use a larger or smaller cake pan.

ANSWER - Helen Heckman, Hamburg, requested a recipe for Lep cookies. Thanks to an anonymous reader for sharing hers.

Lep Cookies

2 cups butter
4 pounds brown sugar
12 eggs
1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons vanilla
1 tablespoon salt
2 tablespoons baking soda
5 cups buttermilk
4¾ pounds bread flour

Mix first six ingredients with a potato masher. Add 3 tablespoons baking soda that has been dissolved in 5 cups buttermilk; add 4¾ pounds bread flour. Bake at 350 degrees for 10-15 minutes. Put butter icing on cookies after they cool.

ANSWER - A reader requested a recipe for an Angel Food Cake that is big and fluffy. Thanks to a reader for the following recipe.

Angel Food Cake

8 egg whites
1 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 cup sifted flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar

First beat egg whites slightly and add salt and cream of tartar. Beat until stiff. Gradually add sugar while beating. Lightly fold in flour and vanilla. Bake in tube pan at 350 degrees about 1 hour.

ANSWER - Judi Spurling, Schwenksville, would like a recipe for butter cream Easter eggs that have a smooth, slightly soft center and are not overly sweet. Thanks to a reader for the following recipe.

Vanilla Butter Cream

2 pounds powdered sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ pound butter
Melted chocolate

Mix together sugar, vanilla, and butter. Add a few drops of milk if mixture sticks together. Roll in small balls. Dip into melted semi-sweet chocolate and place on waxed paper until cold.

ANSWER - Marcia Brady needed recipes for dressings and sauces to top fruit salad. Thanks to A. Hoover and Mary R. Watkins, Clarksburg, Md., for sending several.

Fruit Salad Thickening

1½ tablespoon clearjel or cornstarch
1½ cup drained fruit juices
¼ cup jello (any flavor)
¼ teaspoon salt

Drain all the juice from your fruits. With fork or wire beater mix the juice with the remaining ingredients until lumps disappear. Cook over medium heat until thickened.

Fruit Salad Thickening

12-ounces frozen orange concentrate
6 cups drained fruit juices
5-6 tablespoons clear-jel.

Heat juices with orange concentrate. Make a paste with some of the fruit juices and clear-jel. Stir into hot juice to thicken. Cool. Pour over fruit.

Fruit Dressing

¼ teaspoon dry mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon onion juice
1 cup cider vinegar
4 teaspoons paprika
4 tablespoons celery seed
1½ cups water
½ cup oil
3 cups sugar

Combine first five ingredients. Bring to boil. Simmer over low heat about 5 minutes. Remove from heat; add remaining ingredients. Chill. Serve on fruit salad.

Zangy Fruit Topping

2 cup cottage cheese
2 tablespoons unsweetened frozen juice concentrate

Combine ingredients. Whip at high speed until peaks form. Makes 1 cup.

Yogurt Sauce

1 cup yogurt
1½ tablespoon fruit juice
1½ tablespoon cornstarch

Mix and heat in a pan until thickened. Makes 1 cup.

Fruit Jel

1 cup unsweetened fruit juice
1 tablespoon corn starch
¼ teaspoon lemon juice

Mix and heat in a pan until thickened. Yields about 1 cup.

ANSWER - V. Martin of Springfield, Va., requested recipes for animal crackers and vanilla cookies. Thanks to an anonymous reader for sharing hers.

HONEY-FILLED COFFEE CAKE

2 packages dry yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk
½ cup shortening
2 teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
2 eggs, beaten
4½ cups sifted flour
Honey Filling (recipe follows)
Honey Glaze (recipe follows)
Melted butter

Sprinkle yeast over lukewarm water, stir to dissolve. Scald milk in saucepan. Stir into shortening, salt and sugar in large bowl. Cool until lukewarm.

Add eggs, yeast mixture, and 1 cup flour. Beat 2 minutes with electric mixer at medium speed; scrape bowl occasionally. Gradually add enough flour to make a soft dough that leaves the sides of the bowl. Turn onto floured surface. Knead until smooth.

Place dough in greased bowl; turn dough over to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 1½ hours.

Punch down dough and let rest 10 minutes. Turn out on floured surface. Divide dough in half. Roll out half of dough to 16x12-inch rectangle. Brush with melted butter and spread with half of Honey Filling. Roll up like jelly roll; seal edges. Cut in 1-inch slices. Place slices in greased 10-inch tube pan so they barely touch. Arrange remaining slices in layers, covering up the spaces—with no slice directly on top of the other. Prepare remaining dough in same manner. Cover and let rise in warm place until doubled, about 30 minutes.

Bake in 350 degree oven 40 to 60 minutes or until sides and top are well-browned. (If bread browns too soon, cover with aluminun foil the last half of the baking time.) Loosen coffee cake from pan; cool on rack. Immediately pour Honey Glaze over coffee cake. Makes 1 coffee cake.

HONEY FILLING:
½ cup honey
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 tablespoon orange juice
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
⅓ cup chopped raisins
⅓ cup finely chopped walnuts
1 tablespoon melted butter

Combine all ingredients in a bowl; mix well.

HONEY GLAZE:
½ cup honey
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon grated orange rind

Combine honey, sugar, butter and orange rind in a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer for 5 minutes or until thick.

Cook's Question Corner

ANSWER - Thomas Coombs, Bridgeton, N.J., requested a recipe for Fig Bars. Thanks to a reader who sent this one.

Apple Fig Bars

2½ cups all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups ground or finely chopped figs
½ cup grated apples
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup water
1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Stir flour with ¼ teaspoon salt. Cream butter in mixing bowl. Gradually add ½ cup each granulated and brown sugar. Continue creaming until light and fluffy. Blend in eggs and vanilla. Add flour and and remaining salt, mix thoroughly. Chill. Combine figs, apples, ¼ cup sugar, cinnamon, water, lemon peel, lemon juice and ¼ teaspoon salt. Bring to boil. Simmer until mixture is thick. Cool.

Roll out dough (½ at a time) on floured surface to a 16x9-inch rectangle. Cut into three 16x3-inch strips. Spread one-sixth of the filling down center of each strip. Fold lengthwise sides of dough over filling so edges just meet. Press together lightly. Cut into 2-inch bars. Place seam sides down on ungreased sheets. Repeat with the remaining dough. Bake in moderate oven 375 degrees for 12-15 minutes or until lightly brown. Makes 4 dozen.

GRANOLA

1 box (6 cups) quick oats
1 cup coconut
1 cup wheat germ
½ cup sesame seeds
½ cup sunflower seeds (optional)
1 cup all bran cereal
½ cup oil
½ cup honey
½ cup water
1½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine first six ingredients in large bowl. Combine last four ingredients and stir into dry ingredients to coat oats. Spread on two greased 10x15-inch baking sheets. Bake at 325 degrees for 27 minutes, stirring once. Cool. May add 1½ cup raisins. Store in airtight container.

HONEY OF A PUNCH

Bring to boil 1¼ cups light mild honey and 6 cups water. Pour into large container. Cool.

Blend or mash thoroughly, 5 large ripe bananas, 2 cups sliced fresh or frozen strawberries and ½ cup lemon juice. (Blender works great). Add to cooled syrup, along with 2 large 12-ounce cans frozen orange juice and 1 large (46-ounce) can pineapple juice. Stir until thoroughly blended. Pour into containers and freeze. To use, remove from freezer an hour or two ahead of serving time. Place in punch bowl, pour 2 to 4 quarts 7-Up over top and, using wooden spoon, make into slush-type punch. The amount of 7-Up used will determine the punch's consistency.

HONEY ROLLS

1 cup lukewarm milk
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
2 packages dry yeast
2 eggs
½ cup soft shortening
4½ to 5 cups flour
Topping:
½ cup butter
½ cup honey
½ cup brown sugar

Mix together, milk, sugar, and salt. Crumble yeast into mixture. Stir until dissolved. Stir in eggs, shortening. Add flour in two parts, using the amount necessary to make it easy to handle. Let rise until double in size and punch down. Let rise again until almost double in bulk (30 to 45 minutes). After dough has risen, divide and cover and let rest 15 minutes, then roll out to ¼ -inch thickness and spread with 1 cup sugar and 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Roll up like a jelly roll and cut in one inch slices. Place 1 teaspoon of topping mixture in cup cake pan, top with a slice of the roll. Let rise about 30 minutes. Bake 18 to 20 minutes at 375 degrees. Turn upside down on a cookie sheet. Makes 2½ to 3 dozen rolls. Serve warm.

ANSWER - Martha Hohmeier, Lincroft, N.J., requested recipes for making turkey bologna and turkey ham. Her husband is on a restricted diet and finds the commercial products are too salty. Thanks to a Lancaster reader who suggested she soak turkey bologna and ham for about 6 hours in cold water (keep refrigerated). She said it doesn't taste as good, but those on salt-free diets can eat it rather than have the pain.

ANSWER - Mrs. Lester R. Crone, Dover, requests a recipe for Spice Custard pie. Thanks to a lover of recipes who mailed the following recipe.

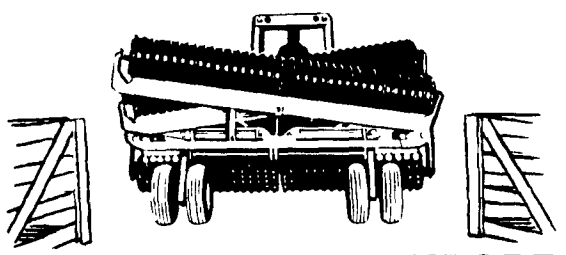
Custard Pie Spiced

4 eggs
7 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Pinch of salt
2 cups milk
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Beat eggs. Add sugar, salt and spices. Mix together then add milk. Pour into 9-inch pie shell and bake in moderate oven until done.

BRILLION PULVERIZERS

WIDE IN THE FIELD



COMPACT IN TRANSPORT

The X-Fold pulverizers are designed to meet the needs of today's larger acreage farmers and Brillion offers them in two models and 11 sizes from 19' through 36' A single tractor hydraulic system raises the machine and folds the wings With its X-Fold configuration, the transport height is reduced to less than eight feet, well below low hanging utility wires or tree branches The low pro file provides safe, stable road travel

Transport widths are 10'1" or 13'4", depending on model An automatic transport lock secures the pulverizer for travel, releases when in working position — all with tractor seat control And Brillion provides a choice of four styles of roller wheels — 18" smooth (with or without sprockets), 20" crowfoot or 20" notched rollers

With the X-Folds you not only cover more acreage, but you also break up hard clods, firm the soil — free of air pockets and push down small stones and you get Brillion quality for years of durability and performance

NEW DESIGN REDUCES RIDGING — Brillion — MAKES A LEVEL SEEDBED

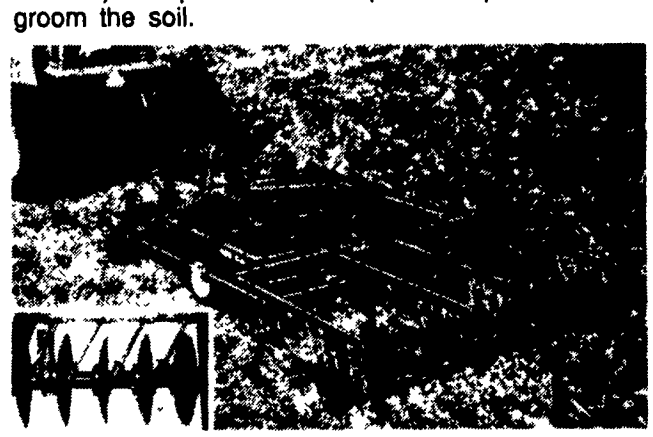
A GOOD TOOL, NOW EVEN BETTER

Brillion's new design disc arrangement on the Soil Groomer reduces ridging, leaving the field in a more level condition. 18" disc blades are preset at an 8° angle and move the soil inward, cutting and burying residue. Field cultivator shanks mix the soil for incorporating chemicals. Leveling harrows (spike drags or roller baskets) complete the incorporation process and groom the soil.



Main illustration shows 12-foot Soil Groomer with spike drag harrows. Inset photo shows new disc arrangement with 18" dia. discs that move soil inward to reduce ridging. Scrapers are adjustable.

This one-pass tillage tool reduces fuel and labor costs, as well as investment in equipment. The Soil Groomer is ideal for CONSERVATION FARMING. It reduces the number of trips over the field. Brillion features include the "Quick Lift" master-slave hydraulic system for fast, level machine raising; generous spray zone between the discs and shanks; 6" and 9" shank spacing; walking beam axles that even out bumps and hows, and a choice of adjustable spike tooth drags or dual reel harrows.

Springtime Brings Work And Play For Country Kids

Five-year-old Jeanna Musser finds Blackie is always ready to play.

It's scooter time for Jeanne Musser.

The grass gets mowed in a hurry when Gregory and Rodney Musser get to mowing.

The Lost Cow

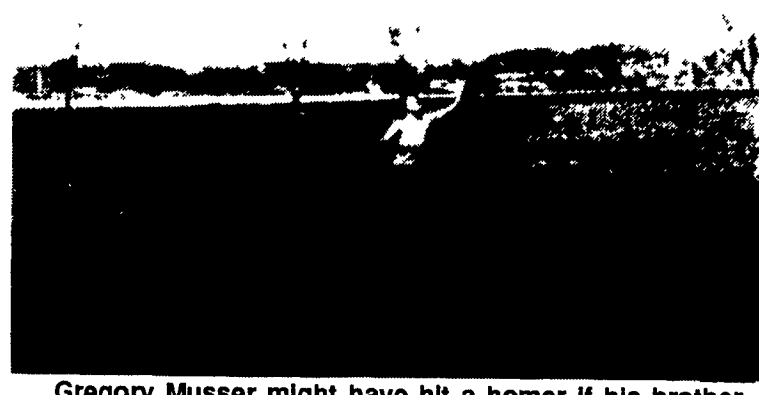
BY IDA RISSER

One evening Betty was sent to bring Rosie the cow from the lower meadow. She skipped down the road until she came to the bush with the yellow raspberries. Each day she checked to see if any more had ripened.

Soon she was in the meadow and running through the long grass. Some of the seedheads caught between her toes. She picked her way carefully through the woods where the shadows were darkest. As Betty came out of the woods near the river, there was still no sign of the red and white cow. She hadn't come to the bar with the other cows and now it was getting dark and scary alone in the big meadow far from the buildings.

Then as she started up the hill along the fence, she heard a little sound. Was that something moving near the rock cliff? Upon walking closer, she saw not just Rosie the cow but a new calf too. The mother cow stood in one spot and lowered her head — she would not move. Now that she had been found, father would have to come and help.

Betty hurried home to tell her Dad about Rosie's surprise.



Gregory Musser might have hit a homer if his brother Rodney hadn't caught the ball. The two brothers are best friends and playmates.

Spring isn't all play, but the three children of Glenn and Mary Jane Musser, Manheim, find it's fun to plant onions, peas, corn potatoes, radishes and carrots.

Bobby And The Baby Groundhog

By IDA RISSER

Bobby was a little boy who lived on a big farm. He liked to watch his father milk the cows. He liked to see his brother feed the baby pigs but best of all he liked to run into the fields and play.

One day after Bobby had chased a butterfly, ate a green apple and picked up a pocketful of stones, he came upon a hole. There was a big hole and he was sure a groundhog lived deep inside it. First he pushed a short stick in, then he found a bigger stick and pushed it in until it broke.

Suddenly he heard a small noise and there, nearby, was a baby groundhog. He was surprised but got up quickly and chased it. When it ran up a tree, he climbed up after it. He had heard that it was safe to hold them by the tail. So, he edged closer and grabbed the tail. But this was not a heavy, old one; it was a nimble, young one and it quickly swung upwards and bit his hand.

Now it was time to run to the house with his hand all bloody. Mother took one look at Bobby's hand and knew that the doctor would have to put in some stitches.

That night at the supper table as Bobby's bandaged hand lay in his lap, he promised his mother that he would never try to catch any more groundhogs.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Whenever I go outside I find more work than I expected. In March I got the pruning shears to work on our twenty some blueberry bushes. They are taller than I am but most of their buds have been eaten off by the sparrows over the winter and so we can't expect many berries.

However, I did not even start that job as I saw some limbs on a bur oak that needed to be sawed off and next I noticed that our white mulberry was sending branches too close to the kitchen roof. And, by the time that I pruned the grapes and the wineberries, it was time to start supper.

The other week an odd looking brown and white goose came to our meadow to visit. He decided to stay as we have one goose of his breed. She has been alone for years as a dog killed her mate and our big Emden geese would not accept her. We have sold fourteen of our large geese because they wandered too far from home in the winter.

The sugar peas are poking their little green sprouts out of the ground and I'm waiting for the 100 foot row of potatoes to do the same. I've planted three different kinds so we should have enough for the summer.

New strawberry plants have been ordered as the old bed has gradually deteriorated into just a few plants. There should be plenty for us but I fear there won't be many to sell.

My red and blue braided rug is finished and I am glad as there will be lots of outside work now. The fresh-cut asparagus is one of the great delicacies of the spring. And, I want to dig more dandelion plants for a salad before they get too mature. Of course, then I can fry the blossoms in a batter for dinner.

Sensible Snacks

NEW YORK — It's true - sensible snacking can actualy be good for children, and help them to meet nutritional needs for adequate growth and development.

Since children have a smaller stomach capacity for food, it's often necessary to serve three meals a day with several snacks. By offering snacks midway between meals, interference with the regular mealtime is minimized. And this way, it's easier to resist food handouts right after a meal if another snack or feeding is scheduled in two or three hours. By setting a consistent snack hour, the food provider can better manage timing, location, and snack selection.

The snack substantial enough to fill a hungry child should contain some protein, carbohydrate, and fat-- the same as a nutritious meal. An apple or carrot sticks, while immediately satisfying, may not do the trick for long-term hunger prevention because they contain only carbohydrate. So, for snacks that are both filling and nutritious, Dairy Council, Inc. recommends:

- peanut butter sandwich with a glass of whole milk
- container of fruit yogurt and graham crackers
- homemade bran or corn muffin with fresh fruit
- fruit roll (thin pancake with fresh strawberries rolled in the middle)
- yogurt smoothie (blenderized yogurt, banana, and whole milk)

Bucks Co. Spring Roundup

On Saturday, April 16, 4-H members from Bucks County will hold their 4-H Spring Roundup Day at the Richland Mall in Quakertown from 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

Activities will begin with a 4-H Balloon Launch outside of the Clemens Market. The balloons will carry messages of the more than 100 boys and girls who will be participating.

Appearing on the Mall stage at 11:30 a.m. will 4-H members with their goat and sheep project animals. At 1:00 p.m. members of the 4-H Seeing Eye Puppy Club will demonstrate the training methods used to raise the future guide dogs.

Throughout the afternoon, presentations will be made on the Mall stage on ceramics, cake decorating, candy making, and sewing. Members from the Spurs 'N Burrs 4-H Club will demonstrate the Horse Bowl contests.

Chester Co. Achievement Night

The Chester County 4-H Program of the Pennsylvania State University recently held its first achievement program for 4-H members, leaders, and families who are involved in the county's 4-H small animal program. More than 100 people and seven 4-H Seeing Eye Puppies attended.

Members of the Heel and Sit (Oxford), Hounds and Handlers (West Chester), Che-Del-Be Dairy Goat (Phoenixville), New London Dairy Goat, Tri Community Seeing Eye Puppy (Phoenixville), Little Leaders Seey Eye Puppy (West Chester), Heather Hill Hoppers (Landenberg) and Oxford Rabbit Club, were recognized for their project achievements for the past year at the local, county, regional, and state program levels.

Boots & Saddles

The Boots & Saddles 4-H club recently held their first meeting of the year. At this first meeting, officers were elected, the date of the annual clinic was discussed, the date of the open show was announced, and members heard a speech on rabies.

The meeting, held at the Farm & Home Center, was called to order at 7:00 p.m. The following officers were elected: Melisa Harris, president; Shelia Kraybill, vice president; Missy Overbaugh, secretary; Anne Vath, treasurer; and Sally Gregory and Candance MacPherson, new reporters.

Following the election, the members decided upon April 9 as the date for the annual clinic. The open show, open to the public, is set for April 30 at the Columbia Riding School. Classes are $2 for children 18 and under and $4 for adults. For information, contact Rose at 717/569-3068.

Dairy Calf Sale

The thirteenth annual Franklin County 4-H Calf Sale will be held on Friday, April 15, at 7:00 p.m. The sale will be held at Ralph Horst's sale barn, which is located one mile east of Marion along Route 914.

The sale, which is open to the public for bidding, will feature 22 Holstein and two Jersey calves. Sale catalogs will be available at the sale and at the Franklin County extension office.

Franklin County 4-H Dairy Council sponsors the sale with commission fees going to support 4-H Dairy CLub work.

Lebanon Tractor

The Lebanon County 4-H Tractor Club recently met at the county extension office. President Daryl Wampler called the meeting to order. The 24 members present discussed the New Holland Tour Roundup.

New Holland Baby Beef

The New Holland Baby Beef Club had a meeting on March 15. It was held at the home of Calen Yoder. Members watched two videos on beef. The next meeting will be held on April 18 at Dale Shellenberger's home. ZoAnn Parker, Lancaster County 4-H agent, will be the featured speaker.

Children On Adult Diets

NEW YORK, NY — Alarming medical reports indicate that in a growing number of cases, otherwise normal children are suffering from poor growth and delayed development. Aptly named "failure to thrive," this syndrome can be caused by well-meaning parents who place their children on low-calorie, low-fat adult diets. The dietary strategies adopted by many parents reflect a basic ignorance about nutrient needs of infants and children. Parents often choose this route for fear their youngsters may become obese or develop heart disease, thereby inadvertently starving their children.

A recent study in Pediatrics found, on average, that infants suffering from the failure to thrive syndrome were consuming less than 75 percent of the recommended calories for their age group. Not only were the children restricted to skim milk and low-fat dairy products, most were discouraged from snacking, and the amount of food offered at mealtime was curtailed. The good news, children will grow normally if placed back on a normal diet.

The American Academy of Pediatrics unequivocally endorses whole milk for children under the age of two to help provide necessary fat and calories. Without fat, a concentrated source of calories, most children's diets lack adequate calories for normal growth and development.

As a general rule, medical and nutrition experts recommend three meals a day with several in-between meal snacks for all children. Snacks such as cheese and crackers, a homemade bran muffin with fruit, or even a peanut butter sandwich and glass of whole milk will pack plenty of nutrition and provide staying power until the next scheduled meal. Contrary to popular belief, if sensible snacks are served, snack time shouldn't lead to the development of bad eating patterns. And parents shouldn't shun an occasional cookie or ice cream dessert, as long as it's part of a well-balanced meal. Food emphasis should be on assortment, with an eye for variety to ensure sufficient nutrients.

To make certain that your child gets adequate fat and calories, Dairy Council, Inc. recommends that parents:

- serve regular instead of low-fat dairy products
- increase portion sizes of mealtime foods
- offer nutritious snacks midway between meals

For more information concerning the Week of the Young Child (April 10-17, 1988) and meeting the nutritional needs of infants and children, contact your local dairy council or dietetic association.

Len, Carol and Trevor Lundberg contemplate the work that their fruit trees will bring.

Hobby Farmers Strive For Profit

BY LOU ANN GOOD

GAP — Many people have the idea that hobby farmers raise a few animals for fun not profit. "They're wrong," says Len Lundberg. "Those who do it for a hobby and don't make a profit soon drop out. It's too expensive and time consuming to do it for a hobby."

His wife, Carol agrees, "When you're up all night for lambing season during the coldest nights of February, you're not doing it just for fun."

After a full day at their professions, the Lundbergs unwind by tending to the animals and fruit trees on their hobby farm. Although they mostly enjoy it, they're quick to point out that it's the profit motivation that gets them through the unpleasant chores that accompany raising animals and crops.

The Lundbergs try to utilize the potential of their four acres to the fullest. On it, they produce grapes, raspberries, gooseberries, currents and annually raise 1,000 rabbits, 26 sheep and numerous egg-laying ducks.

Len has an MBA in finance and works as a controller for Taylor Packing Company. Carol works at a bank. Both were raised in the suburbs and grew up with no interest in farming. After marrying, they decided a change of pace after sitting in an office all day would be relaxing. Neither were interested in sports, but trying their hand at small-scale farming interested both. Nine years ago the Lundbergs bought their present property and through much reading and trial and error have developed a profitable part-time farm.

Trevor likes helping his dad by cleaning up the wood chips.

Len admits that his financial training pushes him into developing new ways and methods of doing things. He charts and graphs extensive records on his animal entourage so that he can best utilize his time after finishing up at the office.

For their New Zealand white rabbits that they raise to 4-4½ pound fryers, Len erected wire hanging cages and installed an automated water system and a manure trough that only needs to be cleaned out twice a year.

Presently they have 14 purebred registered Suffolk ewes with 16 lambs. A nursery monitor positioned in the barn warns them when a sheep is going into labor. Len has them bred so that they deliver on a Wednesday or Thursday, and he's trying to pinpoint the factors that influence the hour of birthing so that the ewes lamb during the evening rather than the middle of the night.

Maybe the Lundbergs don't have a dairy, but Len observed, "We are tied to a schedule just like dairy farmers, who must milk at certain hours because rabbits demand a management system. They're non-flexible. If they're not fed at regular times, it throws them off schedule."

Len's record keeping shows the status of each rabbit in terms of when they need to be bred or bred back or need a nest box or growing cage. "To be profitable you can't do things haphazardly like kids who keep a pen behind their house," he said. "I know each week what is going on. Being a financial person, I get nervous when I don't know what's going on. I like to keep things under control."

And with his coded system, things move like clockwork. Not only that, Len said, "Rabbits are pretty much money makers."

Hobby Farmers

Sheep, the Lundbergs noted are not as profitable because hay must be purchased for them. The Lundbergs hope to increase their acreage so they can raise their own hay.

The Lundbergs noted that there are some drawbacks to small-scale farming. "When you're a full-time farmer, on a hot day, you can take off for swimming or, if it rains, you can postpone spreading manure. But when you both have full-time jobs, everything must stay on schedule. We can't put off cleaning out the rabbits' manure pits when it's hot because the work piles up. The next day, it's back to the office."

The Lundbergs are always looking for ways to cut back on time consuming tasks. Carol said, "We read everything on sheep and rabbits, and talk to others so we can find out what works best."

They use the rabbit manure to fertilize their fruit trees. Len said, "Rabbit manure is the best next to er doesn't always cooperate with chicken manure because it contains all the nutrients."

Just like full-time farmers, the Lundbergs learned that the weather doesn't always cooperate with the best-laid plans. The first year on their farm, they planted 35 trees. But the county was hit with drought that year and only two of the trees survived. So they plotted a plan to replace them by replanting six yearly. To date they have 20 fruit and 8 nut trees plus 30 grape vines that produce 900 pounds of grapes. The fruit that they don't use themselves, they give to friends or sell. Carol not only cans grape juice but uses the vines to make wreaths.

Carol finds their small farming operation a good project for the family. "For me, it's a hobby and a business all wrapped up in one."

Len, in typical business fashion, noted that his favorite part of farming is seeing results. "That's the only way hobby farmers will continue enjoying it," he said. "Otherwise they'll drop out."

The Lundbergs have no intention of dropping out. They plan to enlarge by moving to Bradford County and purchasing additional land. "I don't see ourselves as ever becoming full-time farmers," he said. But small-scale farming is something they plan on enjoying for a long time.

Carol finds time to form grapewreath vines from their grape arbor.

The Rest Of The Mole Story

YORK — Every gardener is now on the look out. They're hunting an enemy that's very hard to defeat what is it? Moles.

As Spring approaches, many lawns become crisscrossed with mole runways. This signals many countians to try and find out the "rest of the mole story"

Moles don't complain about the weather. Moles don't hibernate but are active every day and every night of every season. Frozen or extremely dry soils force the mole into deeper runs. But, as warmer days arrive, the mole runs appear as tunnels or mounds of excavated soil on the lawns.

Favorite mole foods include grubs, earthworms, ants, beetles, slugs, snails, spiders, centipedes and millipedes. Moles seldom eat vegetable matter but do cause damage in gardens by uprooting turf, vegetables or other plants.

Ever see a mole crossing a street or highway? Yes, moles do travel above ground but always prefer completely dark underground tunnels. Tunnels are made at the rate of 18-feet per minute.

Are moles as speedy or as prolific as rabbits? Have your shovel ready. Moles travel at 79-feet per minute or 1 mile per hour. His main run may cross several lawns extending as far as 900 feet. Many feeding tunnels branch off the main tunnel. One mole was tracked traveling an average of one-quarter mile per day.

Moles survive for up to 4 years. Usually a litter of 2 to 5 is born in April. Most lawns have only 1 or 2 moles. Some moles share lawns with up to 12 companions per acre of lawn.

Who has a mole problem? Newly developed urban neighborhoods do not while old lawns in more rural areas are preferred targets. Moles prefer well-drained, uncompacted soils.

Can I control moles by removing the food source? Good luck, moles would need almost sterile soil conditions before they would flee your yard. But, some moles may only last a week or two in some areas.

Can I control moles? Choose three methods in 1988 and three in 1989 and you may succeed. Here's a few you may want to try.

1. Natural- Moles are killed by predators such as foxes, dogs, cats, skunks, snakes and owls. Tractors and large animals may literally crush a mole in a surface run.

2. Insecticides won't kill moles, but they may reduce (not eliminate) their food source.

3. Mole beans are grown on the "mole plant" (Euphorbia lathru.) and although they may be poisonous, research has not proven that they kill or repel moles.

4. Poison gases are seldome effective because the mole can usually plug or seal off the gassed section very quickly and move away through his extensive tunnel system.

5. Flooding may get the mole wet but almost never could you flood (with a garden hose) his entire burrow system.

6. Electronic devices may vibrate the soil but the mole feeds on insects, not electromagnetic waves. These have not been proven effective.

7. Magic remedies such as broken bottles, ground glass, razor blades, burnt cylinder oil, gas, moth balls, sheep die, lye mole wheels, windmills and bleach bottles may look good, smell bad or scratch but have not proven to be effective mole deterrents.

8. Mole traps, when properly placed can be effective.

9. Hand kill may help vent your anger and be the best means of control. With sufficient time and patience, you can detect surface activity and destroy the mole with a garden or shop tool.

10. Juicy Fruit chewing gum may be deadly to the moles. For instructions contact the Extension Office at 757-9657.

Sight And Sound: A Dream That Keeps Growing

BY LOU ANN GOOD

MANHEIM - Sight and Sound Auditorium is a popular family entertainment place for both local and out-of-state people. The 700-seat facility near Strasburg shows weekly productions that blends live acting, film, song and dance with special effects and animation to dramatize the Gospel.

Last year, more than 2,700 tour buses in addition to thousands of carloads attended the five major shows that Sight and Sound produces. Glenn Eshelman, the man who masterminds the productions, is often referred to as a "creative genius". His success is no small feat for a man who has had no art, theater, or photography training.

Glenn attributes his farming background as training ground for his productions that now attract millions. "Everything I learned stemmed from the things I learned on the farm," he said. "My daddy was creative in making things that were needed around the farm." The carpentry and mechanics that he learned on the Mount Joy farm have enabled him to build and mechanize stage props and sets. He considers the time management his father instilled within him as vital importance to running his present organization. But most important, "I learned to love the beauty of nature."

In between chore time, Glenn began capturing the beauty that surrounded him by drawing with crayons, pencils, pens, watercolors and paints on scraps of paper. No matter where Glenn was—in church, in the barn and, later, even on his first date—he couldn't keep his pencil still. Constantly, he sketched faces, rural landscapes and animals. His dad often said, "If anything can be drawn on, Glenn will find it."

His talent did not go unnoticed. As an eight-year-old, he won a blue ribbon at the Mount Joy farm show.

Although he never laid his art work aside, he still found time to be active in 4-H and FFA as president of his chapter and as state officer.

After marrying Shirley, Glenn worked on an Allentown dairy farm. He recalls, "The pay was miminal, so I went house to house, showed them some of my art work and got many orders." During his second year of marriage, Glenn returned to the county to attend the Manheim Farm Show where he set up a display of his art work. In that one week, he received enough orders to keep him busy for a year.

Even though he painted several farms weekly, Glenn was so swamped with work he begged his employer to give him two weeks off so he could catch up on his painting. At the end of two weeks, he had so many more orders that he never returned to dairy farming.

By coincidence, Glenn's painting evolved into photography. His method in painting farmsteads was to go to the scene and sketch it, then return home and paint it. But sometimes, he forgot the color of a mailbox or a shed and would need to return or call the owners. To solve that problem Glenn bought a camera and snapped a picture of each scene so he could refer to it while painting. Glenn recalls, "My creativity went wild." His eye for color and composition led him to experiment with photography, mostly farm scenes on which he kept extensive files. He and Shirley branched out into portrait and wedding photography as well. Later, Glenn began traveling worldwide to capture the breathtaking beauty of the world.

Soon he was asked to show his slides at a local banquet hall. Glenn was hesitant. He remembered too many boring missionary slide shows where people fell asleep. But the coordinator was insistent. So Shirley and Glenn put together a slide show incorporating music, narrative and slides showing the breaking waves of the rocky coast of Maine to the towering peaks of the Rockies. They borrowed a slide projector and built the program on the principle that "the art of God can lead people to the heart of God."

Throughout the years, art has remained at the heart of Glenn Eshelman's productions.

Glenn and Shirley Eshelman

From that audience, Glenn was booked to show a repeat at churches, civic groups, and schools. The demand for his photography was so great that four teams traveled across the nation showing his slide shows under the original title and several others like "Our Father Planned It All" and "Where the Mountains Reach the Sky."

Locally, in the summer of 1974, more than 30,000 people viewed his show that incorporated 15 projectors and an eighty-foot screen at a local college auditorium. And from this, Glenn got the idea to built Sight and Sound, so that people could come to them instead of them going to the people.

It started out as a 3-dimensional computerized slide show that created breathtaking panoramic views on an 80-foot screen. Dancing fountains complete with colored lights produced a spectacular display. Only later did the stage get added in bits and pieces. And then live acting and choregraphy was added. Although Glenn had no formal training in theater, art or photography, he designed and built the props and wrote the script.

Glenn credits his wife for much of Sight and Sound's smooth running. "Because she does much of the behind the scenes duties, people often do not notice her abilities," Glenn said. "Although she is not as creative, she builts upon my ideas and makes them better. She's my biggest critic. Shirley also manages the business end.

From the beginning, the Eshelman's four daughters helped with acting and other things that needed done. Now their son-in-laws and grandchildren are becoming involved. Glenn said, "Being involved in Sight and Sound teaches them responsibility, discipline and how to work just like farm work taught me."

He sketches his ideas and the staff makes the props and animated figures from foam and casts them in a hard mold. "I'm most effective at the drawing board," Glen explained so he tries to keep that foremost as the organization grows and he relies more and more on his staff. Several seamtresses stitch the hundreds of costumes used for the shows.

Of his employees that number as many as 80 during the peak season, Glenn said, "They're a great team. Once they have an idea they can run with it." Glenn said he has learned to release his ideas, trust his staff and check in on them occasionally rather than hover over them. He finds it exciting to see people come into the team and use their abilities in a creative way. Most thrilling to him is watching and hearing people's responses to the shows.

With the success comes a lot of decision-making and problems. He mentioned, "If I'm not careful, the everyday problems can knock the cutting edge off my creativity. And it takes faith to trust that my decisions are the right ones."

Looking back over his life and seeing how things progress still amazes Glenn, but he shrugs off his success by saying, "It's the grace of God. We do everything through prayer."

He added, "The Bible says, "You have not because you ask not. So we pray about everything. I realize that if the next show depends upon Glenn Eshelman, it will be a flop." He pauses then adds, "Shirley and I started out poor as paupers in part of a rented farmhouse with an outdoor toliet. We built on the dream God gave us and this is only the beginning of what we expect to see. God just keeps giving us more ideas."

Glenn stresses, "Our shows are not just a performance, but a tool to challenge others to discover God."

Lycoming Farm Is Tops In State And Keeps The Fun In Farming

BARBARA MILLER
Lycoming Co. Correspondent

ROME — How would you like to complete your milking in 15 minutes, put your cows on laborsaving- 100 percent pasture from mid-May until mid-August, vacation with nary a ripple in the farm's routine, and yet have one of the best herds in the state?

With his small top notch herd of registered Holsteins Bill Brown of Browncroft Farm, Rome, has been accomplishing the above for a number of years. The Browns, Bill, Janet, and son, Curtis, currently have on test 31 registered Holsteins recently cited by DHIA as one of the top milk producing Holstein herds in Pennsylvania in 1987. With a herd average of 982 pounds of fat, 24,577 pounds of milk, and 782 pounds of protein, they placed first in the state last year for fat and third for milk and protein. Their current Breeders Association Average stands at 105.8.

Bill has never believed in accumulating a large herd of cows, but rather in getting the most milk out of the fewest number of cows.

His laid back approach to farming varies greatly from most farmers. "You gotta keep it where it's still fun so you look forward to it. I can come in (the barn) and relax for an hour," he says.

Bill has increased the size of his herd by only eight cows from 1958 when he and his wife bought the original 172 acre farm from his father, Irving (Bucky) Brown. Although the size of the Browns' herd hasn't increased much, the quality has.

"The first year all we were averaging was 9,000 pounds of milk at the creamery. We weren't on test then," Bill recalls.

In 1960, he says, they went on test and began changing over to registered stock. Within about five years they owned a completely registered herd.

Shortly after that their fat and milk herd average began to climb. Glancing at a wall display of DHIA milk production ribbons, Bill reels off achievements in 100 pound fat level increments. In 1967 they received a ribbon for achieving a fat level of 600 pounds and in 1975 they reached 700 pounds of fat. They broke the 800 pound barrier in 1977 and also topped Bradford County for the first time by producing 824 pounds of fat and 20,587 pounds of milk. They produced more than 900 pounds of fat in 1981.

"We've been right close to that until this year when we went to 982 pounds of fat," Bill remarks.

Bill acknowledges that genetics along with the quality of forage and management play significant roles in the success of a dairy operation. But he adds that it is management that "has to put it all together to make things work."

He says he has used a lot of Chairman, Jemini and Jet Stream semen over the years. One of his best cows, Browncroft Chairman FI ET (EX 90) at three-years-two-months of age produced 30,693

(Turn to Page B23)

A wall of ribbons traces the progress made by Bill and Janet Brown, Browncroft Farm, Rome, from when they began testing in 1960 up to the present. In 1987 they were selected by DHIA as one of the top producers in Pennsylvania in the production of fat, milk and protein.

Baby Showered With Farm Products

The Berks County Penn's Agri-Women celebrated Ag Day by giving a basket of farm products to the first baby born in Reading on Sunday, March 20. Robert and Judith Myers, Perkiomenville, won over 20 products when their fifth son made his debut at 2:42 a.m.

Brush-Up Your Sewing Skills

CREAMERY — Are you a "once-in-a-while", "never-find-the-time" sewer frustrated because you spend hours laboring over a sewing project and it looks "tired" or never gets finished? Wouldn't you like to cut your sewing time in half yet get better looking results? You can--if you learn new sewing habits and discard old ones. A full day Palmer and Pletsch course on updating your sewing skills is being sponsored by the following: Montgomery County Cooperative Extension on Thursday, April 26, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Montgomery County 4-H Center in Creamery and the Berks County Agricultural Center on Wednesday, April 27 from 9 to 4 p.m.

The course will include the latest sewing techniques, sewing machines and sergers, fusibles, and notions. Participants will be fitted by the instructor to determine the proper size pattern. Participants completing the course will receive .5 continuing education units from Penn State University.

The cost for the two session course is $27.50 per person. This includes lunch. One teenage sewer may be admitted free (except luncheon charge) with a paying adult. Registration is required by April 20 and class size is limited. For more information contact the Montgomery Extension office at 489-4315 or the Berks County Extension office at 378-1327.

pounds of milk with a 3.8 test and 1165 pounds of fat in 356 days.

Another outstanding cow, Browncroft Jemini Isabel (VG 88) at five years 10 months produced 31,968 pounds of milk and 4.1 percent fat with 1300 pounds of fat in 327 days.

A 13-year-old cow, Standout Pamula (VG 88), recently sold by the Browns achieved a lifetime production of 300,000 pounds of milk.

They use a lot of high T.P.I. bulls according to Bill, ones that have plus-800 pounds of milk or better, but adds they will use some lower if they are siring a little higher type. They've had about 28 embryo transplants born with most of the heifers going back into their herd and most of the bulls contracted.

"We've sold about 15 bulls that have gone into A.I. sampling and we've had five go back into service which is a good percentage," Bill reports with pleasure.

One of their bulls was the famous Browncroft Jetson. "He was the highest proven bull that's been run through USDA...The bull was plus 3,030 pounds of milk and $3.02 dollar value. He died just as his first proof came out."

The Browns had sold him to Sire Power. He was six years old at the time of his accidental death in the early 80's. Soon after his death, Bill recalls, his semen was selling for $3500 per straw. One of Jetson's daughters at a Sire Power sale brought $19,500.

The Browns' feeding system also plays a critical role in the farm's success. "We feed hay five times during a 24 hour period," Bill says. "That's 29 pounds of hay and 28 pounds of corn silage per cow per day. Grain is fed eight times a day through an automatic Cablevay around the barn feeding system for each individual cow. The scale gives each cow the amount of feed you want her to have."

Bill purchased the Cablevay Feeding System three years ago and says it has greatly increased his milk production. "I feel I got a 1,000 pound production jump per cow by putting in that feeding system. It paid for itself in two years which is a pretty fast return."

The Browns raise their own feed. In the early 80's they purchased an adjoining farm where Curtis and his wife, Nancy, and two-month-old grandson, William Curtis, live today. This acquisition brought their total average to 262 acres. On their 130 acres of tillable land, Bill reports, they raise 80 acres of alfalfa and timothy hay, 25 acres of corn, and 25 acres of oats.

"What corn we don't put in the silo we use for our grain ration. We usually have 60 tons of ear corn left and that will last us a year. Our oats are all mixed in our feed. About 50 percent of our grain ration is oats and ear corn."

Bill is one of the few remaining dairy farmers that pastures his cattle.

"In the summer the cows are on pasture day and night. We turn them out about May 10 and they are on 100 percent pasture until the middle of August. We feed some corn silage at that time...Anything the cows can harvest themselves is saving me money." Their pasture ratio is one acre per cow, he adds.

Three generations of the Brown family are now involved with the Browncroft Farm, (from left) Bill, Janet, son Curtis and wife Nancy, with 2-month-old William Curtis. According to his mother, William Curtis just recently made his first trip to the barn.

Bill explains he schedules his cows to freshen in August because the milk is worth more money in the fall months. Since most of his cows are dry during the summer months their barn time in the summer amounts to only two hours a day with only about 15 minutes actual milking time.

"This gives us a lot of time to do our field work and sit in the shade," he says with a grin.

Their pasture is good pasture, Bill emphasizes, which is limed and fertilized the same as their fields. Some of their hay fields are rotated to pastures after they've made the hay and in July the pastures are clipped to take advantage of the new growth. In addition to the freshening and dry cows mentioned above, Bill puts his heifers on pasture, too, as young as eight months of age.

Another unusual feature about this Bradford County operation is the use of hay driers. They use two driers, a four foot fan with a 7-hp motor and a 3-½ foot fan with a 5-hp motor to dry 7500 square bales at one time.

"We can put our hay in at a 30 percent moisture level. If you put it in the barn at that level (without driers) you would have some awful hot hay...We used to use preservatives, but when we got this last hay drier we quit using preservatives altogether. It just works better than preservatives. We can take a better hay out (of the field) and put it in with more moisture than we could with preservatives."

The barn and field work is shared by Bill and Curtis while Janet does much of the record-keeping. Once in awhile in a pinch, she says, she is called on to do the milking.

Involved with a number of farming organizations, Bill is a past director of the Bradford County Holstein Club, a past director of DHIA, and is currently a voting delegate and local committeeman for Northeast Breeders Association of Sire Power. He is also a director of the Endless Mountains Maple Association. The Browns started making maple syrup and retailing it at their farm in 1974. They currently have 1200 taps connected to holding tanks by pipeline tubing.

Concerning the future, does Bill think there is a chance he might be tempted to increase the size of his herd?

"No," he says, "we're going to stay just the way we are. It's profitable and it gives us a lot of free time and I guess that's what it's all about."

It is not surprising, then, to hear Bill counsel beginning farmers with the following advice. "I would tell a young fellow just starting out not to get too big. Stay small and not go for numbers."

SLICK CONCRETE CAN BE ROUGHENED

SCABBLING is an effective way to avoid unnecessary losses of cattle. The SCABBLER makes bands about two inches wide approximately 1/8" to 3/16 in. depth. This gives sufficient area for good footing while allowing you to scrape the smooth surface as before. It is near enough to the surface to give your cows full advantage of the roughness and deep enough to remain effective for years. It greatly aids in heat detection.

And the good news is that it is reasonably priced. You have the choice of doing it yourself or having us do it for you. We offer service right to your door. Call us for more details.

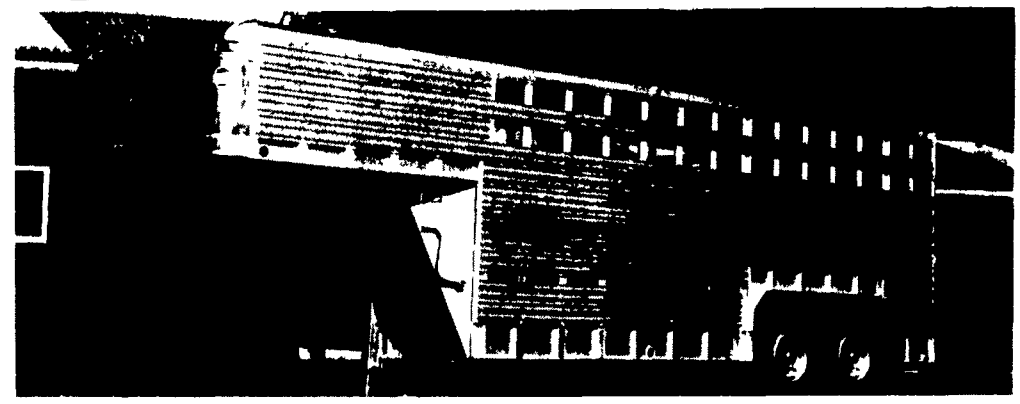
EBY ALUMINUM GOOSENECK TRAILERS



20' Gooseneck Trailer

A versatile, lightweight, Eby aluminum stock trailer is built to provide years of maintenance free service. An Eby trailer is custom built to fit your individual hauling needs - No mass production! We use only quality components and strong alloy aluminum to manufacture what may be the last trailer you'll ever buy.

- LIGHTWEIGHT - Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.
- MAINTENANCE - Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.
- DURABILITY - Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

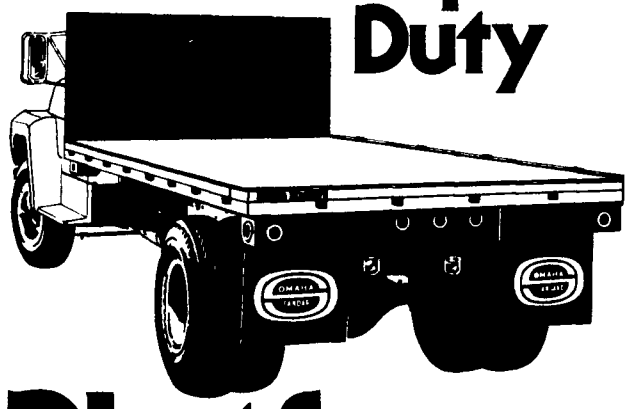
Super Duty



Platforms
and Bulkheads

Ideal for lumberyards, contractors, utilities, oil field operations and fork lift applications involving heavy loading. The Omaha Standard Super Duty platform is a full 96" wide and available in standard lengths from 12'6" to 26'6". Floor options include wood, steel or steel over wood. Heavy duty structural steel channel throughout. Stake pockets placed on 24" centers and sized to fit 2 x 4" stakes, with a steel banding rail welded to the outside of the stake pockets for securing the heaviest loads. Steel stake racks are also available.

The full clearance bulkhead features a full width steel mesh window. Tackle the tough jobs, team up with Omaha Standard's Super Duty Platform and Bulkhead.

Pioneer Distributes Information Package To PA Vo-Ag Teachers

MOUNT JOY — A specially-designed education package for Pennsylvania vocational agriculture instructors was recently distributed by the Pennsylvania Young Farmers Association in cooperation with Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc.

The Conservation Tillage Information Kit describes conservation systems that can be applied by Pennsylvania corn farmers, says Bill Fleet, eastern area sales agronomy manager for Pioneer.

"Farmers, especially young farmers, are looking for ways to reduce costs, while maintaining yields. At the same time they are very conscious of the environment and don't want to disturb it anymore than is necessary."

No-till and minimum tillage systems are the two most popular methods used in the region and are fully described in the packet. Ridge-till, a system that has gained popularity in many midwestern states, is also described, but is not widely used in this area.

"There are benefits and drawbacks to each method. Conservation tillage isn't for everyone, but the savings in moisture and labor make it very attractive to some farmers," Fleet said.

Results from the Pennsylvania Young Farmers Association Conservation Tillage Corn Yield Contest were used to compare costs and yields between conservation tillage systems and conventional tillage systems.

Although in some years the cost difference was not large, savings in labor and soil savings favored conservation methods.

"We're on the verge of having farming practices regulated because of environmental concerns. Farmers can take control of the effect on their environment by using conservation practices," Fleet said.

"It's our responsibility and that of farmers to learn more about how these practices work. Otherwise, we may not have a choice," he said.

Included in the information kit are management tips, scouting suggestions and an overview of the conservation tillage concept. This information is described through means of a slide set and information sheets that instructors can use in vo-ag classes or adult farmer education seminars.

Limited copies are available to other interested groups. Contact Bill Fleet at: Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., Eastern Area Sales Office, P.O. Box 280, Mount Joy, Pa. 17552, 717-653-5605 or Nora McKilligan, 1-800-351-7566.

Maryland Dedicates Facilities

BELTSVILLE — University of Maryland administrators and invited state and federal officials will dedicate new buildings and support facilities for the Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station (MAES) at the Beltsville Agricultural Research Center (BARC) at 2:00, March 31. The site, which comprises the Central Maryland Research and Education Center (CMREC) - Beltsville Facility, is located on approximately 360 acres of federal land used by MAES through a cooperative agreement with the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

"The land and facilities at BARC are a valuable resource for Agriculture and Life Sciences faculty and students from College Park," noted Dr. Gerald L. Jubb, acting associate director of MAES. "Furthermore, we expect additional productive linkages will occur between University personnel and the scientists at BARC as a result of our presence there."

The Beltsville Facility includes research and storage buildings with a total area of nearly 17,000 square feet, as well as a grain handling facility, a grain drier, and six grain bins with a storage capacity of 63,000 bushels. A modular office serves as temporary headquarters for Dr. Walter Williams, acting head of CMREC.

The site supports Experiment Station research in a variety of disciplines, including agronomy, entomology, zoology, geology, and physical sciences. "We do a little bit of everything," said Farm Manager Tim Badger, who will conduct a tour of the Beltsville Facility following the dedication ceremony.

Also on the agenda are remarks by Dr. Craig S. Oliver, acting director of MAES; Dr. Raymond J. Miller, vice president for agricultural affairs at The University of Maryland and dean of the Colleges of Agriculture and Life Sciences; University of Maryland President John Toll; Maryland Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein; and Dr. Waldemar Klassen, director of BARC.

Radon, and Other Radiation

What you don't know won't hurt you. That old saw might just apply to Radon detection. I never thought much about Radon or any other form of radiation until I decided to rent a detector, just for kicks. The real kick came when the detector registered a high level of radiation in the cellar. I'd be happier not knowing about it.

Radon is a kind of natural gas that is generated from certain rock formations that exist throughout Pennsylvania and bordering States. Small bits of Uranium dispersed in the rock, make the gas radioactive. Because it is widely dispersed and diluted ion the atmosphere, it is hardly detectable and therefore harmless. But when it seeps into a tight cellar through cracks and drains in the floor, Radon can become concentrated in potentially dangerous amounts. Just how dangerous, is still open to controversy.

Many of us have probably lived with some Radon in the house for a long time. We did not know it, and probably were not affected by it. Our present concern with Radon is largely due to the hysteria about Radiation, from whatever source. It just happens to be very detectable and can be measured in precise doses, which are then translated into acceptable or unacceptable levels, depending on which health authority you like best. Once you know it's there, you must do something about it. If you choose to ignore it, it nags you anyway.

Some form of radiation is always present in nature. Our ancestors who lived in caves, surrounded by radioactive rock, were exposed to it. The prime source of all radiation to which we are all exposed is the Sun. The atmosphere provides a delicate shield to filter out the deadly amounts that would quickly sterilize the Earth, while allowing just the proper amount needed to sustain life and health to come through. The Creator has provided the right balance or we wouldn't be here. So far as we know, The Earth may be the only place in the firmament where this is true.

Radiation is emitted from the TV screen, the computer monitor, electric transmission lines, microwave ovens, radios, the stone or brick walls of houses, and from your wrist watch. You can't even walk down the sidewalk without some exposure to radiation. Every electric light bulb, and every candle or burning log emits radiation. Without it, there would be total darkness and lack of heat, and even that would be penetrated by tiny particles of atoms called Quarks. (You didn't feel it, but one just passed through your gizzard, and is on it's way toward Jupiter!)

So why get so excited about Radon? For one thing, it is one of the many mysteries that human skill and knowledge is constantly unravelling. We know it's there, and we know that it has potential for good or evil. We have tasted the Apple from the Tree of Knowledge, and so have added one more bit of wisdom to our mountain of things to worry about.

Meanwhile, I guess I'll plug the drains and seal the cracks in the basement floor. I'll open the windows to vent the cellar. Move a little farther away from the TV screen, avoid the sun in the shade of the old maple tree, and feed the birds while the microwave heats my coffee. The computer? It's well worth the risk of getting fried in radiation. And don't worry about the Quarks. They're so small that they zip right through the densest brain without leaving a hole.

With REAL dairy foods, you're serving the best.

Delaware Valley Sets A-Day

DOYLESTOWN — A-Day, Delaware Valley College's two-day annual exposition, will be held rain or shine on Saturday and Sunday, April 23 and 24, from 9:00 a.m.. to 5:00 p.m Admission to this agricultural and science country fair is FREE.

The New Britain Township campus attracts thousands of visitors each spring to the popular central Bucks County college fair. There are activities and displays for every member of the family, presented under the large, old trees or on the broad stretches of lawn at the 92-year-old college.

In addition, a non-commercial, country fair atmosphere prevails for the weekend. A chicken barbeque, art show, music concerts, milking competition, hot air balloons and special children's attractions are all part of this 40th A-Day.

Students prepare and present the exhibits relating to all the course offerings of the business, agriculture and science institution.

Other events showcase the Animal Science department, including a horse show; display and judging of various animals such as beef and dairy cattle, sheep and swine; a "petting zoo;" hay rides and pony rides.

The apiary exhibit presents not only the honey-making process; Delaware Valley College's honey products will also be on sale.

The various classroom and laboratory buildings will be open for tours and will feature displays in Biology, Chemistry, Food Science, Business Administration, Agronomy and Horticulture.

A-Day is an opportunity to enjoy every aspect of this beautiful Central Bucks landmark on a pleasant spring weekend. All events will be held on the main campus, Route 202, one mile west of Doylestown.

A parking fee of $3.00 also covers the cost of the program, which includes a map of the campus and a schedule of events.

NEW FROM ADJA

ADJA FOAM MARKER

A long lasting Foam Marking System that leaves highly visible strips or balls of foam. The ADJA Foam Marker is a new concept in foam generation which eliminates the need for compressors, pumps, or solution tanks, etc.

The simplicity and reliability of this state-of-the-art marker make it the most reasonably priced marking system presently available to the farming community.

Simple electronic controls allow in-cab control of on-off switch, left or right marking, foam mark size, and distance between marks. The ADJA Foam Marker is ideal for use on a variety of surfaces such as summerfallow, stubble, cultivated or disced stubble, green crops, green grass or brown grass. A totally new formula produces foam that will last for one full day or more.

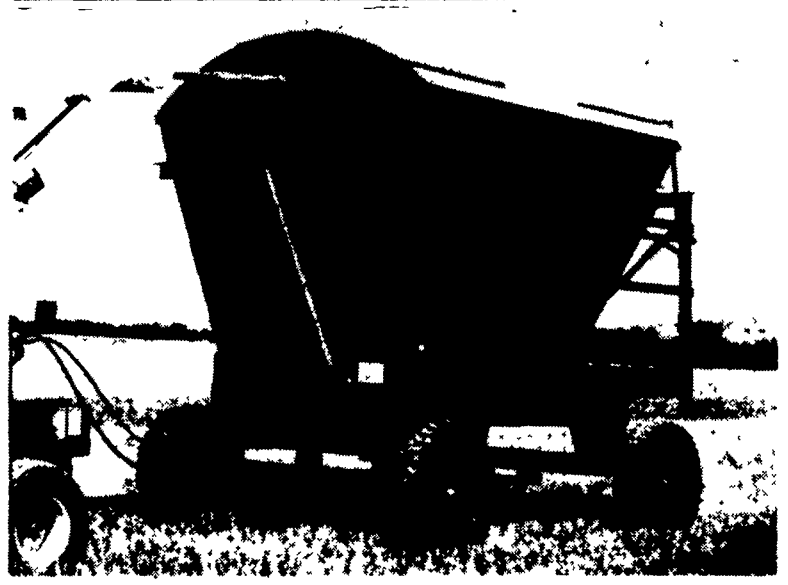
RICHARDTON
MULTI-PURPOSE DUMP WAGON



• 12 Ft...550 Cu. Ft. • 14 Ft...640 Cu. Ft.

MAXIMIZE YOUR FEED QUALITY WITH HIGH SPEED FORAGE HARVESTING

RICHARDTON
Stationary Conveyor Box

BIG CAPACITY 10 x 16 x 32" conveyor box holds an average load allowing your truck to return to the field for another load The Richardton Model 1016 Conveyor Box automatically and evenly feeds into the blower

HYDRAULICALLY DRIVEN For smooth troublefree operation

MINIMUM MAINTENANCE Pintle chains and chain drive are used throughout the drive assembly

SAFETY: Stop the conveyor from any position by pulling the safety rope that runs the length of the front and the sides of the conveyor box

EASY TO MOVE Equipped with two-wheel axle tongue and jack

RUGGED CONSTRUCTION Built into every Richardton product

VARIABLE SPEED DRIVE Move the load forward to the beaters fast and then slow it down to feed your blower at just the right speed

Factory Fresh Inventory Arriving Soon

DON'T HESITATE...CALL BINKLEY & HURST BROS. NOW!

RICHARDTON MULTI-PURPOSE DUMP WAGON

...And Your Richardton Dump Wagon will be unloaded.

That's right! From sun up to sun down you don't waste any time unloading a Richardton Dump Wagon In ONE MINUTE you can completely dump a full load (Model 1200-550 cu ft, Model 1400-640 cu ft) of forage, haylage or up to 360 bushels corn, grain or bulk fertilizer You can choose from Richardton's original Dump Wagon or the new tandem version with two model sizes and many attachments available

Don't wait any longer Make the Richardton Dump Wagon part of your operation and you will spend less time waiting and more time working Richardton the one minute machine!

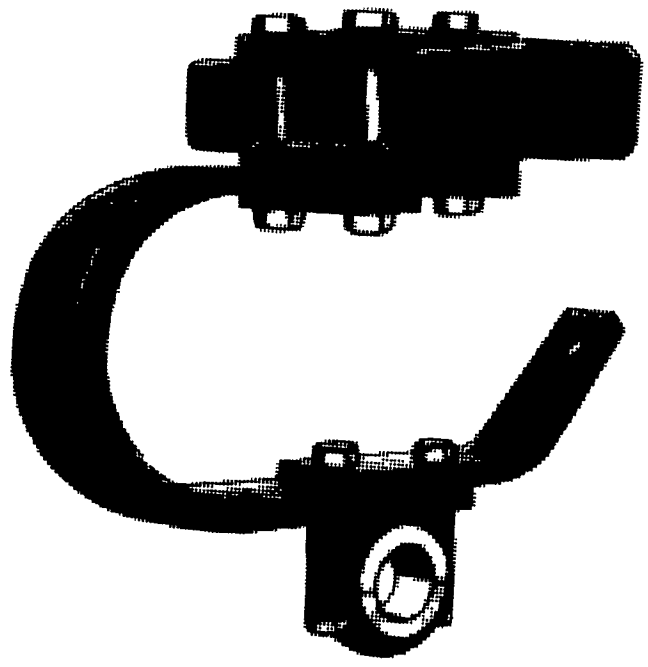
Krause
THE FIRST ROCKFLEX DISC IS THE BEST



It Takes More Than A C-ARM BEARING Hanger To Make A ROCKFLEX DISC That LOVES ROCKS

Most disc harrow manufacturers, including Krause, are located in areas that do not have rocks like we have in Pennsylvania and Maryland. Because Hoobers have sold over 500 KRAUSE ROCKFLEX DISCS to Pennsylvania and Maryland Farms. KRAUSE knows what it takes to make discs that work and hold up for years of production in tough, rocky conditions.

THE "ROCK-FLEX" STORY

"Rock-Flex" arms are C-shaped to flex over obstacles - helping protect disc blades and spools from breakage. "Super Seal" regreasable bearings are encased in rubber to absorb shock.

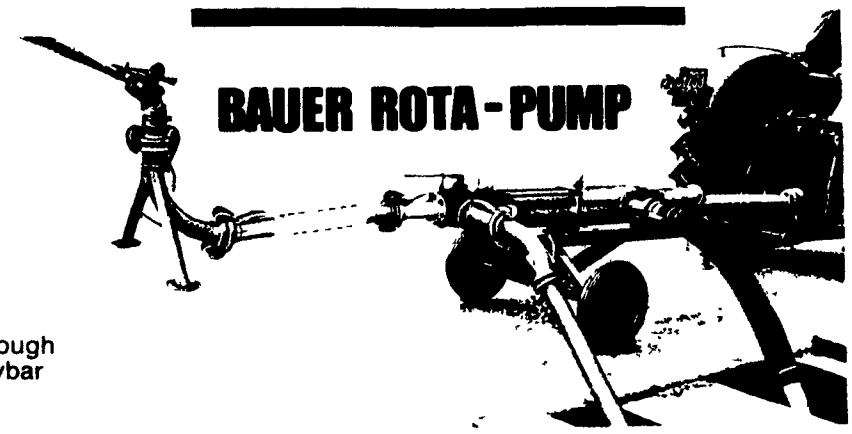
PUMP, Don't Haul, Your MANURE!

...you can pump and spread in one day what would take a week to haul, regardless of field conditions.



PUMPS any type of manure
Dairy, Chicken, Beef, Veal, Hog
High Performance Bauer helical rotor pumps are self-priming and can pump through irrigation pipe and spreader nozzles (shown), or through tractor-mounted Honeybar injectors for direct injection into soil, eliminating run-off.

TICO HONEYBAR INJECTOR
New system injects* liquid manure into soil, eliminating run-off, odor problems and loss of nitrogen value associated with other spreading methods. Honeybar attaches to tractor 3 pt. hitch—is fed directly from lagoon or storage tank through irrigation pipe and flexible hose. Designed for one-man operation. Components can also be used for hose reel irrigation system.
*(injects up to 600 gpm depending on ability to supply material to pump)

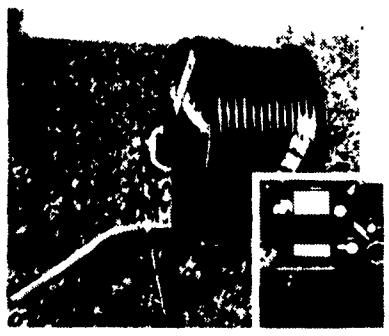
MAGNUM Self-Priming Chopper Pump
has a powerful chopping and shredding device to reduce animal and vegetable matter to a pumpable non-clogging slurry Tractor pto-driven models can pump up to 880 gal/min Other models available pump up to 1012 gpm



BAUER RAINSTAR REEL IRRIGATOR
can irrigate up to 1/3 mile long and up to 400 ft. wide, or 14 acres in one run. And, depending on model and pipe size, up to 800 gpm and up to 50 acres per day coverage. Gets the water to the crop when needed.

TICO also offers all other types of irrigation systems
- Wheel Row • Center Pivot • Giant Sprinkler • Trickle • Solid Set • Hand Move

Tico quick-couple irrigation pipe is the only irrigation pipe made to withstand pressures up to 300 psi

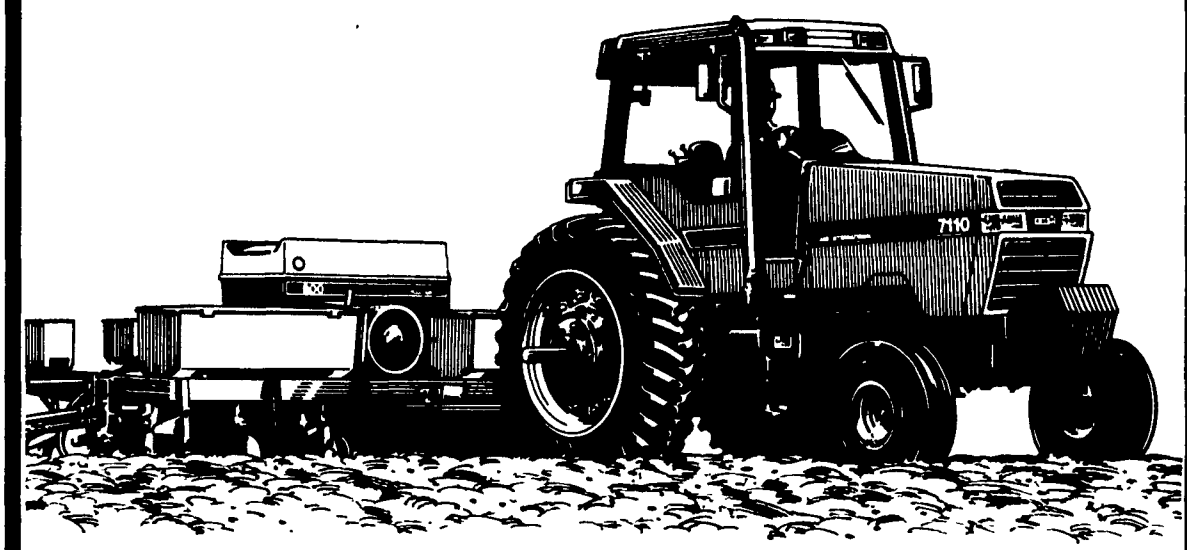
Introducing the new MAGNUM 7110



And the first all-new tractors from Case IH

Case IH put more into the new MAGNUM Tractor line than any farm tractors developed in over twenty years. Here's why you'll get more out of it:

MAGNUM means more. Outstanding field performance from a new 505-cubic-inch turbocharged engine with reserve power. MAGNUM power.

The MAGNUM Tractor's powershift puts 18 speeds of shift-on-the-go workpower at your fingertips — standard. And only MAGNUM Tractors offer full powershift creeper transmission with six additional speeds from .5 to 2.1 mph for more control and performance. MAGNUM performance.

The MAGNUM Tractor's new larger cab has 48 square feet of window area — virtually unobstructed visibility — and more seating comfort. MAGNUM comfort.

It all adds up: The Case IH MAGNUM 7110 Tractor sets new standards for the 130 hp (97 kW) class — and for you. See us for details.

MAGNUM means more.

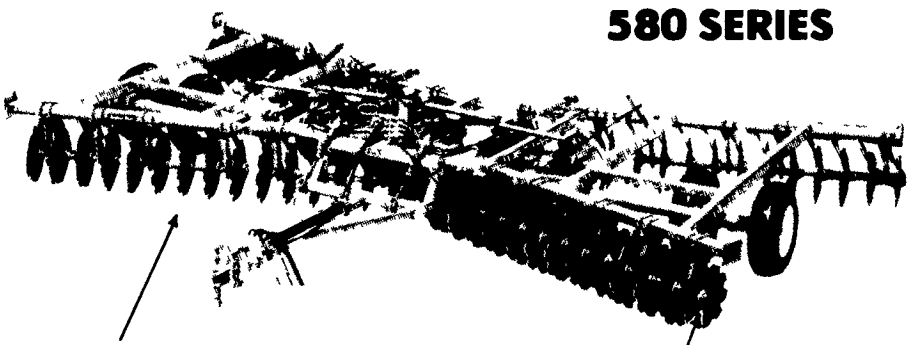
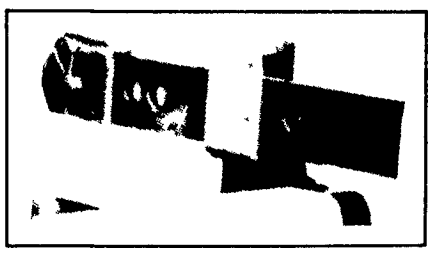
FLEXIBLE WHEEL TANDEM HARROW

580 SERIES

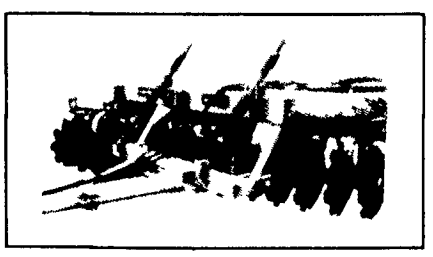


Split Gang Construction with more bearings eliminates axle stretch due to excessively long axles

1 1/8 or 1½ ' square axles and split gangs give ample strength and durability



Adjustable depth control holds the cutting depth constant Then simply lock bar for transport to eliminate wear and tear on hydraulic transport cylinders on those rough and rocky roads



Positive adjustment leveling from front to rear is no problem Weight is shifted by these Spring Rods to produce a smooth finish

12'9" TRANSPORT WIDTH

17'5" to 31'4" CUTTING WIDTHS

Buy More Discs For The Dollar With Taylor-Way®

FLEXIBILITY

PRECISION ENGINEERED... FULLY FIELD TESTED!

It's That Time Again, And We Are Here To Help You Get Your Harvestore® Ready For First Cutting With Quality Parts From Stahl Mfg., Inc.

For Your Unloader
AND
Lancaster Level-Flow Goosenecks To End Your Plugging Problems.

You can blow in as much as three tons of haylage a minute - over 100 feet up - with a new 12" center-fill Gooseneck from Lancaster Level-Flo.

High profile and 33% larger diameter reduce friction to make plugging a thing of the past. And the Lancaster Level-Flo 12" gooseneck is fully enclosed to make sure your silage and haylage go into your silo - not on the roof.

THE Silawrap SYSTEM

THE NEW ROUND BALE WRAPPER
An Economical Efficient Method Of Making Silage

This is the Silawrap system:
- The lift-arm places the bale on the turn table.
- Silawrap film is then attached to one of the bale strings.
- As the turn table is rotating, the rollers will slowly turn the bale.
- The Silawrap film is stretched around the bale overlapping 2-3-4 or 5 times according to the setting of the gears.
- The film is cut, film end secured and bale tipped off.

Farm Families Learn Goal Setting Techniques

Franklin Co. Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG — Franklin County farm families got an opportunity March 2 to define and re-evaluate their farm and family goals at a Farm & Home Planning Workshop sponsored by the Penn State Extension Service. Fred and Doreen Rice of Ricecrest Farm, Chambersburg, were the first speakers at the event, which was held at the Lighthouse Restaurant, and jointly addressed the topic of goal setting for farm families.

Doreen defined success as the progressive realization of a worthwhile, pre-determined goal. "You can consider yourself a success if you are making progress," she said. "If you arrive at a goal, then you get other ones. It's a continuous, ongoing process."

According to the Rices, the reason that some people do not succeed is because they don't know what they want from life. Setting goals can help to define one's objectives and provide the framework for reaching them.

Goals are broad statements of where you want to be after a period of time. Doreen cited several advantages of setting goals. Goal-setting:

- Shows where you are going--it is your roadmap;
- Prepares you to meet the future;
- Frees you of some worries and uncertainties; and
- Gives purpose

Some disadvantages of goal-setting are that it takes time, often is difficult to come to grips with conflicting goals, there may be a lack of confidence in determining priorities; and it may appear to be a waste of time if the need is not evident.

Fred discussed the three types of goals--short term (less than one year), intermediate term (1-10 years), and long term (more than 10 years).

To keep track of his short-term goals, Fred carries a notebook in which he lists daily goals such as phone calls to be made and appointments. Examples of intermediate-term goals are erecting a barn and planning milking, silage and manure systems. "These things can't be decided today and put up tomorrow," he said.

Long-term goals provide a sense of direction. Examples of long-term goals are leading a useful life, enhancing personal development, raising a family, developing a good herd, and buying a farm.

Doreen shared with the audience some high-priority long-term goals that she and Fred have for their family of three boys. Besides providing and maintaining a healthy farm setting in which to raise their children, they want to live within the means of the farm so that Doreen will not have to take an outside job. She worked as a registered nurse when they were first married, but elected to stay home after their first child was born.

Making time for family, recreation, and community and church activities is a priority for the Rices. They also strive to use their resources--time, money and energy-wisely.

The means of reaching these long-range goals are their short-term goals. These include keeping accurate and complete farm business records, hiring non-family labor to supplement the family labor, keeping records of family living expenses, using money Doreen earned as a nurse to help build assets (in their case, cows), keeping separate checking accounts for farm and family, and strictly limiting credit spending for family use.

Doreen related that some women she had worked with disagreed with her and Fred's goal of using the money she earned in nursing to help build the farm's assets. "'I wouldn't let him use my money to buy cows,' was the way some felt," Doreen related. "But this is our business--we're in it together."

Fred stressed the importance of communication among husband and wife and employees, and between the business partners, in this case his brother and himself. Their father, Fred Sr., is semi-retired and helps when needed. "You must know what each person is going to be doing for the day," he said. He feels it is important to acknowledge the interests and abilities of family members and employees.

"People are more motivated if they like their work," Doreen continued. She suggested letting family members help to set farm and family goals. Goals can provide direction for management. "Good management is goal-directed activity. It is important to assess what resources are available to you, and then select enterprises and activities that will help you reach your goals. "You need to know where you are now, Fred said, "your net worth, etc., and where you want to go. How can I get there? When will I arrive?" This requires planning and figuring. Doreen listed "pushing the pencil a lot" as one of her husband's strengths.

Goals are statements of action, such as "to do:" or "to complete:", and should indicate a completion time. Goals may be qualiative, for example, "to enjoy a higher standard of living," but they must be believable. They express one's hopes, dreams and ambitions for the future.

Setting priorities is also important to the farm family. Put simply, first things must come first. Often, working toward two or more goals at once is not feasible. "You can't obtain a new milking parlor and a new tractor at the same time unless you're unusual," Fred said.

He feels that consulting specialists is important to the efficient operation of a farm. "There's all kinds of help out there, breeding improvement specialists, extension agents, crop specialists, nutritionists, bankers, veterinarians, and accountants--you just need to go after it."

Doreen concluded by listing five techniques used in reaching goals.

1. Perform regular check-ups on your goals--perhaps annually.
2. Use saved time and effort wisely and effectively.
3. Organize your efforts on a "things to do" worklist. "It's very satisfying to check things off as they are completed," she said.
4. Check for slow or non-moving short-term goals and reconsider them--Are they realistic? Is the money available?
5. Modify your goals as your resources change. "These things are flexible," she said.

Some of the material for the Rice's workshop segment was taken from the learning module, "Identifying Farm/Ranch and Family Goals," by Paul H. Geesaman, agricultural finance economist, Nebraska Extension Service.

For the next topic, "Using Analysis Tools to Measure Progress and Efficiency", the group was split into two parts. William Reagan, Franklin County Agent, addressed the Swine Farm Analysis Group, while Roland Freund, Area Farm Management Agent, spoke with the Dairy Farm Analysis group.

"We've looked at success in terms of production and size," Freund said. "High production is a goal many farmers have set, but production and profit don't necessarily correlate. Interest can be a

CONTROL TRIAZINE-RESISTANT WEEDS WITH PROWL®.

You want a good, clean stand of corn. A crop you can really take pride in.

That means getting control of triazine-resistant weeds, including pigweed and lambsquarters. So go with the herbicide that gets the job done. PROWL® herbicide. It not only helps control triazine-resistant weeds but other problem grasses and certain broadleaves such as foxtail and velvetleaf. And with PROWL, you don't have to worry about carryover.

You can surface-apply PROWL preemergence, or apply early postemergence in a tank mix with atrazine. Do NOT incorporate PROWL in corn.

So if you want a good, clean, healthy stand of corn, start with PROWL and you'll finish with pride.

big reason," he said, "depreciation also."

He stressed knowing your assets and liabilities by using a balance sheet. The largest expense is usually debt repayment.

"Heifers are a completely separate entity if we want to look at our dairy business properly," he continued. "Keep track of them, do inventories--how much forage do they use? This is important because of preproduction expense under the new tax law.

"Anyone with over $3,000 (book value) per cow invested in dairy facilities is in trouble," Freund stated. "But I can't say that a lot less than $2,000 is good, either, because it might be inefficient. You might be spending a lot in labor. There must be a balance." Machinery investment is another area that may cause problems. Between $300 and $400 per acre is reasonable. "A lot of people get in trouble here," he said. "Too low is not good either, though, because you may be having too many breakdowns."

Dairy Agent Phil Wagner encouraged farmers to take advantage of the dairy mini-analysis available free at the extension office.

Chambersburg attorney Richard Hoskinson spoke on "Current and Future Generation Farms."

"What can we do to preserve the right and privilege of future generations to farm?" he asked. "A transfer (of the property) over a period of time makes sense," he said. A partnership arrangement should have a written agreement. An oral agreement is legal, but is dissolved upon the death of one partner. The people involved in a partnership should be compatible, trustworthy and financially responsible. Because the marital problems of one partner can affect the agreement, partners should consider limiting the interest of a spouse in the business operation with a prenuptial agreement.

Hoskinson recommends transferring assets to younger partners gradually, so they know what they're getting into. "Talk to an accountant when you are contemplating a partnership arrangement, then talk to an attorney," he advised.

For larger operations where two or more children are involved, or there are three or more farms, Hoskinson suggests incorporating. Ownership then is represented by shares of stock. Incorporation is not good for small farms, as it creates a new entity, causing more paperwork and red tape. There is not much income tax advantage. "It's good for large farms, though, to organize things for the future," he said.

Three types of cash sale of a farm are possible. The outright cash sale generates a tremendous amount of capital gains. The installment sale spreads the payments over a period of time. A sale with subsequent forgiveness of payments, using the $10,000 annual exclusion, is another possibility.

It is not possible to avoid taxes by selling a farm for $1, for example. "If you sell for less than its worth, you've made a gift of the difference between the market value and the price paid," Hoskinson said.

Another method of transferring farm ownership is through one's will. A will is a written disposition of assets, to take effect at one's death. "Wills are ambulatory--you can change your mind at any time," he said. You must be 18 and competent. "A will is an act of love. You do it because you want to do something nice for your loved ones. You don't need a special form. It's legal in Pennsylvania to just write it yourself. But you could foul it up," he warned. "If you don't have a will, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has already written one for you. It's like one size fits all--it may not fit your situation."

Hoskinson also discussed three types of joint ownership. The first type, "tenants by entirety," is when the husband and wife as a marriage unit own the property. There is no such thing as "selling your half" under this arrangement. On the death of either partner, the property passes to the survivor, and is not subject to Pennsylvania Inheritance Tax. It is free from creditors and is judgement-proof.

A similar arrangement is "joint tenants with right of survivorship," under which a partner may elect to sell his share.

Under a "tenants-in-common" agreement, each partner owns a fractional interest, which goes into that partner's estate at death. Either partner may sell his share.

"Joint ownership is not the best for transferring property. You can wrap yourself up in someone else's problems," he said.

Hoskinson concluded with a discussion of power of attorney. "All of us ought to consider a power of attorney when we're pushing 50," he said. "No one wants to be dragged into court and declared incompetent." Power of attorney can be given to a son, daughter, or bank, for example. "It must be someone you really trust," he stressed. The person you appoint will be able to sign for your medical or surgical treatment, pay your bills, and take care of other business matters.

ENTER THE DAIRY OF DISTINCTION PROGRAM NOW!

Beautiful Farmsteads...

A Positive Story

The Daniel Jones Farm, Stoneboro, Mercer county, was one of the nearly 100 farms so honored in 1987.

The Northeast is rightfully proud of its dairy industry. Agriculture is our number one industry, with milk its major commodity. Realizing dairying's importance to the area's economy, the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program (NEDFBP) was incorporated November 1983 to honor attractive dairy farms with the Dairy of Distinction Award.

The award program is based on the concept that these attractive farmsteads will enhance consumer confidence in the wholesomeness of milk, stimulate milk sales and encourage public support for the industry.

The NEDFBP has divided the Northeast into regions, with approximately the same number of farms per district. Each district is under the jurisdiction of a local committee responsible for organizing the judging, awarding the Dairy of Distinction signs and publicity. The program also operates on the regional level through the NEDFBP Board of Directors, which ovesee and provide support and guidance to the local communities. All active dairy farms within the region covered by the program are eligible to apply for a Dairy of Distinction award. Applications, available from the program's area secretary, the local committees and other sources such as agricultural publications, must be submitted by April 15 of each year.

Farm judging takes place in the month of May and is based on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds and surroundings. This year in the Pennsylvania Program in addition to the district team of judges that does the roadside inspection, the sanitarian for your cooperative or dealer-handler will be asked to be part of the judging process. Winning farms receive a colorful, aluminum 18x24 inch Dairy of Distinction sign to be placed on the farmstead near the roadside so passers-by can recognize the farm as a Dairy of Distinction.

Dairy of Distinction farms will be judged every year to ensure they maintain the excellent standards required for the award.

This exciting program promotes agriculture at its best. Broad public awareness of the program is vital to its success and the impact will increase as more consumers see Dairy of Distinction farms and associate them with dairy products sold in stores.

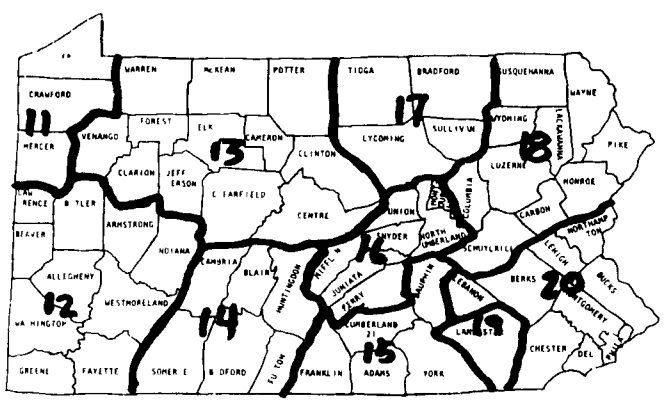
The Dairy of Distinction program is a cooperative, widespread industry effort. Sponsors include cooperative extension, agricultural cooperatives, State Departments of Agriculture, the Grange, Farm Bureau, producer groups and agribusinesses. Dairy of Distinction is a product of people who care about the Northeast dairy industry.

The NEDFBP extends an invitation to anyone interested in promoting beautiful dairy farms. Dairy of Distinction depends on people — particularly farmers who are proud of their farms and want to help the product they produce.

We love the Northeast — its lakes, hills, valleys, mountains, cities...and the beautiful Dairies of Distinction!

Dairy of Distinction
Dairy Farm Beautification Program

DAIRY OF DISTINCTION DISTRICTS



Pennsylvania Is Divided Into These Districts. Approximately 10 Dairy Of Distinction Awards will be made each year in each district. There is no cost to you. You receive a nice metal sign to put at the end of your lane and a certificate. In addition Lancaster Farming will present this year's winners from Pennsylvania with a color photograph made from a color slide. This year in the Pennsylvania Program in addition to the district team of judges that does the roadside inspection, the sanitarian for your cooperative or dealer-handler will be asked to be part of the judging process. If your farm is a winner be sure you or your district committee takes a color photograph of your farm and sends it to Lancaster Farming in time for the awards ceremony.

Is Mastitis Influenced By Reward Reinforcement?

By Dr. George F.W. Haenlein
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, DE. — Experience managing farm animals has convinced most of us that it is not only more prudent, but easier, faster and less painful to use the proverbial carrot instead of using the stick. At first we may be determined to demand obedience. But on more quiet contemplation we realize that outsmarting our four-footed charges is not a compromise but a detour that brings results.

For example, in a stanchion barn with the usual deep gutter behind cows, have you ever tried to back a cow out across that gutter? Because she sees only the deep visual cliff, she vehemently fights your efforts and may even hurt you. But you can easily outsmart her by placing some straw in the gutter to cover it up. And then she'll back out of her stanchion very willingly, without fear. Talk gently and pet her as you move her, and she'll remember the experience positively the next time.

Another example of effective behavior management is when your newborn calf needs nursing and you've taken it from its mom. It misses the teat, but is scared of your milk pail. Rather than letting it hit the pail and upset the milk, you give your fingers to the calf to simulate the teat and guide its head into the milk pail, where it slowly learns--without fear--to drink rather than suck milk, even after you withdraw your fingers.

In this case the calf was positively reinforced by the milk reward after sticking its head into a bucket and learned to nurse this way from then on.

How about ourselves? Do we also respond to positive reinforcement? I think so.

Protein in milk is a good example. For more than 20 years, dairy scientists here at the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station and elsewhere have shown that milk protein content can be measured easily, that cows and bulls can be selected for it successfully, and that it has strong public appeal for the promotion of milk consumption.

So, why are we still talking about it after 20 years? There's still little or no reward to help reinforce farmers on this subject.

Mastitis is different, however. After talking for some 100 years about its undesirability and the need for treatment and control programs, the industry is finally reinforcing its talk with rewards to farmers, dairymen and milkers. And the rewards work. They're getting results--great results--finally.

It seems that reward reinforcement is a more potent weapon against mastitis than the best antibiotics. A few years ago, we here in Delaware could barely meet a maximum milk tank level of 1.5 million somatic cell counts per milliliter. This year, we hardly ever had a herd at 1 million, and the average was as low as 200,000 to 300,000. Why? Every farmer who meets the new low levels receives a bonus, month after month. It wasn't the threat of persecution, it wasn't education, information, meetings or veterinary treatment. It was reward reinforcement that finally worked.

In England, too, after admitting defeat for all other efforts, including penalties, the somatic cell count nationwide is down to 350,000 since they introduced a bonus payment scheme of 1.3 percent of the milk price for low-testing herds.

The end result, of course, is not just conquering a mastitis problem, but ensuring high-quality milk for the public, while reinforcing dairy farmers who cooperate with well-earned financial rewards.

You probably can think of several other opportunities for reward reinforcement that would work in your dairy or livestock operation--labor or management changes you could make that would make life easier, safer and more profitable.

Martin Receives Dairy Management Award

Maryland Correspondent

FAIRPLAY, Md. — President Lee Worthington helped honor this year's recipient of the Washington County Dairy Management Award. Gilson Martin won based on his skill to manage his herd in production and the areas associated with breeding and raising the offspring. His herd was also the top herd, out of the 71 herds that represent the county, for milk, fat and protein. The 29 cows that comprise his herd averaged 22,633m 819f.

The Marlin Martin familly had the greatest increase in milk, fat and protein production. Their herd averaged on 57 cows 20,305m 721f 650p. This was up from last year's average of 17,488m 627f 579p on 51 cows.

The high cow for all the colored breeds went to Con-Ayr Dairy. Their Ayrshire cow averaged 21,640m 688f at 6 years of age. The high cow for the Holsteins went to Arthur Rhoderick with his 3-year-old who averaged 31,910m 1,174f. The high cow for fat went to the Guernsey owned by John and William Schnebly. As a 3-year-old she averaged 16,790m 844f. Arthur Rhoderick also owned the top cow for fat. As a 5-year-old she averaged 28,300m 1,249f.

The following is the listing by age in each breed for milk and fat production:

Bradford Farmers Do The Impossible In SCC Control

BY PAT PURCELL

TOWANDA (BRADFORD CO.) — Getting every penny out of the milk check has taken on new meaning in light of the milk support price cut in January and the impending cuts when the elections are over.

Keeping a low somatic cell count earns more dollars per hundredweight in the form of premiums from milk processors. Several Bradford County milk producers are doing what some experts believe to be nearly impossible. These dairy farmers are keeping their somatic cell count below 100,000.

"I haven't washed a cow since 1971," said Dale Petty of Canton. Petty has kept an average SCC of 56,000 for 1988. His 1987 average was 97,000 on 41 Holsteins.

"I don't wash up my cows before milking. I was short of labor in 1971 and did all the milking myself," explained Petty. "I know that is totally against what they tell us. But if the cows are dirty I make sure to get the soil off of them."

"If I have problems with mastitus I want to know exactly what the problem is. I want to know if it's from an injury or a mechanical problem. I just won't have peace of mind until I get right to the heart of the problem," said Petty.

Petty takes extra precaution with treatments to discard milk according to treatment specifications and feels that it is a must for all dairymen to be conscientious and meticulous when it comes to the quality of their milk.

"Years ago I was having problems keeping my cell count down. Someone suggested I teat dip, but I didn't want to, but now I'm glad I went to it," said Petty. "Now teat dipping will not solve your mastitus problems, but I believe it will help to prevent it."

Petty's raw bacteria count averages below 8,000. Petty said as long as his SCC level stays low and the raw bacteria count stays below 10,000 he will not make any changes.

Greg and Clyde Seeley

Greg and his father Clyde Seeley of Canton registered a SCC level of 79,000 for November and December of 1987 and 42,000 and 46,000 in February and March. Their raw bacteria count from the milk plant runs below 5,000 and is usually at 1,000 to 2,000.

In preparing the cows for milking the Seeleys pre-strip each cow 10-12 times per quarter. They use a damp udder cloth rinsed in a bucket of hot water and Clorox, a chlorine bleach, and they use the same towel on every cow.

"The cloth is not running with water. We rinse it and wring it out and use it until we are done," said Greg.

They teat dip every cow with straight Clorox. According to Greg the Clorox is more economical than other teat dips and not as harsh on the teats. The Seeleys dry treat all their cows.

"As soon as the cow is prepared I put the milker on her immediately. I do the preping and put on the milkers and Dad takes the milkers off. There's always a milker hanging ready for me to put on. Dad is right there to take the milker off as soon as she's done milking," explained Greg.

Seeley View Farm has 200 registered Holsteins on the farm. The rolling herd average is 15,700 lbs. in milk production and 600 lbs. of fat.

Matwil Farm

At the Matwil Farm in Troy, Bill and Ginny Davis keep their SCC between 80,000 to 100,000. Their lowest count was 57,000. Every cow at Matwil Farm is dry treated and when the cows freshen they treat the infected quarter immediately. On their problem cows they use a heavy dose of penicillin when they dry them.

According to Ginny, they use individual paper towels and teat dipping. The teat dip is a chlorohexadine solution with a glycerine base to keep the teats from cracking. They do use an iodine solution in the wash bucket with hot water. They wash off the teats and dry them immediately.

"I guess we surprise a lot of people because our bacteria count is never anymore than 10,000. We milk three times a day and we only wash and sanitize the system once a day. If we have fresh cows I usually milk them in a bucket, but if we have quite a few I'll put the milker on her, but I immediately get the milk out of the lines and wash out the lines so bacteria doesn't build up," explained Ginny.

An important factor in keeping down the bacteria level is the short time it takes for the tank to cool down the milk. Within 15 minutes after milking, Ginny says the milk has cooled down and the tank shuts off. Often their tank has cooled the milk to below 42 degrees by the time the milking is done.

The Davis' milk a herd of 67 Red and White Holsteins they started building 14 years ago.

Jerry and Yvonne Scott

Jerry and Yvonne Scott of Troy keep the SCC near the 70,000 level by teat dipping after milking with a chlorohexadine solution and using individual udder towels rinsed in an iodine solution in the water.

"I take the equipment apart once a week and clean it and replace all the rubber parts every three months," said Jerry Scott.

They milk 30 Holsteins and keep their raw bacteria count close to a 7,000 average.

Beef Producers Workshop Set

ELKTON, MD — The University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service Cecil County Office is sponsoring a Beef Producers' Workshop. This workshop will be held on April 11, 1988 at 7:30 p.m. at the Cecil County Extension Office, Room 7, County Court House, Elkton, MD 21921. The workshop is free to all participants.

Highlighting the workshop will be two Extension Specialists, Dr. Scott Barao and Dr. Douglas Carmel. Dr. Barao, Livestock Specialist will be discussing the proper balancing of beef rations for small and large producers. His talk will also include information on pasture grazing systems and forage crops.

Dr. Carmel, Extension veterinarian, will be discussing cattle herd health. His topic will cover parasites, worming procedures, medicines and general cow-calf health.

In addition to these two speakers and their topics, information on cattle management, reproduction and trends will be discussed.

If you plan to attend this Beef Workshop, please contact the Extension Office at 398-0200, Ext. 181 or 301-658-4041.

DeKalb Expands Poultry Research Department

DEKALB, Il. — Two new positions were created recently in the Research Department of DeKalb Poultry Research, Inc., according to an announcement by the director, James J. Warren, Jr.

Dr. Harris B. Wright has been named research geneticist and Ian Smith has been appointed research associate.

"The appointment of Dr. Wright and Ian Smith adds to the overall research and technical support provided by Jim Warren and Dr. Larry Vint, assistant director of research," declared John R. Nelsen, president, in commenting on the new positions.

Wright is the son of Dr. & Mrs. F. Malcolm Wright who formerly operated a general farm in York County, where they raised Hereford cattle and about 100,000 turkeys annually for Round Hill Foods at New Oxford. He was awarded his doctorate in animal breeding from Cornell University last August. Recently, he and his wife and two young children moved to the DeKalb, Illinois area.

At DeKalb Poultry, Dr. Wright's basic duties are in the disciplines of genetic research, biometrics, computer systems and programming, and technical support.

Ian Smith has been technical manager for DeKalb in Europe and the Middle East for the past 18 years. He and his wife recently moved to the DeKalb, Illinois area. He will be working under the direction of Jim Warren in the development and dissemination of research and management information supporting DeKalb's layer products.

A native of Scotland, Smith joined the F. & G. Sykes poultry organization following service in the Royal Air Force. He served 10 years with Sykes in research and marketing. Later, he managed the Pilch-DeKalb operation in Great Britain.

FED WATCHING IS A BREATH OF FRESH AIR, ESPECIALLY DURING THE 'FUNNY SEASON'

By Alvi O. Voigt

We're deep into the funny season, the year or so in which a big national election occurs. Glib promises prevail, political candidates are hard to pin down, and the economy is either good or bad — depending on a person's political persuasion. By now everyone knows that Alan Greenspan has succeeded Paul Volcker as Federal Reserve Board Chairman. Volcker and his Fed crew were responsible for getting inflation under control and watching to see that inflation stays in its cage. The inflation rate was 11.3 percent in 1979 when Volcker became chairman of the Federal (Fed). Then inflation dropped to a low of 1.9 percent in 1986, but rose at a 3.7 percent annual rate in 1987. And, on February 23, 1988 Greenspan testified before the House Banking Committee that the Fed eased monetary policy slightly in January to counter "indications of some softening in the economy as the year began." He also testified, however, that the Fed now intends to tighten the money supply by lowering the ceiling of its target ranges for growth by a full percentage point.

Why Tighten Money Supply?

"We cannot be complacent about the potential for higher inflation," Greenspan said as he set the theme for his House testimony. "By the time an acceleration of costs and price pressure became evident, the inflation process would already be well entrenched." Greenspan then went on to say that inflation increased in 1987 because of rising prices for energy and higher prices of imports, the latter caused largely by the fall in the dollar's foreign exchange value. White House economic adviser Beryl Sprinkel, in an earlier February 17, 1988 report, was a little critical of the Fed for keeping monetary policy too tight last year. Greenspan believed, the Fed could have let money supply grow faster, as Sprinkel wanted, but not without boosting inflation too high, "in our (Fed) judgement."

What's Acceptable Inflation?

Asked at what level inflation becomes troubling, Greenspan said, "I think 3 to 4 percent is unacceptable, in the sense that once you accept it, it'll start to grow. I'm not worried.... because we don't see any imminent acceleration. But I also know enough about history to know that inflation sneaks up on you fairly quickly." Shall we assume the Fed will try for an inflation rate of less than 3 percent?

The Fed's 1988 Economic Projections

The Fed is projecting a Gross National Product (GNP) growth of 5 1/4 to 6 percent, which is 2 to 2 1/2 percent real growth (adjusted for inflation). An inflation rate of 3 1/4 to 3 3/4 percent is being projected along with an unemployment rate of 5 3/4 to 6 percent for 1988. Any faster growth, beyond a 2 to 2 1/2 percent GNP increase, could cause inflation. "Because the United States is now operating at relatively high rates of utilization, domestic demand must be restrained if our international sector is to expand without more inflation." When asked by one lawmaker whether recession or renewed inflation is the great risk right now, Greenspan said, "At the moment, I would conclude the dangers are roughly equal."

Economy in Equilibrium

"There's a gross distortion of reality" on trade issues in the political debate, suggested Greenspan. The economy seems "in equilibrium", but Greenspan couldn't make the same claim for presidential campaign rhetoric. "The relationships among all the major financial variables seem to be in relative balance."

And?

The Fed, in our humble estimation, has been the major steadying influence for our economy. And we wouldn't mind at all if Congress would expand the Fed's influence from monetary policy (money supply) to also include fiscal policy (spending and taxes). Then the Fed could, for instance, say to Congress and the President that government spending will be X amount of dollars--no more--and allocate it as you will, but X amount is all you can have. Yep, that's wishful thinking. Our major point? Be a Fed watcher. Greenspan seems every bit as bright and objective as his predecessor, Volcker. Both want to contain inflation. And, if anything, Greenspan might be a trifle more open about current/future Fed policy. The Fed is a great barometer of our economy.

PA Ayrshire Breeders Plan 1988 Events

LITITZ — A very enthusiastic group of Pennsylvania Ayrshire Breeders met for their annual dinner meeting on March 12 at the Embers in Carlisle.

Ear Keefer reported the Pennsylvania Young Ayrshire sire committee had a successful year with two young plus proven bulls in service, six more young bulls in various stages of proof and the tenth young bull ready to enter the collection process.

This young sire is coming from the Charles Gable herd in Elverson. He is sired by DeAyrs Royal Vitality, which is presently the top production Ayrshire bull of the breed and out of Conebella Betty's Celia 'Ex' with a record of 23,370 milk with 4.6 percent test and 1071 butterfat. This young, 'Conebella Vim-ET' and all the other young sires are available through Atlantic Breeders Coop Breeders, Lancaster.

In the Pennsylvania Ayrshire Youth report, Harold Rader, Jr., 15-year-old son of Harold and Barbara Rader, Connoquenessing, had the top book report for boys 13 to 16 years of age in the National Outstanding Ayrshire boy/girl contest.

Harold Rader, Jr. owns 10 Ayrshires and is very active in the Butler County wide 4-H Club. He has participated in several national junior activities including production awards, Junior All-American Contests and Quiz Bowls. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Junior Ayrshire Club, and has shown his Ayrshires in local, state and national Ayrshire shows. He will receive a monetary award from the PA Aysrshire Association.

The sale committee reported the Spring Calf sale, scheduled for April 23, at the Lebanon Fairgrounds is on schedule with 40 consignments ranging in age from junior calves to senior yearlings. All youth with a first year Ayrshire project are eligible for a $25.00 award at the completion of their first year.

The association is also supporting the Crawford County all breed calf sale on April 16 at Meadville. The PA Elite Ayrshire slae will be held in conjunction with the PA All-American Dairy Show, September 27, at Harrisburg.

The PA Ayrshire Field Day will be held at the farm of Robert and Bonnie Wentworth, 1026 River Road, Quarryville. River Road is two miles south of he Buck, on route 272 turn west onto River Road to the first farm on the left. Activities start at 10:30 a.m. on July 16.

Our national director, Charles Gable, reported our national association is in sound financial position at the end of 1987. The national association is sponsoring state Ayrshire herds to be shown at the National Ayrshire show at Madison, Wisconsin. Pennsylvania will be sending a state herd to Madison and Dwight Hunter of West Alexander, will be in charge of the herd.

Pennsylvania will be one of the states to host the World Ayrshire Conference Sept. 30 to Octo. 2. with visits to Androssan Farms, Villanova; Amish country in Lancaster and Chester County; the Masonic Homes Farms at Elizabethtown and the Conebella Farm of Charles Gable family at Elverson and Longwood Gardens at Kennett Square.

The 1988 Officers were elected:

President — John Rodgers, Belleville

Vice-President — Paul Kemerer, Latrobe

Secretary-Treasurer — Milt Brubaker, Lititz

Assistant Secretary — Betty Kieffer, Richland

Directors — Wilda Kline, Mars; Curt Sweinhart, New Enterprise; Delmas Hernley, Lebanon; Harold Kulp, Pottstown; Sharon Nolan, Cochranton; Mark Carter, Jr., Towando; Warren Schmuck, Peach Bottom; Alvin String, Harrisonville, NJ.

Youth Committee — Barbara Rader, Connoquenessing; John Ocker,III, Shippensburg; Wes Harding, Jr., Lebanon; Susan Kulp, Pottotown; Donald Gable, Elverson.

Young Sire Committee — Earl Keefer, Millersburg; Harold Kulp, Pottstown; Glenn Seidel, Wormelsdorg; Ann Young, West Grove; Charles Gable, Elverson; J. Garrett Hunter, West Alexander.

PFA Visits Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A state farm leader today called on the Pennsylvania congressional delegation to enact legislative change that would bring about "free and fair" trade. Keith W. Eckel, president of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA), spoke to members of Congress and more than 200 farmers here at a breakfast in Cannon House Office Building.

"Free and fair trade is important to the agricultural economy and the U.S. general economy," Eckel told the group, which is there to meet with congressional members of Congress from Pennsylvania. The farmers in the group represent 54 local units, which are affiliated with the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association.

He explained that his farm organization did not want Congress to pass a trade bill which would create barriers to trade. "We want a bill that would be a firm foundation for boosting the competitiveness of U.S. exports," Eckel said.

"Agriculture and most other U.S. industries would be severely hurt by 'retaliation' with high excess trade surpluses, because some of these countries are U.S. agriculture's best customers." The farm group has announced support for the proposed Senate legislation that attacks specific unfair trade practices.

"Our agriculture depends on heavy exports," Eckel stated. "Many of our economic problems can be solved with the aid of a strong export program. U.S. agriculture can not survive without free and fair international trade."

On the nation's huge budget deficits the farm leader called for a "freeze-and-fix....an across-the-board freeze on all federal spending at the previous year's level -- long enough to fix what is wrong with national spending programs."

He also called for a repeal of the "heifer tax" which was part of the 1986 Tax Reform Act, which now requires farmers to capitalize the costs of raising livestock with a preproduction period of two years or more. Repealing the "heifer tax" would permit producers to return to the old method of expensing costs.

The new capitalization requirements, according to Eckel, add to the cost of raising replacement animals because costs cannot be recovered as quickly.

Congressmen were asked by the Clarks Summit vegetable grower to "lessen the regulatory paper work and compliance to nuisance regulations" as it regards hiring of seasonal farm workers. He accused the Legal Services Corporation of using provisions of the Migrant and Seasonal Worker Protection Act to harass farm workers and employers of seasonal farm workers.

He cited actions by the Legal Service Corporation which filed charges in Federal court against a Pennsylvania grower in a class action suit, demanding civil damages in excess of $50,000. The potential cost of this litigation coupled with the immense potential liability forced the grower to settle out of court.

"This precedence then is cited to other growers who take similar action," Eckel said, "I call it legal blackmail." He urged the congressmen to "rein in the realm of legal terror that is afforded groups like the Legal Services Corporation with the passage of ill-conceived laws and regulations."

He called attention to the provision in the omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987 that changed the collection point for diesel fuel excise tax from retail to wholesale starting April 1. Farmers are exempt from paying the diesel fuel tax for off-highway agricultural use, but this would require the farmer to pay the tax and then file for a refund.

There are several bills in Congress that if approved would change the law.

PFA is a voluntary, general farm organization representing 23,443 farm families in 54 county associations. PFA is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation which has more than 3.6 million members nationwide.

Landmark Genetics Acquires Bull

HUGHSON, CA — Singing-Brook Ned Boy ANDY-et, Reg. #2030269, a young Holstein bull bred by Singing Brook Farms, Imler, PA, has been selected for sampling in the young sire proving program of Landmark Genetics. His semen has just been released for use in herds an official DHIA test throughout the United States.

As a member of Landmark Genetics' "GO" (Genetic Opportunity) program, ANDY is undergoing thorough testing. He has successfully passed his health tests and the goal now is to get a minimum of 50 daughters milking in 40 herds across the U.S. for a high repeatability on his first proof.

Pete Blodgett, director of the young sire development program for the international artificial breeding company, said, "We've selected this youngster because of his outstanding bloodlines."

ANDY is a son of Ned Boy, the outcross sire noted for strength, substance and high components. Excellent 91 as a 3-year-old, his dam is one of Board Chairman's most outstanding daughters as well as being the granddaughter of the famous Reserve all time, All American 2-year-old, Wapa Bootmaker Mandy. Chairman Mandy has over 23,000M in her own right as a 2-year-old, while her 2E-92 Valiant dam has over 26,500M and 1,091F as a 3-year-old.

NPPC Recommends Changes In USDA Proposed Swine ID Program

The National Pork Producers Council has submitted its recommendations to the Department of Agriculture concerning the department's proposed mandatory swine identification system. The comment period on the proposal ends April 4.

NPPC supports the concept of swine identification and the organization's Swine ID Task Force has been working with USDA, packers and marketing agencies for more than a year to develop a system that will serve the needs of producers, packers and consumers without placing an unfair burden on any particular segment.

The Swine ID Task Force, after a thorough evaluation of the USDA proposal, said it is unnecessarily cumbersome. In the recommendations, endorsed by NPPC's Executive Committee, it was pointed out that the identification system must be simple and easy to enforce if it is to be truly effective.

In NPPC's opinion, the scope of the proposed rule should be narrowed to slaughter hogs, with sows and boars encluded. The organization noted that sows and boars are presently covered by identification regulations while feeder pigs in interstate movement are also already covered by most states.

Other NPPC recommendations:

• There should be no exceptions for particular production systems, such as farrow-to-finish operations. All market hogs (excluding sows and boars) should be identified and records kept by the buyer or agent, allowing for traceback to the farm of origin.

• Identification should take place prior to or at the first point of concentration or sale.

• Truckers should not be required to identify swine as called for in the proposed rule.

• Tattoos should be limited to four digits in order to accomodate existing equipment and for ease of application.

• The proposed requirement to record multiple tag and tattoo numbers appearing on hogs should be deleted. The proposal is just too cumbersome. The recording of one tattoo should be sufficient for the identification system, thus avoiding multiple numbers which would serve no good or practical purpose.

• Reasonable notice should be given to markets, packers or other parties before inspection of their identification records by authorized government officials.

• The definition of what constitutes "interstate commerce" in the proposed rule needs to be clarified. The implication that a "broad interpretation" will be followed, needs to be spelled out.

• During the implementation phase of the proposed system, considerable leeway should be exercised so that penalties for inadvertent errors in instituting the system would be minimal.

NPPC said it believes an effective national swine identification system would be beneficial to producers, markets and packers by helping them track their product and make improvement in their herds as needed. At least as important, said the Council, is the reassurance to consumers that they are getting a safe, high quality pork product.

The organization said it believed that its recommendations, if made a part of the final rule, would be a positive influence on producer acceptance of a swine identification system.

Solanco Young Farmers Honored At Banquet

QUARRYVILLE — The ninth annual Solanco Young Farmers banquet was held Thursday, March 24, at the Memorial United Methodist Church.

Axel Linde, Oxford, was recognized as the Outstanding Young Farmer under 30, and Karl Herr, Christiana, was selected as the winner in the over 30 category.

A. Dale Herr, Kirkwood, received the active member award for his enthusiasm and involvements in local chapter activities.

This year's appreciation award was presented to James Huber, Triple H Equipment, Peach Bottom, for his contributions and support of the young farmer program. Mr. Huber received an engraved plaque in appreciation for his support.

The following corn awards were presented to winners in the annual corn production contest. Dwayne Peifer, Kirkwood, produced 179 bushels of shelled corn per acre to win the grain division. H. Grant Troop, Quarryville, was second with 171 bushels, and C. Martin Greenleaf, Jr., was third with 164 bushels per acre. Dwayne Peifer, Kirkwood, received the award for the highest grain average for the past three years with 161 bushels.

In the corn silage division Edward Zug, Peach Bottom, placed first with 25.2 tons per acre of 65% moisture corn silage. Dwayne Peifer, Kirkwood, was second with 24.9 tons per acre and Larry Aaron, Quarryville, placed third with 24.7 tons. Larry Aaron also received the trophy for the highest silage average for the past three years with 24.5 tons per acre.

The following dairy production awards were presented. Robert Kauffman, Jr., Peach Bottom, received all the Holstein awards. His herd average was 21,121 pounds of milk and 796 pounds of fat. He also had the high cow for milk with 30,434 pounds and the high cow for butterfat with 1,080 pounds.

J. Marvin Herr's Holtwood herd of Jerseys took top honors with 13,767 pounds of milk and 659 pounds of fat. His cow, with 908 pounds of fat, also took the top award for butterfat production. The cow owned by George and Doris Hough, Peach Bottom topped the milk production of the Jersey's with 18,894 pounds.

Lindenhof Farm, Oxford, received the award for the high Guernsey herd with 15,807 pounds of milk and 729 pounds of fat. Lindenhof also had the high cow for milk with 17,920 pounds and the high cow for fat with 887 pound.

The most improved herd for milk and fat was the Holstein herd of Willis and Jim Krantz, Quarryville. Their milk production was up 2219 pounds and butterfat up 110 pounds over last year's production.

The Active Member Award was given to Dale Herr, left, and the Appreciation Award was presented to James Huber.

Biosecurity

Emergency and common poultry diseases are caused by microorganisms (microbes). They are invisible except when viewed under a microscope. In less than a day a single microbe can reproduce to a number greater than the number of people on earth. When these microbes cause disease they threaten the health of your flock and the success of your business. Keeping the disease-producing microbes away from your flock by using a defense plan is called biosecurity.

Biosecurity or effective disease prevention is the only way to deal with emergency diseases such as avian influenza, exotic Newcastle disease and duck plague enteritis. These are emergency diseases because they must be reported to state and federal authorities when diagnosed. There are no known effective cures for these diseases. They cause epidemics, long expensive quarantines and flock depopulation resulting in severe personal and financial loss.

Biosecurity also helps to prevent the spread of other common poultry diseases such as fowl cholera, laryngotracheitis, mycoplasma and paratyphoid infections. These diseases are very contagious and result in poor growth rate and egg production, reduced product quality and chronic economic loss in poultry flocks.

Microbes travel from place to place by chicken crates, egg filler flats, trucks, other equipment and people. They can be found on your hands, hair, shoes and clothing. They are found on the skin and in the digestive and respiratory organs of dogs, cats, rats, mice, and wild, free-flying birds. Flies, beetles and other insects are also notorious spreaders of disease-causing organisms.

To avoid bringing disease to poultry, change to fresh, clean coveralls, hats and boots when visiting a farm. Equipment such as chicken hauling crates, egg filler flats, delivery trucks, toolboxes, vaccine sprayers and debeakers need careful attention when you are using them on different farms. Be alert to all ways that disease can spread to your farm.

These are just a few of the ways that disease can be prevented. Biosecurity, in simple terms, is informed common sense. Information on biosecurity has been recently published in a brochure on Biosecurity for Poultry by MACE (Mid-Atlantic Cooperative Extension) Poultry Health and Management Unit. The publication covers, in greater detail, many of the points I have discussed. It outlines biosecurity insurance programs for home poultry flocks, commercial flocks, live markets, auctions, farm visitors, catching crews and truckers.

MACE is a cooperative effort between extension specialists in poultry science and veterinarians of the land grant universities in Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia. Penn State is part of this effort of MACE to promote biosecurity management practices. If you would like to have a copy of the brochure on Biosecurity for Poultry, contact your county agent or write to Owen D. Keene, 224 Henning, University Park, PA 16802. We should have ample quantities by April 15.

NY Horse Club To Hold Annual Old-Fashioned Days

CALEDONIA, NY — On Sunday, April 24, the public is cordially invited to the hillsides south of Scottsville, as the Western New York Draft Horse and Pony Club presents its 12th Annual Old Fashioned Days at Honey Locust Farms. More than 100 draft animals in teams of two, three, four and five, will pull plows and plant the fields with oats and potatoes, in a fashion reminiscent of a by-gone era. Demonstrations begin at 9:00 a.m. and continue throughout the day.

Free horse-drawn wagon rides will take visitors into the fields to watch at close range the work being done. There is no charge for admission and there will be plenty of free parking.

Refreshments and a chicken barbeque will be available. Also on Sunday, there will be sheep shearing demonstrations and a craft sale.

Lower Returns For Hog Producers

The profitability of U.S. hog operations diminished in fourth-quarter 1987 and will probably continue lower through most of this year. Net returns in 1988 will be down substantially and may average only slightly above breakeven, unlike the relatively good years of 1986 and 1987. Lower hog prices will account for the bulk of the decline, although higher feed costs will contribute.

Increased pork supplies will limit seasonal price retails. Of all hog operators, feeder pig producers are likely to experience the largest year-to-year declines in profitability, with higher feed costs and lower pig prices squeezing marging. Finishing operations should fare somewhat better, as reduced feeder pig prices help offset a decline in hog prices.

Fixed costs per head may be slightly lower as a greater share of slaughter animals comes from large production facilities. If so, the breakeven point may be lower than last year.

Reprinted from the March issue of "Agricultural Outlook."

Broiler Production May Be 7% Higher

Broiler production during 1987 was estimated more than 9 percent above 1986. The quarterly broiler hatchery supply flock estimates, which correlate with first-, second-, and third-quarter 1988 slaughter, were 15, 13, and 8 percent greater than in 1986, respectively.

Monthly hatch and weekly chick placements suggest that first-quarter 1988 production may be 7 percent larger than a year ago. Production during all of 1988 is projected only 5 percent above last year, mainly because of narrowing profit margins.

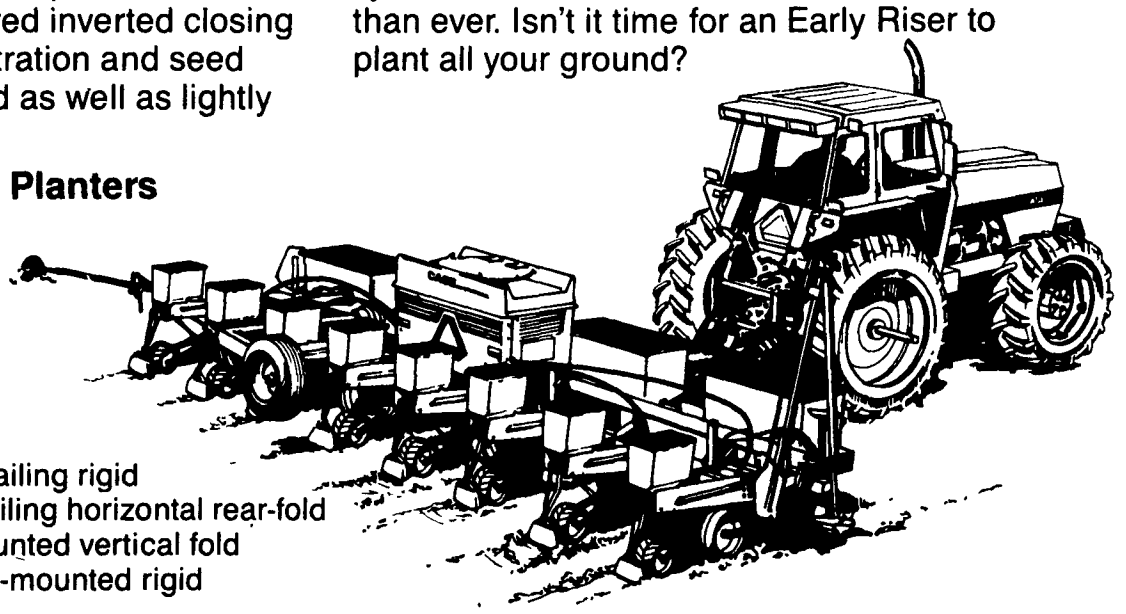
CASE IH 900 SERIES EARLY RISER PLANTERS

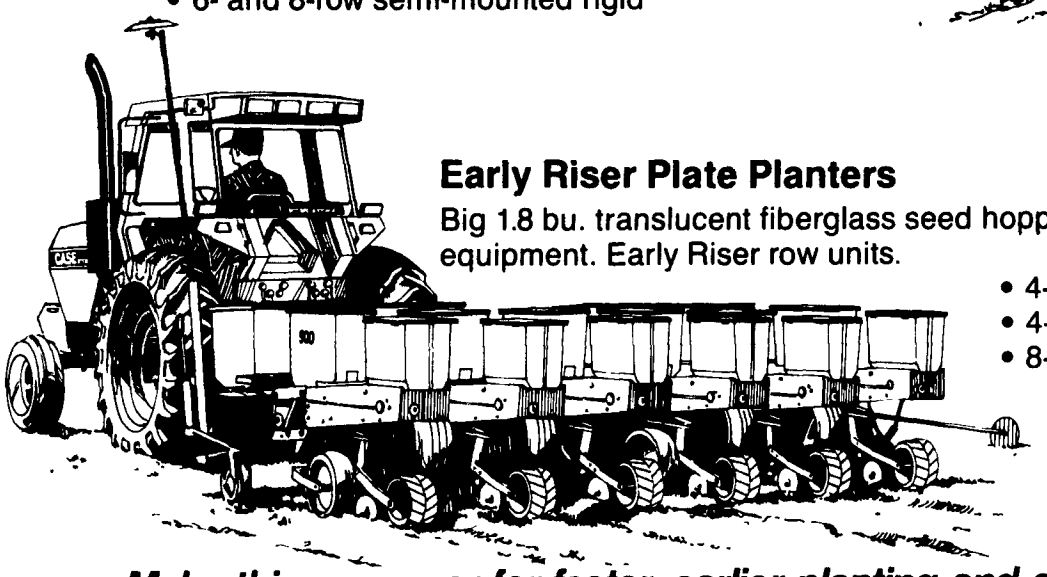
No matter what type of tillage you practice — conventional, no-till or min-till — the 900 Series Early Riser Planters are your answer. Their improved state-of-the-art row unit design, with exclusive staggered Earth Metal® double-disk openers, patented furrow firming points and staggered inverted closing disks, ensures good penetration and seed furrow closing in no-till sod as well as lightly or conventionally tilled seedbeds. Which means you can switch from conventional till to no-till without adding weights or special coulters. These Case IH 900 Series Planters have improved features, options, metering systems and row units to make them better than ever. Isn't it time for an Early Riser to plant all your ground?

Early Riser Cyclo® Air Planters

Huge 15 bu. centralized seed hopper (two hoppers on 12- and 16-row models). Quick-change seed drums. Cyclo Air precision seed metering system. Early Riser row units.

- 4-, 6- and 8-row trailing rigid
- 12- and 16-row trailing horizontal rear-fold
- 8- and 12-row mounted vertical fold
- 6- and 8-row semi-mounted rigid





Early Riser Plate Planters

Big 1.8 bu. translucent fiberglass seed hoppers. Quick-change planting equipment. Early Riser row units.

- 4-, 6- and 8-row trailing rigid
- 4-, 6- and 8-row mounted rigid
- 8- and 12-row mounted vertical fold

Make this your year for faster, earlier planting and earlier-rising crops . . . with 900 Series Early Riser Planters.

"Pork Challenge" Research Selects Breeding Stock

DES MOINES, IOWA — A first-of-its-kind swine test program culminating at the 1988 World Pork Expo is taking a hard look at both ends of the food production chain -- the pig and the pork consumer.

"Pork Challenge" is being called a benchmark study of commercial pigs resulting from industry breed or breed line combinations.

While Pork Challenge will measure traditional performance characteristics, according to Dr. David Meeker of the National Pork Producers Council, the program goes beyond production traits to evaluate the qualities of the end product.

"This testing program is going a step further than any others we know of," explains Meeker, director of research and education for the NPPC. "We're studying breeding programs to see how they may best suit the needs of pork producers and consumers alike."

Results of the eight-month-long project will be presented at the first World Pork Expo, set for June 12-14 at the Iowa State Fairgrounds in Des Moines.

Pork Challenge is a cooperative program of the NPPC, the Minnesota Pork Producers Association and Iowa State University. Research funding has been provided by Pitman-Moore, Inc.

Emphasis On Breeding Programs

The genetic evaluation test differs from conventional production and and progeny tests in several ways, Meeker says.

"The program is designed to study breeds, breed combinations and hybrids -- not individual sires," Meeker explains. "Commercial producers entered groups of eight pigs, all with the same genetic background. Because we're looking at eight head -- not one -- the results should give us a more representative picture of differences among breeding programs."

"We'll also be measuring a multitude of traits important to consumers, including cholesterol and fat content within the muscle. That's never been done as part of a performance test," Meeker says.

Dr. Lauren Christian, swine professor at Iowa State University, and graduate student Rodney Goodwin are leading the data gathering and tabulation efforts.

Study Groups Of Pigs

The test began in September at New Ulm, Minnesota. With a grant from Pitman-Moore, NPPC solicited and paid for more than 800 pigs entered by producers from nine states.

"We encouraged commercial producers to enter because we wanted market pigs," Meeker says. Producer entries consisted of four barrows and four gilts.

The eight major swine breeds and four hybrid breeding companies -- Farmers Hybrid, PIC, Babcock and DeKalb -- are represented.

After the pigs adjusted to the facilities, they were started on test at approximately 70 pounds. Three groups of eight -- all with similar genetic backgrounds -- were fed together in one pen.

Iowa State's Christian explains that each pig has been evaluated for average daily gain. Each pen of 24 pigs was evaluated for feed efficiency. A committee scored feet and leg soundness and structure when the pigs reached market weight.

"Pork Challenge"

Carcass traits measured included back fat, muscle score, length, loin eye and percent lean. A sample of each pig's loin eye muscle was taken to the meat laboratory at Iowa State and tested for consumer-oriented traits including cholesterol, fat content and the quality traits of marbling, color and firmness.

Results Compare Breeding Programs

Results of the Pork Challenge test will rank pigs individually and by breed group for each of the specific traits measured. The final ranking will be based on efficient production of acceptable quality lean gain.

Both Meeker and Christian caution that the program's goal is to provide producers with a base for analyzing future breeding decisions.

"One thing we do want to stress is that even though this is a large test, there still will not be enough data to either discourage or recommend a certain breeding program," Meeker says. "There are many successful breeding programs out there."

"If producers know certain traits are lacking in their herds, they can study the data and probably find combinations that are good in the traits they need," Meeker says. "What we want to do is give them information they can use to improve their herds."

Producer Incentives

The bottom line for producers who select seedstock for feed efficiency and percent lean is increased profit potential, Meeker and Christian agree. Selling pigs on the basis of grade and yield can boost producer income as much as $3.50 per pig, according to Christian.

However, the biggest incentive for producers should be an improved end product, Meeker says. This will help insure good consumer demand in the future.

"This research program will help show consumers how good pork is right now and let them know that producers are working on producing an even-better product," Meeker says.

Charolais Sire Summary Available

KANSAS CITY, MO — The 1988 American-International Charolais Association (AICA) field data sire summary offers a list of registered Charolais bulls that have had offspring registered with the AICA during the past two years. It lists only bulls that have an accuracy of 0.65 or better for weaning weight. The higher the accuracy figure, the most confidence you can place on the performance predictability of the offspring of the bull(s) you choose to use.

The trait leaders list for weaning, yearling, milk and maternal has been expanded in the 1988 edition to the top 20 bulls. These lists also include only active bulls. This does not imply that the active bulls are the only ones you should consider using. The 1987 AICA sire summary can be used to obtain information on any bull in the Charolais breed that has an accuracy figure of 0.50 or better for weaning weight.

There's no other breed that can match Charolais for performance, carcass merit or net return. These traits are what make Charolais the great breed that it is.

To obtain a Charolais sire summary, contact the AICA at P.O. Box 20247, Kansas City, MO 64195 or call 816/464-5977.

Coyote Indemnity Program

For the past decade, north-central Keystone sheep herds have been plagued by "unusual dog kills." The culprits turned out to be eastern coyotes-- a species that even the Pennsylvania Game Commission denied existed until a few years ago.

Problem is, the state pays market value indemnity for dog kills, but not coyotes.

This oversight may be rectified if a bill amended in Senate ag committee becomes law. As amended, H.B. 1574 would okay indemnity payments for livestock and poultry killed or injured by coyotes.

Total state indemnity payouts will be limited to $20,000 annually. Funding would come from the dog law fund, which generates $3.2 million each year through Fido license fees.

1. Fresh Dry™
HAY CONDITIONER

Chemical conditioning improves your odds of beating the rain by cutting your drying time in half. Fast, even drying means you can cut and bale more hay at peak maturity for increased yield, higher protein content and greater profitability. (Effective on legumes only)

2. Field Fresh™
HAY PRESERVATIVE

Now you can bale from dawn to dusk. Because our 80/20 blend preservative permits safe baling at moisture levels up to 30%. Proven to save time and money, Field Fresh improves profit potential by increasing dry matter recovery as much as 15%.

3. Silage Fresh™
ENZYME ADDITIVE

Our new, 25% more concentrated enzyme group controls fermentation faster, by quickly reducing heat and pH. Water soluble and easy to apply, it ensures enzyme activity throughout the ensiled matter for maximum quality and optimum feed efficiency.

4. Silage Fresh™
BACTERIAL INOCULANT

The newest in forage preservative technology, our water soluble inoculant supplies the beneficial bacteria needed for fast and efficient fermentation. It improves silage digestibility as well, resulting in increased production and profit per ton of ensiled forage. Economical, a 200 gm jar treats 50 tons of silage.

Dealers from Germany, France, and Holland visited C.J. Wonsidler Bros., a Deutz-Allis dealership.

C.J. Wonsidler Bros. Hosts European Dealers

QUAKERTOWN — C.J. Wonsidler Bros., Trumbauersville, who is the largest Deutz-Allis farm machinery dealership on the East Coast, hosted 70 German, French and Danish dealers visiting the United States on March 14th.

Charles Wonsidler, owner of the dealership with his brother, Jesse, were very excited about showing, demonstrating, and sharing the American line of Deutz-Allis equipment which varies from the European line. The American line includes the DA 8000 Series of tractors, Gleaner combines, and the entire Lawn & Garden tractor line which is not offered in the European line.

An interpreter accompanied the group, although Charles Wonsidler said he was able to communicate a little bit with the group on his own. Wonsidler's wife, Ruth, and daughter, Darlene, who also work at the dealership, were on hand to greet and spend the day with the visiting dealers.

Wonsidler said that following a tour of the dealership the group had a meal at Benetz Inn, Quakertown and then visited one of Wonsidler's customers, Penn View Farm, owned and operated by Paul and John Hockman in Perkasie. Hockmans milk 150 head of Holstein Dairy cows. Brothers Paul and John provided a complete operation tour of the dairy barn and milk plant where they pasteurize, homogenize, bottle, and sell their own milk to the public.

C.J. Wonsidler Bros., a family business, has been selling the Deutz-Allis equipment for 20 years.

Jack Dahl (right), outgoing president of the National Cattlemen's Association (NCA), accepts a $2,500 check from Rich Shuler, vice president, general manager of Syntex Animal Health during the NCA convention last month. This is the eighth year Syntex has donated a $2,500 check to the NCA as part of the company's commitment to the beef industry. The check was donated on behalf of the five VIP's featured in Syntex advertisements during the past year.

Franklin 4-H Dairy Awards Given

Franklin Co. Correspondent

KAUFFMAN STATION — Three former Dairy Club leaders with a combined total of 76 years of service among them spoke at the Franklin County 4-H Dairy Awards Banquet and Reorganization meeting. They shared reminiscences of the early years of the Dairy Club. Speaking to club members and their families, last month at Kauffman Community Center were Richard Harshman, with 22 years of service to the Dairy Club; Kenneth Mummert, 30 years of service; and John Stoner, 24 years. Carl Hartman, 1987 club president, presented certificates of appreciation to the men on behalf of the 4-H Dairy Council.

Robert Eckstine, Mercersburg, announced that the annual 4-H calf sale will be held April 15 at Ralph Horst's auction barn. Twenty-one head have been consigned so far. The sale will be open to all bidders.

Phil Wagner, Extension Dairy Agent, presented the project book awards.

Eric Horsh, 12, son of Linda Horsh, St. Thomas, was named Outstanding First Year Dairy Club member for 1987. He was presented with a certificate by Raymond Shoemaker of the Letterkenny Federal Credit Union, which sponsors the club. He will also receive a trophy for his achievement.

Club member Dale Mummert, Chambersburg, was recently named Outstanding Guernsey Boy in Pennsylvania by the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeder's Association.

Winning Dairy Bowl Team members were also recognized. First place teams were Western A Team in the Junior Division and Western B Team in the Senior Division. Western B Team (juniors) and Hamilton-St. Thomas B Team (seniors) took second place ribbons.

Newly elected officers are: Mike Flannery, vice-president; Eleanor Stoner, secretary, Elam Meyers, treasurer; and Nina Burdette, public relations director.

Farmers Attend Alfalfa Seminars

SYRACUSE, NY — Farmer interest in improving profits from alfalfa production was evident at a recent series of Agway-sponsored alfalfa seminars.

A total of 140 alfalfa growers participated in alfalfa ICM (Integrated Crop Management) seminars conducted at seven locations in New York and Pennsylvania.

According to Steven R. Carr, farm seed product manager at Agway, farmers were invited to a series of professional crop management seminars focusing on profitable alfalfa production.

A combination of crop experts from the University of Maryland, Penn State, and Cornell joined professionals from Agway's research and applied technology alfalfa ICM project to present the latest alfalfa management information available.

Attending farmers plan to utilize the information to fine tune their individual alfalfa growing programs with management practices which combine high yields and improved forage quality.

Dr. David J. Pieczarka, crops research and applied technology director at Agway, emphasized that technical information combined with improved seed varieties and proper liming and fertilization will help farmers produce six, eight, or even 10 tons of high quality alfalfa per acre.

The seminars were held in Batavia, Corning, Glen Falls, and Utica, New York, and Altoona, Gettysburg, and Reading, Pennsylvania. A series of alfalfa seminars is being planned for early 1989 at other locations in the Northeast.

Vermeer Adds 5051 To Round Baler Line

PELLA, Ia. — A new, price-sensitive, giant round baler designed for hay producers with tight-fisted budgets has been introduced by Vermeer Manufacturing Co., Pella, Iowa 50219.

The 505I requires a 50 hp tractor and harvests bales weighing up to 1,300 lbs. (590 kg) and measuring 5 foot in diameter by 5 foot wide (152x152 cm). The 3,320 lb. (1507 kg) unit is available with hydraulic or electric bale wrap and features an open throat, easy start design; spring-loaded bale tension; bale size and bale wrap indicators; and a Waltersheild PTO for constant operating speeds, even at 80° turns.

A 4-bar floating pick-up with adjustable tines handles windrows up to 61 inches (155 cm) wide. Optional hay-saver wheels handle the excess. The unit also features adjustable belt tracking which "squares" the machine for "true" tracking during the baling operation, and rubber-mounted pick-up teeth.

Verneer's baler harvests bales weighing up to 1,300 pounds and measuring 5 feet in diameter.

Burkholder Completed Factory Service School

WILLOW STREET — E.M. Herr Equipment, Inc. is pleased to announce that Mr. Richard (Dick) Burkholder has recently completed factory service school for Weigh-Tronix feed milling and pneumatic feed distribution equipment held at the Weight Tronix factory in Fairmont, MN. Mr. Burkholder was taught problem solving techniques and methods for selecting the correct components for a customers feed milling and handling needs.

E.M. Herr Equipment Inc. is a full line factory distributor of Weight Tronix feed milling and pneumatic feed conveying equipment. An extensive inventory of parts is maintained at the Willow Street (Lanc. Co.) location to provide rapid service should a problem arise. Custom installation, routine and emergency service, complete design and blueprinting of feed mill installation is available along with free cash flow analysis for hog and poultry producers.

Mr. Burkholder for the last 22 years has designed and sold grain handling equipment, dryers, and livestock equipment for E.M. Herr Equipment Inc. He is ready to assist you in all your farmstead needs now including Weight Tronix feed milling and handling equipment.

E.M. Herr Equipment Inc. is striving to fill all the needs of the farmer from the small producer to the large, with sales and technical people available to help you become more efficient, productive and profitable in your farm enterprise. Mr. Burkholder can be contacted at 1-800-732-0053.

PFU Promoting New Dairy Bill

MESHOPPEN — William Sturges, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Farmer's Union (PFU) announced today that for the past several months PFU has been working with several farm organizations across the United States in developing a new Dairy Bill.

Allen Deiter, President of PFU and Arden Tewksbury, director of PFU's membership activities, recently spent three days in Vermont helping to draft the final language of this proposed bill.

Sturges said, "PFU has been working with organizations like NFO, New York Farm Alliance, Wisconsin Farm Alliance, Rural Vermonter, United Farmers Organization from North and South Carolina, and New York State Farmers Union, among others."

President Deiter said the Board of Directors of PFU will review the proposed dairy bill at a special board meeting at Grantville on April 5th.

According to Tewksbury, the proposed bill is a milk supply management program coupled with a realistic milk price for area dairy farmers.

Some of the highlights of the program are:

1. Return the support price on milk manufactured products to 75% of parity.

2. All dairy farmers would be assigned a milk base using the past five years as the base period. The plan calls to eliminate the high and low years of production and average the three remaining years.

3. Between six and ten regions would be established in the United States to handle the bases and eliminate any further surplus problems.

4. County and Regional Boards will be made up of active dairy farmers.

5. Imports of dairy products would not be allowed to interfere with the program.

Deiter claims the present dairy portion of the farm bill is working to a disadvantage for area dairy farmers and it has to be corrected before thousands more of dairy farmers leave the family farms.

Sturges stated, "That during 1987 PFU surveyed nearly 1,000 dairy farmers in PA and New York State and 73% of the dairymen indicated that they favored a milk supply management program of some type versus current dairy policies. Sturges further stated; "if our board of directors approve the final draft of the bill then we will start having meetings in the county with dairy farmers. We need to find out exactly what dairy farmers think of this proposed bill."

Tewksbury, who also serves as manager of Northern Tier Farmers Union Milk Cooperative, estimates the average dairy farmer has lost nearly $100,000 in gross income since 1981. These losses have come through lower milk prices, government assessments and higher hauling rates. He further stated if you apply a 30% inflation rate since that time, you can imagine the overall impact on dairy farmers.

Deiter and Sturges expressed concern over the upcoming report from the National Dairy Commission.

Sturges said, "We feel the report will not be geared to improve milk prices at a realistic level to area dairy farmers."

Deiter concluded by saying, "Dairy farmers are in the worst financial bind since pre-World War Days; I think the proposed new dairy act can raise milk prices realistically to dairy farmers, while at the same time the act will balance out the reserve supply of milk in this country to a managable level.

Case IH Expects Better Agricultural Equipment Sales In 1988

RACINE, Wis. — A declining supply of good, used agricultural equipment, increased farm income projections and a $45-billion farm debt reduction should set the stage for better agricultural equipment sales in 1988, according to Case IH marketing officials.

"We are cautiously optimistic about the agricultural equipment market in 1988. Industry sales in the second half of 1987 were better than the first half, and we expect that to continue throughout 1988. October's sharp decline in stock prices has not significantly changed our optimism about 1988," said John Gleason, Case IH senior vice president, sales and marketing, North America.

"Historically, the agricultural economy often moves in different directions than other sectors of the economy. The factors that lead to a better 1988 agricultural equipment outlook remain largely unchanged following the October stock market decline," Gleasons said.

Indicators

There are several reasons that Case IH officials are optimistic despite a fluctuating stock market. Throughout 1985 and 1986, farmers accomplished unprecedented debt reduction, partially by delaying necessary equipment replacement decisions. Today, tractors in use on North American farms are an average of 12 years old.

"With supplies of suitable used tractors depleted, farmers will find that new tractor purchases are the most cost-efficient alternative," Gleason predicted.

Supporting this optimism is the improved farm income picture. The improvements caused the USDA to increase 1987 income projections by $2 billion, from $50 billion to $52 billion. Large government farm program payments coupled with stable fuel prices and lower fertilizer and pesticide costs translate into more disposable income for farmers — a key ingredient for increased farm equipment sales in today's dept-wary farm sector.

Additionally, farmland prices are stabilizing in many areas of the country and even increasing in some regions.

The USDA projects farm exports will be up again in the 1987-1988 marketing year. Highlights include: corn exports up by 13 percent, wheat by 44 percent and cotton by 6 percent. These increases are on top of substantial 1986-1987 export increases: corn exports, 21 percent; wheat, 10 percent; and cotton, 240 percent.

"Combined, these key indicators lead to an intangible but important signal; namely, optimism among farmers," Gleason said. "I think most farmers are finally at the point where they believe the worst is indeed over, and that is an important step toward recovery."

Outlook By Product Categories

Case IH analysts expect a modest increase overall in 1988 tractor sales, with increases in the 40- to 99-horsepower and four-wheel-drive categories offsetting expected declines in the 100- to 139-horsepower and over-140-horsepower categories.

In recent years, four-wheel-drive tractor sales have totaled a few thousand units per year. In 1988, sales could increase by several hundred units compared with 1987, sales as a result of the improved financial status and outlook of U.S. grain farmers.

Mid-sized, 40- to 99-horsepower tractors are expected to show an industry-wide increase of up to 8 percent. The strong sales outlook in this category is due primarily to renewed financial strength among livestock farmers, Gleason said.

This is also likely to result in a turnaround year for several hay and forage products. Mower conditioners, conventional balers and forage harvesters are expected to lead sales increases by more than 6 percent, 14 percent and 16 percent, respectively.

Industry combine sales are also expected to increase in 1988. Sales of approximately 7,500 units in 1987 were the lowest recorded since self-propelled combines became the leading combine category. The 1988 outlook for sales of 8,500 units would be significantly stronger, but continuing financial problems for Canadian agriculture will restrain overall increases in North American combine sales, Gleason noted.

Case IH analysts predict the highest increases in planters, jumping 25 percent over 1987 levels. However, a significant portion of this increase is due to unusually low 1987 sales caused by temporary disruptions in industry inventories.

Tillage equipment and other seasonal machines are expected to hold steady in 1988, according to Gleason.

Significant improvements in design and manufacture, mergers and 1987 new product introductions put Case IH in a strong position to benefit from anticipated 1988 sales increases.

"We have invested millions of dollars to streamline our product design and manufacturing processes. The first line of our efforts is evident in the new Magnum tractors," Gleasons said.

The company's late 1986 acquisition of Steiger Tractor Company and the more recent joint manufacturing venture with Hesston Corporation further broaden its product offerings in the promising four-wheel-drive tractor and hay and forage equipment categories.

"The agricultural equipment business and farmers have all been through a tough round of consolidation, restructuring and debt reduction, Gleason said. "Now we hope that the industry, like farmers, is able to return to stability and profitability in 1988 and the years ahead."

Berks ASCS, Conservation District Sponsor Banquet

LEESPORT — The Berks County Conservation District along with the Berks County Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Service (A.S.C.S.) will again be sponsoring a banquet to honor conservation efforts in Berks County. This year it will be held at Haags Hotel in Shartlesville on Monday, April 11, at 7:00 PM.

Dr. Dean Steinhart who is an Environmental Education Advisor in the Pennsylvania Department of Education will be the main speaker of the evening. Jack Gounder, a District Director and former radio announcer will act as the Master of Ceremonies and keep the awards and events moving.

To be honored as Outstanding Conservation Farmer of the Year will be Lewis B. Nolt of Marion Township. This is a family dairy farm operation and many conservation practices have long been in place on this property. Contour strips, diversions, grassed waterways, conservation tillage, cover cropping, a conservation rotation, and tile drainage are all used. A manure-storage facility is now in the planning stages.

Three other farmers to be recognized for their conservation efforts are Kermit B. Heeps of Greenwich Township, Dean E. Kramer of Upper Bern Township, and Mark F. Wolfskill of Heidelberg Township. They will all receive Berks Conservation District signs for their farms.

The Outstanding Conservation Educator of the Year is Lynn W. Scheirer who teaches in the Muhlenberg Senior High School. Conservation and environmental concerns have long been integrated into his biology courses. This year he was the advisor to the team from his school, which won the first Berks County Envir-Olympics, and under his guidance went on to place fifth out of 34 teams in the State Competition.

The Agri-Business Commitee of the Berks County Chamber of Commerce will receive the award for the Outstanding Organization of 1987. The committee headed by Co-Chairmen Bill Hughes and Ernest O. Miller has been very active promoting understanding between the urban and rural populations in Berks County. They assist in activities such as Ag-Day on Penn Square and the Farm City Banquet. They have been instrumental in proposing positions on several issues that the local chamber has adopted and then passed on to the state chamber. The Ag Land Preservation legislation and the referendum are examples of this concern. They published a beautiful brochure on Agriculture in Berks County and how important it is as our #1 industry.

The Forestry Award Winners for 1987 are William and Barbara Yatron of Strausstown. They have been carrying out a woodlot-management program on their acreage for several years now. They also won the Regional Award in the M.K. Goddard Forestry Contest at the state level. They have a certified tree farm.

David Nace of the Brandywine Heights School District in Topton was the state winner this year in the NACD/Deutz-Allis Conservation Educator Award. He was honored at the PACDD Convention in the Fall but will also be recognized at this banquet. He was honored by the district in 1980 as the Outstanding Conservation Educator.

Farmers, Ranchers Eligible For Major Conservation Awards

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The search is on for farmers and ranchers who conserve their soil and water in innovative and cost-effective ways.

The sixth annual National Soil and Water Conservation Awards program is sponsored by the National Endowment for Soil and Water Conservation and funded by the Du Pont Company.

One farmer or rancher in each state is selected by June 1988 and that family is honored in a variety of statewide events. The state winners are eligible for national honors.

"We believe that recognizing the true leaders who achieve soil and water conservation can encourage many others to adopt improved conservation practices," said Emmett Barker, chairman of the Endowment and president of the Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute. "These remarkable farmers and ranchers show that soil and water conservation can be accomplished voluntarily by people who do it because it is good business. We want everyone to know that conservation is an essential investment in a healthy, sustainable agriculture."

John A. Krol, group vice president of Du Pont Agricultural Products, said, "We are in the midst of a revolutionary change in the way people work their land to produce food and fiber. With the new farm laws and water quality laws taking hold, it is not enough to highlight the importance or the responsibility of conserving agricultural resources. It is not enough to point out the potential impacts of not conserving resources. We must help many more people understand how to protect their resources and how to blend conservation effectively into their farming/ranching operation. That's why the Du Pont Company is funding this important conservation program."

The top conservation farmer or rancher in each state is selected by committees of farm, conservation and government leaders. From these state winners, 10 national finalists are selected. They are their spouses receive an expense-paid trip to attend a national awards ceremony in the fall. From the 10 finalists, three national winners are chosen to receive a $1,000 cash award at a special ceremony in Washington.

National winners in the 1987 program were from Missouri, Nevada and Vermont. The other finalists were from Alabama, Illinois, Maryland, Michigan, New Jersey, North Carolina and Oregon.

Dow Petitioning For Label Changes On Lorsban 50W

MIDLAND, MI. — Apple growers across most of the Northeast will have a much wider range of control options for their insect pest control programs this year as a result of new use recommendations for Lorsban* 50W insecticide.

According to Mike LeCuyer, Dow Chemical Company product marketing manager for Lorsban insecticides in horticultural crops, Dow is petitioning the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) for label changes under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA) amendment.

Section 2EE of the FIFRA amendment allows a manufacturer or individual to recommend pesticide application at less than label rates, while still adhering to EPA rules.

The requested revisions include lower application rates for several pest species currently on the product label (less than a rate of three pounds per acre). Those states where the revised rates will apply include Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia and West Virginia. The label revisions will not pertain to New York state for the 1988 growing season.

Hank Head, product technical manager for Lorsban insecticides in horticultural crops, explains that Dow has been working closely with regulatory officials, extension specialists, university researchers and others to pave the way for the section 2EE recommendations.

"Based on several years of field research data across the U.S. we are confident that growers can continue successfully using Lorsban 50W for broad spectrum pest control while following the new application rates for certain pests," Head says.

LeCuyer notes that the proposed product label changes reflect changing market requirements for pest management and Dow's commitment to help apple growers develop effective pest control programs.

"The proposed label revisions for Lorsban 50W respond to the needs of growers in a changing market environment as shown by several years of product performance data," LeCuyer explains. "Under the new label guidelines, Lorsban 50W could be used alone or in tank mixes for effective and economical control of regional pests. In most cases this means growers can control pest populations at a lower cost since they'll use less chemical."

The proposed label changes should help growers effectively control special pest problems in their own region in addition to all insects currently on the label. In some cases, application rates will remain at the current three pounds per acre. For other insects, a lower rate will be recommended, either when Lorsban 50W is used alone or in combination with other insecticides.

Protection of predatory mites and other beneficial insect species remains a priority with the new rates. Among the broad spectrum insecticides, Lorsban 50W already ranks as one of the least toxic to predators. In areas where the ladybird beetle (Stethorus punctum), predacious mites (Amblyseius fallacis and Typhlodromus pyri) and other beneficial insects are present, the new label recommendations will help growers maintain these valuable predator populations in their orchards.

A product bulletin detailing recommendations for Lorsban 50W is available from Dow Chemical. For more information on how this will affect pest control recommendations in your area, contact your regional Dow agricultural products sales representative.

Potatoes Stored In State Has Decreased

HARRISBURG — Total stocks of potatoes stored in Pennsylvania on March 1 were 1,340,000 cwt., 4 percent less than a year ago, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service.

Of the amount, 695,000 cwt. was stored in processors facilities, 52 percent of the total stocks.

Stocks are defined as the quantity, whether sold or not, remaining in storage for all purposes and uses, including shrinkage and waste and other losses that occur after the date of each report. Stocks may also include potatoes produced in other states.

Sales of fall potatoes for all purposes generally account for about 90 percent of the total fall production. Shrinkage, loss and home use account for the remaining 10 percent.

Storage of fall potatoes in the 15 fall-storage states totaled 138 million cwt., up 7 percent from last year but 1 percent below two years ago. Stocks on March 1 accounted for 41 percent of fall production this year, compared with 42 percent a year ago.

Disappearance from harvest to March 1 this year totaled 195 million cwt., 9 percent above last year. Shrinkage and loss totaled 22.2 million cwt., up 4 percent from last year but 40 percent below two years ago.

Processing usage in the eight major processing states totals 85.2 million cwt. so far this season, up 11 percent from last year.

The perfect tool for ridge and minimum till

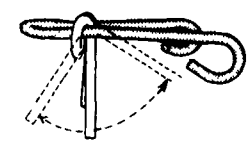
The Fuerst harrow cleans ridge tops, creating excellent seedbed. Unique "Spreading Action"® tines hug the soil at faster speeds to shred and evenly spread no-till stalks in the spring.

Dozens of uses:

The harrow used behind a disc or cultivator, incorporates herbicides in one pass. Used alone, it covers broadcasted seed, renovates, maintains pastures and more.

The harrow/cart (an optional harrow carrier as shown) follows tight turns, has folding wings for easy transport. Harrow and cart are available in 16 to 42 ft. widths.

"I believe the harrow works as good as a stalk shredder; it lifts and shatters the stalks and yet doesn't tear up the ground."
Roger Bommer--
Brookville, IN



Free swinging tines
Fuerst's free swinging "Spreading Action"® tines make it the ONLY harrow that can effectively incorporate and shed trash

IT DOES YOUR FOOTWORK

The Kubota L2550 GST Diesel Tractor will save you a lot of footwork, making weekend farming or light construction a little easier.

Kubota's Glide Shift Transmission lets the driver shift gears without using a clutch pedal. Saving you footwork. And saving time, fuel, and unnecessary wear and tear on the engine.

Superior hydraulics give the Kubota L2550 GST front loading lift capacity of more than a ton.

Four-wheel drive and direct fuel injection assure power and economy. Implements for mowing, tilling and even towing give a versatility any owner will appreciate.

Let the Kubota L2550 GST save you footwork today.
